Food Issue

Is Slated At Welfare

The problem of distributing surplus foods in Oregon counties, which has become something of a political football recently, will be considered by the Klamath County Welfare Commission at its regular meeting Friday morning.

Reuben Larson, chairman of the Klamath County Welfare Commission, said the commission and county court would explore the problem Friday. Larson said the surplus food issue is "considerably more complex than it appears on the surface."

State Sen. E. D. Potts of Grants Pass said Tuesday that Klamath and Josephine counties are set up and ready to use federal surplus foods whenever they are available. County Judge R. R. (Bob) Walker qualified that statement by saying that Klamath County would cooperate in the program if some of the red tape can be ironed out.

The county welfare commission and county court turned the program down two years ago on the grounds that it was too expensive to administer. Commodities were limited, had to be accepted in carload lots, had to be repackaged and transportation costs were paid by the counties.

Oregon is one of only eight states not using federal surplus foods, Jeanne Jewett, state public welfare administrator, Tuesday said the state is not participating in the program because it is too expensive to administer. A member of the state commission, Mrs. Lee Patterson, said the program is not being carried out "because the counties refuse to administer it."

Surplus foods are issued to welfare recipients in addition to regular food grants. Schools and state institutions have first priorities on surpluses. Such foods are presently being used by the county juvenile and nursing homes.

State Police List Mishap

Despite heavy rains Monday night and Tuesday morning, city and state police reported only one traffic accident—and that one was minor.

City police said a car driven by Kermit M. Schreckhise, 43, 419 North Tenth Street, apparently backed into a parked car owned by David C. Groves, 25, 1434 Lakeview Street, in front of Schreckhise's house. Damage was minor and no citations were issued.

City police also turned an unlicensed puppy over to Don Libby, poundmaster, Tuesday. The puppy, about two months old, was brown with white feet and chest and appeared to be part Springer.

A tire slashing incident was reported by Jack Casey Sr., 2350 Siskiyou Street. He said one of his tires, worth $30, was slashed Saturday night in the parking lot of the Holiday Bowl.

Reapportioning Group Named

SALEM (AP) — House Republican leader F. F. Montgomery, Eugene, today named a 12-member committee to study legislative reapportionment.

He said the committee, with three men from each of the state's four congressional districts, would hold its first meeting Sunday. It must report to the House Republicans by March 15.

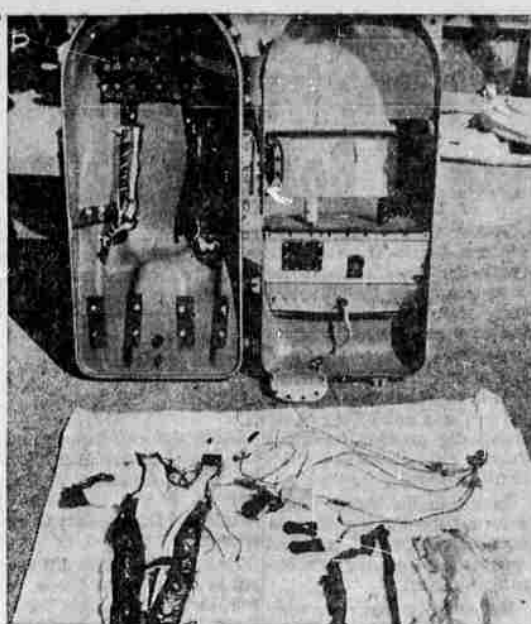

Members are Robert G. Davis, Grants Pass; Russell Tripp, Albany; Eugene Marsh, McMinnville; Clay Myers, Earl Bollinger and Robert E. Jones, all of Portland; Edward Bennett, Springfield; Paul Lundy, Milwaukie; Alan W. Christensen, Summerville; Bill Bradeen, Burns; Mrs. Colan McKinnon, Corvallis; and Wyatt Padgett, Klamath Falls.

Clark To Take Foreign Post

PORTLAND (AP) — Brig. Gen. Allen F. Clark Jr. will retire Wednesday from the Corps of Engineers, whose North Pacific division he now heads.

He will become managing director for the Harza Engineering Co. in West Pakistan, where he will supervise a 10-year water resource development project known as the Indus River program.

