More Fines Imposed Against Giant Electrical Firms In Antitrust Case

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Fines against electrical manufacturing companies reached almost $2 million today as a federal judge completed two days of sentencing for antitrust violations. Chief Judge J. Cullen Ganey in U.S. District Court completed sentencing on 14 indictments in a little over two hours today, compared with Monday's day-long session on six indictments. The difference was that Monday defense attorneys made lengthy talks. Today most of them said they stood on what they had said Monday. Sentencing moved so fast today that at one point Ganey pronounced a $20,000 fine on Cornell-Dubilier Electric Co., Plainfield, N.J., before asking the company attorney if he had anything to say. The lawyer jumped to his feet. Ganey apologized, saying: "Oh, excuse me. I have these worked out so well that I did not notice."

Husted, whose family lives at 3149 Butte Street, was arrested Saturday night after an 85-mile-an-hour chase through a Stewart-Lenox residential area. A state police officer had stopped another car when Husted drove by and slammed on his brakes, his car sliding into a ditch. The officer told him to remain there but Husted sped off and drove at high speed through the residential area with his lights off. He was finally stopped at the corner of Balsam Drive and Granite Street. Judge Coe said Husted admitted both charges.

Tempo Of Legislature Picking Up Noticeably

Monday, Feb. 6, finds the 51st Legislative Assembly beginning its fifth week of operation. An increase in the tempo can be noticed, and I imagine that, before long, we'll really be in high gear. The 25th day, which is the last day to request the drafting of bills by legislative counsel, has come and gone. Bills already in process with a priority rating can be introduced as they are received from legislative counsel. Each legislator is allowed three priorities and, as the deadline approaches, these sometimes become quite valuable. All other bills must be introduced no later than the 35th day or be approved by the committee on rules and resolutions. During the next ten days it is anticipated that both the House and Senate will receive a flood of bills, making our bill books even more ponderous. Much of this proposed legislation will be closely related, but reflecting the individual's thinking on the subject. With the influx of this new crop of bills, the picture concerning many issues will become more cloudy and confused. The areas being affected to the greatest degree are education, taxation, reorganization and reapportionment. A classic example is the field of taxation. The word being circulated through the halls is that if you don't have a tax bill in, you are not a bona fide legislator. It is the responsibility of the committees to study these measures and by a process, similar to grading potatoes, attempt to fuse all the good points into a single, logical train of thought. For three days we have had a large number of 4-H Club members visiting the capitol. They had an opportunity to sit in and observe the various phases of legislative process. We were very pleased to meet and visit with two from Klamath County, Sherry Hobson and Dick Owens. Many visitors pass through the capitol every day and are always welcome. City Briefs

BETTY RAMSEY is recuperating in Klamath Valley Hospital from a broken leg received skiing at Mt. Shasta Sunday.

MRS. LOUISE CRAMBLET is convalescing at her home, 2250 Applegate, following recent major surgery at Klamath Valley Hospital.

The Browns had checked by phone with Spokane, Pasco and finally Portland. Authorities there were notified. Weather Bureau records showed that there was thick fog and clouds along the Columbia River between The Dalles and Pendleton on the morning the Browns began their flight, Snyder said. Snyder said in the trip here, Brown was making his first real cross country flight. He did not file a flight plan. The couple had planned to leave Portland for Pasco Jan. 29, but delayed departure until the next day because of bad weather, Snyder said.

J. K. McLean said the Browns had been his house guests here and that he saw them off at the Portland International Airport early on the morning of Jan. 30, when they left for Pasco. From that point on, Snyder said, the whereabouts of the couple is a mystery. The Browns told McLean they planned a brief stop in Pasco to visit friends and then were to continue to Spokane to visit Brown's two children. Snyder said, if the weather was good, they planned to fly back to Portland Jan. 31. If not, they planned to return to California by way of Idaho, Snyder said. Snyder said as near as he was able to determine, neither the friends in Pasco nor the relatives in Spokane, whose names were not learned immediately, had seen the Browns. The first word that the couple
