Nick Bell, 34-year-old transient, denied a charge of attempted rape and his trial will begin March 30. Charles Junior Gaymon, 35, a transient, pleaded not guilty to a charge of knowingly uttering and publishing a forged bank check. His trial was set for March 8. Spencer Jacobson, 52, 4433 Greensprings Drive, pleaded guilty to a sodomy charge and Judge Vandenberg ordered that he be sent to Oregon State Hospital for psychiatric examination. He will be returned for sentencing within 60 days.

Gory Sight On Lytton

Mrs. Conrad Schweiger, 526 Lytton Street, was startled Thursday morning when she awoke, opened the drapes on her front windows and saw the street in front of her house strewn with blood. "It looked like someone had been killed," Mrs. Schweiger said. "I thought someone had been struck by a car during the night." She went outside to check and found that two large boxes of deer entrails had been dumped into the street. The mess was cleaned up by the City Street Department and police were called to investigate.

Former KF Man Dies

Robert Simmons, about 45, a former resident of Klamath Falls, died unexpectedly at his home in Los Angeles Feb. 20. Friends here who learned of his death said he became ill shortly after rising, asked for water and Mrs. Simmons found him lying across a bed. During the years he lived here, Mr. Simmons was employed in the woods by the Pelican Bay Lumber Company and also worked for Moty & Van Dyke. He left here about six years ago and since was affiliated in the personnel department of a chain of Los Angeles stores. He was a past master of the Lakeview Masonic Lodge, was the first master of Crater Lake Masonic Lodge No. 211, Klamath Falls, formed in 1948, was also a past worthy patron of Manzanita Chapter, OES and was a member of Hillah Shrine, Ashland. Survivors include the widow, Ann, and three children, Barbara, Cora and Robert. Funeral services will be at 12:30 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 25, in the Wee Kirk of the Heather Chapel, Forest Lawn Cemetery. Friends wishing to do so may contribute to the Shrine Hospital, Portland.

OTI Alumni Sets Potluck Dinner

A potluck turkey dinner will be served Saturday at the Shasta View Community Building at Shasta Way and Madison Street to kick off the Oregon Technical Institute Alumni Association's activities for the year. An informal dinner will follow for those interested. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. All alumni and their guests are invited. Table service will be furnished and dress should be casual. The annual dinner is primarily a get-together function, say association members. More information, especially for those who want to know what potluck dish to bring, is available from Mrs. Herman Gumbert, TU 2-0603. The association will provide the turkeys. Mrs. Gumbert and Clyde (Hap) Caldwell will cook them. Tentative plans for other activities during the year include a dance for this year's graduates early this coming spring and a picnic later in the year. Association planners met recently at the home of Anna Marie Eck, secretary-treasurer, to finalize details of the dinner.

Good Skiing Is Forecast

MOUNT SHASTA — Conditions at Mt. Shasta Ski Bowl are expected to provide fair sport over the weekend, the bowl management reports. The slope has been eroded by wind and a few icy spots at higher elevations may be exposed, the report indicated. The pack rests at 114 inches. Late week temperatures have been moderate. Friday's low was 31 degrees and Thursday's high, 46. Wind was blowing from 10 to 20 miles per hour Friday morning. The forecast calls for possible wind abatement and high cloudiness Friday and Saturday. A few very light snow flurries are possible. The road to the bowl is clear and chains are not required. All facilities will operate.

Senate Food Resolution Hits House Roadblock

SALEM (AP) — The Senate-passed resolution to order the State Public Welfare Commission to distribute government surplus foods immediately ran into a roadblock today in the House of Representatives. The House voted 38-21 to send the resolution to the Joint Ways and Means Committee for a study as to how much it would cost. It had been approved unanimously by the upper house. The State Public Welfare Commission had protested that it couldn't distribute the food because it didn't have the money. It also said the counties don't have the money, either. The move to send the resolution to Ways and Means was made by Rep. George Annala, D-Hood River. It was the backing of 28 of the 31 Democrats. Annala said he had made an investigation showing the cost of distribution of the surplus foods would be more than $2.5 million during a two-year period. He said it wasn't fair to give the commission an order without providing the money to pay for it. But Mrs. E. G. Chinnard, R-Portland, argued for the resolution's passage on grounds that its purpose is merely to show that the legislature is interested in solving the surplus food problem. But Rep. Ed Benedict, D-Portland, countered that the resolution "wouldn't deliver one teaspoonful of food to anybody." Benedict already has introduced a bill to appropriate $2.4 million for the distribution. Rep. Winton Hunt, R-Woodburn argued that Hunt is only one of eight states which don't distribute surplus food to the needy. The House also passed, and sent to the Senate, a memorial asking Congress to make surplus foods available for the state's penal institutions. Such food now is being used in state hospitals.

Dimes Drive Shows Lag

Beth Chase, secretary for the 1961 New March of Dimes fund drive, said Thursday that the collections are trailing last year's contributions by several hundred dollars. Total amount to date is $2,853.91 with some sources of revenue yet to report. Contributions include mail, $786.13; Block of Dimes, sponsored by the Klamath Falls Exchange Club, $223.04; Chili Bean Sale, Market Basket Food Stores, $60.10; Mothers March, $1,230.86; dance, $110; county schools, Altamont junior high and elementary, Keno, Peterson, Malin, Stearns, Chiloquin, Shasta, Fairhaven, OTI, Fremont Junior High and Bly, $422.81. Mel Loy and Tom Marchant are 1961 chairmen.