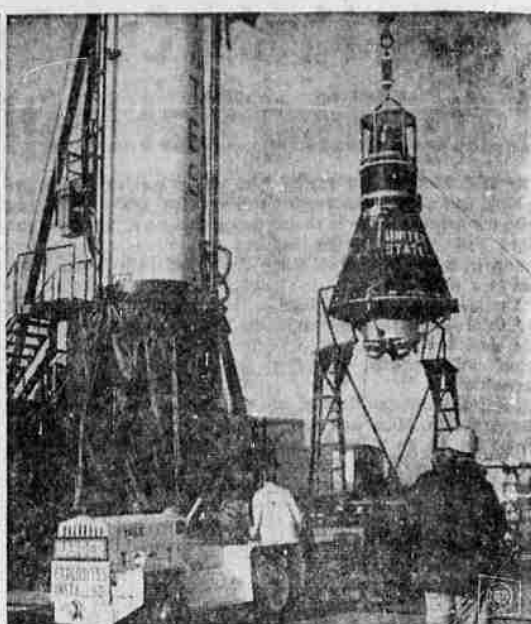

Clark will leave Feb. 12 for Chicago for a month's briefing by the Harza firm. The World Bank is financing a billion dollar development program, including the Indus River project, under an agreement with India and Pakistan.

Senate OKs $10 Million For Campus Structures

SALEM (AP) — The Oregon House of Representatives today unanimously approved a $10 million bond issue to build dormitories and related structures at the state's university and colleges. The bill goes to the Senate.

The measure increases from $24 million to $34 million the limit on the amount of self-liquidating bonds that the Board of Higher Education can issue for dormitories. It carries out a constitutional amendment by which the voters decided last November to let the legislature authorize up to $70 million of the dorm bonds.

March Nets Big Total In Klamath

The annual Mothers' March for the New March of Dimes netted the county campaign a total of $1,250. The drive for funds was held Tuesday night beginning at 6 o'clock.

Mel Loy and Tom Marchant, co-chairmen for the 1961 effort, commended the youth groups, Satan's Chauffeurs, the Pelicanettes, Pep Peppers, K Club and the Coachmen of Klamath Union High School for their work. "These groups did an outstanding job in the brief time they had to organize the drive," Loy said in reporting the amount of cash collected.

Ken Briscoe, president of the Klamath Falls Exchange Club, reported $250 donated during the annual Bond of Dimes campaign Jan. 28. Paul Back chairmanned the Exchange Club drive. Students of Klamath Union High School Script and Mike classes manned the public address system all day. Electricity for the system was provided by the management of the J. C. Penney Store.

Members of a service club will contact merchants for cash donations in lieu of the usual merchandise for a public auction.

Two Arrested For Counties

Two young men were arrested by sheriff's deputies Tuesday afternoon on warrants from other Oregon counties.

The first arrest involved Dennis Russell Harris, 26, a living in a trailer on his uncle's farm near Keno. A warrant from the sheriff's department in Roseburg charged Harris with "conspiracy to commit the crime of obtaining money and property by false pretenses." Harris was being returned to Roseburg Wednesday morning.

A 19-year-old Tulelake youth, Nobert Anthes, was arrested Tuesday night by deputies Del Summers and Lou Bogart. He has been charged in a Jackson County District Court warrant with fathering an illegitimate child. Anthes was lodged in the Klamath County Jail in lieu of $500 bail and will be returned to Medford Wednesday or Thursday.

Woodson Rites Held Jan. 20

Funeral services were held Jan. 20 in Santa Barbara for Mrs. Elizabeth Woodson, a former longtime resident of Klamath Falls. Mrs. Woodson died Jan. 27 following an illness of three weeks. She was 84 years old, born Oct. 22, 1877, in Bay Center, Wash. She moved to Santa Barbara in 1939 from Glendale, Ore., to be near her daughters.

She was the daughter of the late Elizabeth Cox who crossed the plains with her husband in 1854 and lived through Indian massacres in the Puget Sound country. Mrs. Woodson was the mother of five daughters, Mrs. Fred A. Bertelsen, Mrs. Fred Burchett, Mrs. Hazel Bishop, all of Santa Barbara, Mrs. Lee Hall of Glendale, and Mrs. Elizabeth Holweger of Los Angeles. Also surviving is a sister, Mrs. Emma McKinley, McMinnville; 13 grandchildren and 31 great-grandchildren.

2 Convicts Are Jailed

Two convicts who escaped from the Marin County (California) Jail and drove a stolen car to Klamath Falls, took another car from the Jim Winde Buick Company Used Car Lot Tuesday but were captured early Wednesday morning by Springfield city police.

E. J. Dowty, used car salesman, called Klamath Falls police Tuesday afternoon and said a man had failed to return after a tryout of a used car. Two escapees were captured in the car in Springfield at 1:30 a.m. Wednesday. They were William S. Agnew, 25, and Boyd G. Griffith, 23.

The pair said they had abandoned the first stolen car in Klamath Falls on South Ninth Street between Walnut and Oak streets. The car was located by city police, who found a variety of stolen bank checks and other items in it.

