Chiloquin May Get Bank

CHILOQUIN — Dwight Kircher, president of Chiloquin Chamber of Commerce, stated during a chamber meeting Monday night that negotiations for a branch of the U.S. National Bank of Portland to be located in Chiloquin appear to be bearing fruit.

But Kircher and other sources emphasized that no official word has yet been received from the bank's headquarters in Portland.

Kircher recently spent some time conferring with the bank's executives in Portland. He stated that he understands a portion of the necessary government approval had been received unofficially.

Approval must come from the comptroller of the currency and from the Federal Reserve Board.

"If all goes smoothly, U.S. National will open a branch here April 1," he said. "Those were the plans when I left Portland."

Kircher has been at the helm of chamber efforts to attract a bank to this community since a committee was formed last year.

A police officer checked the area and saw the coat in a car parked across the street. Two men in the car said they didn't know where the coat came from. Tremblay said he couldn't sign a complaint as he didn't see anyone take the coat.

Jay Wilson, 1401 Division Street, said gas was stolen from his truck and car while they were parked in front of his house.

Mrs. LaMar Jensen, 1844 Melrose Street, said someone stole some tires out of her car last week.

Joan Poole, 820 East Main Street, said the windows of her place had been nailed shut while she was away from home.

Elsie Berry, 1932½ Portland Street, said she thought she heard a prowler in the alley by her garage.
