

This Husband Holds Promise

Dear Ann Landers: I must find a new home for my household pet. He is male, 38 years old, 5'11, weighs 175 pounds, is in excellent health, has a good disposition, is well-educated, amusing, fine singing voice, superb dancer, doesn't drink, gamble or chase women. He's good-looking, well-mannered and has a fine sense of humor.

By profession this man is a writer, which is part of the problem. He writes checks—on our joint account, to which he has contributed nothing in three years. He has plenty of ambition and attained the height of that ambition when he learned he could live without working.

I've had him less than five years and am not attached to him. Anyone who wants him can have him if she's willing to pick up (the tab, that is) where I left off. I'm signing my name and address and hope this letter will produce immediate results.—Mrs. —

Dear Mrs. —: Sorry, I can't print your name and address. First, it's against the rules of this column to put one reader in touch with another. Second, I'm afraid you'd be bombarded with offers.

You didn't ask for advice, but I happen to have a little that might come in handy. Your husband sounds as if he has some fine qualities. With proper handling he could still turn out all right. I recommend a visit to a marriage counselor.

Some women are so darned overpowering they make a guy feel he doesn't have to do anything. Just don't make the mistake of throwing out the baby with the bath water.

Dear Ann Landers: Today I received the papers I have been hoping for and dreaming about for three years. The university of my choice has accepted me. I must write them and say I will be unable to enroll in the fall. I am going to have a baby in less than six months. The boy I thought I was in love with has left town. We have no idea where to find him. My folks are heartbroken. They have been kind and considerate of my feelings. No one preaches, rebukes or shows disappointment. What I have done to them is the worst punishment of all.

I'm not a tramp. This was my first love. I was not a sheltered girl, either. I often read of such incidents in your column, and your warnings, but I thought "these things always happened to someone else."

Please print this for other girls to see. Maybe some young girl, somewhere, will say to herself, "That might have been me."—FINISHED AT 17

Dear Miss 17: You need not be "finished" if you have the courage to carry on. I hope you will put your baby up for adoption and enter the university at midterm. Others have done it—and so can you. Good luck.

Confidential to Stubborn, Too: That tree is going to look mighty odd standing in your living room until the Fourth of July. Take it down yourself. Everyone who comes in will "guess" the problem.

Confidential to To Be Or Not To Be: This is the oldest question in the world, Toots. Tell the old buzzard a plague on both his houses (summer and winter). He's trying to buy you.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teenagers if you write for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Dear Ann Landers: Today I received the papers I have been hoping for and dreaming about for three years. The university of my choice has accepted me. I must write them and say I will be unable to enroll in the fall. I am going to have a baby in APPLES FOR THE STUDENTS of Miss Leora Repp's second grade at Fremont School were distributed recently by Dr. R. C. Crittenden, right, as third prize for the Klamath Dental Society's annual oral hygiene contest. County Health Department Nurse Mrs. Mae Spears is looking on. Other city winners were as follows: First prize, a second grade at Conger School, and second prize, a second grade at Mills School. Winners in the county school system were second grades at Merrill, Chiloquin and Fort Klamath, in that order.

Several Roadblocks Slowing Legislature

By REP. GEORGE FLITCRAFT

Although the legislature has been moving ahead with reasonable good speed, several roadblocks have been established which will cause problems in the weeks ahead.

Quite a number of bills have been sent back to committee after having discussed on the floor of either the House or Senate. This re-referring of bills to committee consumes a great amount of time. At present the judiciary committees in both the House and Senate are jammed with legislation which is being reworked before it will again be sent to the floor. Some of the changes which caused re-referral to Judiciary are very minor, but these changes are, in the opinion of a majority of the members, important enough to merit additional consideration, so the extra time is taken.

Missing Oregon Man Returned To U.S. Army

BERLIN (AP) — An Oregon corporal, missing six months in Communist East Germany, is back in Army custody in West Berlin.

U.S. Army headquarters said Cpl. Victor W. Rue, 33, whose mother, Mrs. Edith Howrey, lives at Seaside, Ore., was handed over by Soviet authorities Monday.

Rue was sent to a military hospital in Berlin for a physical checkup before being sent back to his unit, the 3rd Armored Division.

