POET'S CORNER

WINTERS

Are the winters any different
Than they were long years ago?
Or have I just grown older
And can't remember about our snow?

Seems it snowed then in November,
And it never melted away.
We still saw it every morning
Until the next Easter day.

Now the snow does not get deep
Neither does it last as long.
Are the winters any different
Or am I the one that's wrong?
Jennie Charles,
1749 Menlo Way.

CHILD OF GOD

A child is like the morning star
That lights the way to love's
sweet door
That opens countless lockets fair
That clasps the heart encircled there.

A child is like the enus bright
That glitters through the aging
night
That tramples modesty and pride
The loving cup of youth denied.

A child is but the living strain
Of life that courses through the vein
Its hunger fed on tender love
And mercy shown from God above.

A child is love, the emblem of
A higher, nobler, lasting love
The old but wither and decay
The young in heart no longer gray.

A child is like the flower of hope
That opens to the bugle's note
That springs the well contentment lies
That soars to glory in the skies.

A child is but the reed that flows
The tender shoot that upwards
grows
That flourishes in valleys green
That's nourished by the hand unseen.

A child is living proof of God
Made in his image and endowed
With grace and beauty undefiled
Humble, sweet, his manner mild.

A child is poet's verse unfurled
To herald in a heavenly world
The planted seed survives the rust
The implement of God in trust.
Maurice R. Keep

A STRING OF PEARLS
Beautiful! More beautiful than Any gem, any flower, any ocean.
Rare, more rare than any jewel,
Precious as a diamond, as a setting sun.

Set in a setting of deepest blue
Yet set in many colors.
Clasp by an unseen string,
Yet as strong as a man.

Mysterious as the unknown,
Yet friendly as a spring breeze.
Wild as the wildest animal,
Yet calm as the calmest sea.

These pearls are more valuable
Than the rarest pearls,
Yet they are free—
To the finder of the Pacific Isles.
Judy Mosley

Won't Confirm

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) —
Prime Minister Sirimavo Bandaranaike told the Senate Tuesday night the French government had refused to confirm or deny reports it plans to explode an H-bomb in the South Indian Ocean.

Young birds do not have to be taught to fly. However, adult birds try to lure the young from their nests to encourage them to follow their natural instincts.

News Graphic

CROWDED SKY — The list of American satellites grows longer with the orbiting of Samos II, designed to take reconnaissance photographs of the earth. America has now entered its third year in the satellite age. Explorer I was the first successful one. The next, Vanguard I, is still transmitting. Three "artificial planets," one of them Russian, are still in their courses around the sun. In addition, numerous other satellites in the Discoverer series have been launched. These are not intended to stay in orbit but are tests of recovery systems. So far, three Discoverer instrument capsules have been returned to earth.
