

House Speaker Suggests Commission Hearings

SALEM (AP) — House Speaker Robert Duncan, D-Medford, Tuesday asked the House Welfare and State and Federal Affairs committees to hold joint hearings on the Welfare Commission.

Noting that Gov. Mark O. Hatfield asked persons to bring complaints on welfare abuses to their legislators, Duncan said a public hearing would be the best way to air complaints.

He said in all fairness persons involved should be permitted to present their side.

The speaker said the governor's action might materially affect progress toward reorganization of the executive branch of state government.

Says Counties Want Available Surplus Foods

SALEM (AP) — Sen. E. D. Potts, D-Grants Pass, said Tuesday that Klamath and Josephine counties are ready to use federal surplus foods whenever they are available.

Potts said he was authorized to speak for both counties. He is a member of the Senate State and Federal Affairs Committee, which Monday looked into the use of the surplus food.

Potts spoke out after Jeanne Jewett, state Public Welfare administrator, told the Senate State and Federal Affairs Committee that Oregon counties are not using surplus food because it is too costly to administer.

A member of the state Welfare Commission, Mrs. Lee Patterson, told the committee that the program has not been carried out because the counties refuse to administer it.

Straub Asks New Agency

SALEM (AP) — Sen. Robert W. Straub, D-Eugene, Democratic state chairman, Tuesday called for passage of legislation to create an agency to sell electric power.

Straub said that Gov. Mark O. Hatfield's plan to hold an economic conference here Feb. 2 doesn't go far enough.

A state power agency, Straub said, would enable Oregon to get its full share of Bonneville power and help break the economic shackles imposed upon our economy.

Straub said that in Hatfield's legislative message three weeks ago, he painted a rosy picture.

"I'm glad he has finally awakened to the real ills of our economy and has called this state-wide conference to consider emergency action to correct our serious unemployment problem," Straub said.

New Water Tank Is Best Answer

By ANN LANDERS
Dear Ann Landers: What can I do about a husband who is more childish than his children?

Have you ever heard of the father of two boys consistently racing them for the bathroom so he can get first crack at the hot water?

I don't mind for myself. The fact that I haven't enjoyed a hot bath for years does not bother me. But I do feel that boys 19 and 12 take luke-warm or cold baths all year around.

My husband was an only child and he's plenty spoiled. He also grabs the best cuts of meat for himself and if his piece of pie is a little smashed he'll trade with one of the kids.

Have you ever heard of this sort of thing? Please tell me what to do.—BLANK WALL

Dear Blank: You have three children—not two—and they are all out of the ordinary. It's unusual for a father to be so petty and selfish, but to have two sons, 19 and 12 years of age, who actually want to take a bath hot or cold is virtually unheard of.

There's nothing you can do about a man who snatches the choice cuts of meat for himself, because the platter should be offered to the man of the house before the kids. You can remedy the hot water situation however. Buy a larger hot-water heater and give him the bill on your next birthday.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a college student with a problem that may sound trivial but it has been causing me terrific embarrassment.

I am rooming with a girl from my hometown. We live in a dorm—1600 and three students to a room. I agreed to room with her in a moment of pity because she was very unpopular in high school.

Almost every day she will say to me in front of another student (or preferably a group), "You stole my toothpaste" or "Why did you take my comb and brush?" This morning she stormed into the dining hall during breakfast and shouted "Why did you take my box of soap flakes?" I excused myself and took her back to the room and showed her the soap flakes were under her bed—where she had put them.

I'm fed up on these accusations. She refuses to apologize to set the record straight. What can I do?—WHIPPING POST

Dear Post: Go to the head of housing arrangements and ask to be assigned to another roommate as soon as possible.

Dear Ann Landers: Who is right? Please decide, I go with a fellow who is always short of mon. ey, I have a good job and know how to pay my bills and save a little, too.

He needed $25 to meet an insurance payment and promised to pay me back next payday. Well, I gave him the $25 and now, several paydays later, he still hasn't made good his word.

When I asked him for the money last night he said, "You're mighty cheap." Then he enumerated to the penny how much he had spent on me in the last two months. Now I feel funny about the $25. Do you think I should skip it?—IN DOUBT

Dear In: Absolutely not. The money he spent on you was no payment for the loan. One thing has nothing whatever to do with the other.

P.S. He sounds like a gem. Are you sure you can afford him?!!!

IN THE LEGISLATURE... Counties Would Regain Timber Control

SALEM (AP) — Two Democrats, Rep. Bill Holmstrom of Gearhart and Rep. Clarence Barton of Coquille, Tuesday introduced a bill to allow the counties to get back management of their timber lands now vested with the state.

Barton and Holmstrom estimated that more than 100,000 acres could be involved under the permissive legislation.

Barton said the counties need the timber areas so they can put persons to work in them under the state welfare work relief programs.

There are some 6,000 acres of this land in Coos County, Barton said. Holmstrom said 50,000 to 60,000 acres are involved in Clatsop County.

Barton explained that the counties would not have to take over the management but they could if they wished.

The lands were obtained by the counties in depression times through tax foreclosures in most cases.

The counties at the time needed money and turned the lands over to state management. The state gets 15 per cent of timber sales revenue as a management commission.

Barton said some counties, and he pointed to Coos County as an example, have foresters and can manage the lands more cheaply than the state.

Deductions Bill

SALEM (AP) — Legislation to permit parents to retain children as income tax deductions, if they are college students, will be introduced by Sen. Alfred H. Corbett, D-Portland, he said Tuesday.

Such deductions aren't allowed now if the child earns more than $600 a year.

OK Ballot Bill

SALEM (AP) — The Oregon Senate Tuesday approved a bill to end the confusion in voting precincts as to whether the voter or election clerk should drop the ballot in the box.

The bill says the clerk shall do it. It goes to the House.

Ask To Clarify

SALEM (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert Y. Thornton told the Board of Control Tuesday it should ask the legislature to clarify the laws which allow the courts to send sex criminals to the state hospital for examination.

Sees Loophole

SALEM (AP) — Rep. Edward W. Elder, R-Eugene, said Tuesday he is introducing a bill to make it a misdemeanor to enter a private dwelling without the implied or express consent of the owner.

He said there now is a loophole in the burglary law so that it isn't always possible to prosecute an unwanted intruder.

The bill wouldn't apply to a person who enters a home to help a person in distress, or to prevent damage to the home.

Number Positions

SALEM (AP) — The House Local Government Committee Tuesday voted to have the commissioners of Multnomah, Clackamas and Lane counties run for election by numbered positions.

The bill was introduced by Rep. Edward W. Elder, R-Eugene. Originally, it applied only to Clackamas and Lane counties, but the committee added Multnomah.

Those are the only three counties which have three commissioners each. The other counties each have two commissioners and a county judge.