He disappeared into East Germany last September at the border town of Hebel, West Germany. The Army did not disclose why Rue went into East Germany or what he had been doing the past six months.

Like Musical

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — The Broadway musical "West Side Story" opened here Tuesday night before a distinguished audience that liked it. Foreign Minister Golda Meir and most of the diplomatic corps attended the premiere.

Health Officer Is On Probation

COOS BAY (AP) — Circuit Judge Robert C. Belloni Tuesday put a former Coos County Health Department director on probation five years for his conviction on a charge of obtaining money by false pretenses.

Dr. J. J. Van Gasse was found guilty last fall of obtaining money by submitting a fraudulent bill to the Coos Bay Jaycees for supplies used in an anti-polio clinic.

Baptists Open State Meeting

CORVALLIS (AP) — The Conservative Baptist Association of Oregon opened its 13th annual convention here today. The session will run through Friday.

The Rev. Freeman L. Schmitt of Klamath Falls is moderator. The Conservative Baptist Women of Oregon also are meeting here.

Eclipse Seen By Europeans

LONDON (UPI) — The moon passed between the sun and the earth early today, causing an eclipse which was visible directly or on TV to millions of Europeans on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

Scientists observed the eclipse from mountaintops or high-flying planes.

Cloudy skies made the eclipse invisible to Londoners, but scientists said 93 per cent of the sun's face was obscured over the British capital at the height of the eclipse.

The eclipse was total for 2 to 2½ minutes along a 1,000-mile path running from southern Spain eastward into Siberia. No other eclipse is scheduled to be visible in that area until 2081.

An Italian-American movie company used the natural phenomenon as a background for a scene depicting the crucifixion of Christ.

The U.S. Air Force sent a four-man team from a research laboratory in New Bedford, Mass., to observe the eclipse from Florence's Arcetri Observatory.

Promises Visit

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Former U.S. President Dwight D. Eisenhower has promised to visit Jordan if he and Mrs. Eisenhower find an opportunity. The text of an invitation from King Hussein and Eisenhower's reply were published here Tuesday.

Thousands Of Specialized Positions Unfilled Despite Unemployment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a paradox on the nation's economic recession, thousands of specialized jobs are going begging while nearly 5.5 million American workers are unemployed.

A government report showed today that a total of 17,954 jobs in various fields could not be filled locally last month by the U.S. Employment Service.

Employers reported shortages of engineers, social workers, teachers, nurses, draftsmen, technicians, machinists and instructors for deaf children.

Data from employment service offices stretching from New York to Los Angeles also indicated a continuing demand for "well-trained, competent secretaries, stenographers and typists."

Even Detroit, with nearly 12 per cent of its labor force out of work, reported job openings for specialists who operate electronic computers and machine bookkeeping systems.

Factory production workers, however, have found the "no help wanted" sign at nearly all of the 1,800 employment service offices. Labor Department officials said.

The Los Angeles-Long Beach area reported a shortage of cost accountants. Teachers of the deaf were in demand in Toledo, Ohio, and Tacoma, Wash. Librarians were sought in Worcester, Mass., Dayton, Ohio, and Fresno, Calif.

In the skilled trades field, sheet metal workers were needed in New York, Philadelphia and Portland, Maine. There was a demand for welders in Kansas City and Baltimore, while New York and Baltimore had shortages of cabinet makers and furniture finishers.

Life Valued

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese national police agency puts the value of a human life at $1,666. A bill being drafted for Parliament sets a compensation scale equivalent to 1,000 times a person's average daily wage—with a maximum of $1,666 — for anyone killed trying to rescue another from drowning, fire or other catastrophe.

Luce Takes BPA Office

PORTLAND (AP) — Charles F. Luce of Walla Walla took office today as Bonneville Power administrator, succeeding Dr. William A. Pearl, who held the office through most of the Eisenhower administration.

With 100 friends and government officials looking on he took the oath of office Tuesday from U.S. Dist. Judge Gus Solomon at the federal courthouse.

Luce immediately pledged to "reactivate and expand the effort of BPA to achieve maximum development of the Columbia River."

He promised to uphold "the primary responsibility of the federal government for construction of the large multi-purpose dams where power, flood control, navigation and recreation are concerned."

Bonneville offices are in the Department of Interior building here.