Speakers Outline Stands On Policy Stated At White House Conference

Policy statements of the White House Conference on Aging were outlined to directors of the Klamath County Community Council at their annual meeting Tuesday night.

Speakers included Mrs. Marshall Cornett, Oregon delegate to the White House Conference; Wilbur Womer, Klamath County Social Security supervisor, and Ross Ragland, president of the council. The meeting was held in the Winema Hotel.

Principal points covered by Mrs. Cornett included discussion of financial aid, housing, free time activities and income maintenance of the aged. She also pointed out that considerable time and study went into the conference recommendation for more trained personnel to assist aged persons.

Mrs. Cornett is Oregon state chairman of the Community Services and Organization Committee, and much of her time in Washington was devoted to attendance of discussion panels on those topics. She urged that some agency in Klamath County set up a study group to consider the need for housing.

Another firm declaration of policy coming from the conference was that aged persons should have more opportunity for useful employment. Mrs. Cornett pointed out that of the 16 million persons over age 65, 12 million have no income from work.

The Oregon State Council on Aging is working as an effective coordinator in meeting the needs of individuals who seek assistance. Mrs. Cornett said. The council provides assistance in the fields of income, health, rehabilitation, housing, employment, recreation and related fields to persons who might otherwise not know where to turn when they have a problem, she explained.

Income maintenance, including financing of health costs, were principal points covered in a discussion by Womer.

Womer explained policies outlined by the White House Conference to the group, with emphasis on financing health costs. Recommended were an expanded federal aid program, encouragement of voluntary health insurance programs, and expansion of the social security mechanism to provide the basic means of financing health care for the aged. Attached to the recommendation was a committee minority report opposing the plan for health assistance under the social security provisions.

Other topics discussed briefly by Womer were old-age, survivors and disability insurance, and public assistance.

The conference recommended that OASDI be extended to cover 100 per cent of all gainfully employed persons, with the level of benefits adjusted from time to time. Benefits of widows should be increased to the same amount as benefits for retired workers.

The conference recommended that the present arrangement of joint financing by federal and state governments of public assistance to the aged be maintained. There are now more than 10 million persons among the aged whose needs exceed any income they may have from all sources, Womer said. The report further asked that Congress amend the Social Security Act to make women eligible for old-age assistance at the age of 62.

Ragland explained results of the conference studies on the role of religion and aging. The report urged that older persons be given responsible functions to perform in the church, and that the churches should institute programs leading to a greater understanding of the problems of the aged.

Ragland also announced the election of 11 directors to the Community Council. They included Mrs. Cornett, Eugene Favell, Mrs. Naomi French, William Sweetland, Winston Purvine, George Massey, E. E. Howard, Bud Franklin, Herb Waites, Richard Beesley, and Vern Owens to three-year terms, and Douglas Dryden to a one-year term.

Communities Ask Mark To Pick Justice Of Peace

BLY—Citizens of Bly, Beatty and Sprague River have petitioned Gov. Mark Hatfield to appoint a justice of the peace here and to maintain Sprague River Justice Court.

A total of 118 persons from the three communities signed the petition. They received a reply from Hatfield recently stating information contained in the petition had been forwarded to the Klamath County Court since the decision is solely the court's.

The office has been vacant since December when Dale B. "Snuffy" Smith was killed in an auto accident on Ivory Pine Road near Bly.

Residents of the district have recommended that the court appoint Smith's widow, Doris, to handle the court.

New Director To Speak Here

The Rev. George Dick, new director of Oregon Council of Churches, will be in Klamath Falls Thursday, Feb. 2, for his first meeting with officers and workers in the Klamath Council of Churches.

Scheduled at 5 p.m. in the Winema Hotel is a dinner meeting to be attended by members of the executive committee of the local council and pastors of the member churches.

At 7:45 the full council will meet to hear the speaker on various phases of the cooperative church program. This meeting will be at the Congregational Church, 2154 Garden Avenue.

Delegates and others interested are invited.

45-Mile Zone Is Extended

REDDING—Extension of the 45-mile per hour speed zone in the community of Tulelake was announced today by the State Department of Public Works.

The new addition extends from about 1,200 feet north to about 400 feet south of Osborn Road.

H. S. Miles, district engineer, states that the extended speed zone is being placed into effect as the result of an engineering and traffic study requested by local authorities and the California Highway Patrol.

The zoning will become effective with the posting of signs this week, weather permitting.

Man Is Burned As Pipe Bursts

Jack Dale, Route 2, received arm, abdomen and facial burns Sunday afternoon when a steam pipe was welding burst at Weyerhaeuser Company's plant, his family said.

Dale was taken to Klamath Valley Hospital. His condition was considered satisfactory Wednesday morning.
