

Hearing Set On Labor Bill

SALEM (AP) — A hearing on the controversial bill to prohibit unfair labor and management practices will be held here at 2 p.m. March 15, the Senate State and Federal Affairs Committee said Wednesday.

The committee will hold a hearing March 13 on a bill to require that an optometrist be included on the state Board of Health.

Sen. Walter J. Pearson, D-Portland, chairman of the committee, said he opposes the bill. The present law requires that a doctor, pharmacist and dentist be on the board, but Pearson said he would like to enable the governor to appoint anyone whom he pleases.

"Maybe if there were a layman on the board, the board's orders wouldn't be so bad," Pearson said.

Noted Oregon Writer Dies

WELLESLEY, Mass. (AP) — Funeral services were held here Wednesday for an Oregon City native who became one of the nation's outstanding newspaper medical writers.

She was Mrs. Frances Burns, 67, who died Sunday.

She not only wrote on medicine and science for the Boston Globe but covered assignments ranging from politics and tours of royalty to features on editorials.

Among her top journalistic citations was one received in 1957 from the New England Associated Press News Executives Association. That was for a story of how a woman — then unidentified — faced a fight with cancer. She was that woman. She survived a major operation and kept on writing until a heart attack claimed her life.

Officiating in services at St. Andrews Episcopal Church were the Rev. Richard G. Preston of St. Andrews and Mrs. Burns' son, the Rev. Alfred W. Burns of Hyattsville, Md.

Honorary pallbearers included Dr. Paul Dudley White, world famous heart specialist, and Dr. Dean A. Clark, clinical professor of preventive medicine at Harvard University and general director of Massachusetts General Hospital.

Besides her two sons Mrs. Burns leaves a brother, Edward Stone, editor of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer; a half-sister, Florence DuFresne of Vancouver, Wash., and seven granddaughters.

Bill To Revise Pension Rights

SALEM (AP) — Rep. Edward N. Fadeley, D-Eugene, Wednesday introduced a bill that would make a public employee eligible for pension rights after five years service instead of the present 10 years.

Fadeley said this change was being asked because in the academic world it often is desirable that a professor be permitted to move from one university to another and retain the benefit of pension rights already built up.

If the law passed, Fadeley said, the professor could do this without losing his present pension rights.

The bill also would liberalize pension requirements for widows of public servants who die after becoming eligible for pensions.

Canada Board Questions Pact

VICTORIA, B. C. (AP) — The British Columbia Energy Board has recommended Canada withhold ratification of an international treaty on development of Columbia River power.

The board says it wants to know more about three matters. They are:

The amount and cost of power to be delivered to load centers in British Columbia.

Estimates of construction needs.

And the possibility that unmanageable amounts of power might be created by bringing Columbia power to market too quickly.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett tabled the report in the legislature.

RECRUITER TO VISIT
Coast Guard Recruiter Lonnie K. Johnson, BTL, will be in Klamath Falls all day March 10 at the Navy Recruiting station upstairs in the post office building.

SPACESHIP BURNS UP
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The seven-ton space ship Russia put into orbit Feb. 4 has burned up in the earth's atmosphere, according to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA). It said the satellite, called Beta 1, perished Feb. 26, but a fragment which either broke off or was ejected from the craft is still in orbit.

Royal Tiger Hunt Gets British All Shook Up

LONDON (UPI) — You can either kill or coddle animals in Britain but either way you will be in serious trouble. Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh are finding that out in their tour of India, Pakistan and Nepal.

A storm has broken out over their attendance at tiger hunts although the queen's only weapon has been a camera. The duke killed one tiger and then retired to the sidelines with a bull on his trigger finger. Painful as that may be, it delivered him from the eye of the hurricane and left Britain's foreign secretary, Lord Home, to stand alone against the storm.

Just as a distinguished visitor to the United States is invited to the World Series, so were the queen, the duke and Lord Home invited to a tiger hunt. When the news reached London that Lord Home, supported by 300 elephants trained to drive tigers out of the jungle within easy range, had been on a hunt, high winds began to buffet him from three directions.

Home's High Winds
—He was criticized by the League Against Blood Sports for even showing up for a tiger hunt.
—He was criticized by retired colonels from the army in India for taking four shots at a tiger and missing four times. (Humor show, Home in Nepal, eh?)

Judge Asks Quick Reply

PORTLAND (AP) — Circuit Judge Charles Redding Wednesday ordered the prosecution to reply within five days to a defense contention of double jeopardy in a first degree murder indictment returned against Mrs. Joseph L. Garrett hours after she was acquitted of a similar charge.

There has been prolonged legal maneuvering in the case, and Judge Redding said in his ruling that too much time already has been consumed.

"A court has an absolute duty toward a criminal defendant to facilitate such defendant's enjoyment of every substantive right — much harm could come to the defendant if such were not done," the ruling said.

Mrs. Garrett, 33, Portland, a former Dallas, Tex., socialite, was arrested after a fire swept through her home here last fall, killing three of her children and their governess.

She was first indicted on a charge of first degree murder in the death of Gayle Garrett, 3 months. There was a directed verdict of acquittal in that trial. The state then charged her with first degree murder in the death of another daughter, Angela, 3.

FISHING COMPACT
LONDON (AP) — A compromise has brought an end to the fishing war between Britain and Iceland. Britain agreed to accept the 12-mile fishing limit around the island nation but British trawlers will be allowed to fish six miles offshore for the next three years. The agreement, announced Monday night, must be ratified by parliaments of both nations.

Speed Up In Reclamation

BOSTON (AP) — Reclamation Commissioner Floyd E. Dominy said Thursday a speed-up in major Western reclamation projects could be expected if a crash program of federal construction is undertaken as an antirecession move.

"If the slide in the national economy is not halted by a normal seasonal pickup, after a long, unusually hard winter, it is entirely possible that a crash program of federal construction will be recommended to the Congress," Dominy said, adding:

"In such a case we expect a step-up in award of contracts for major construction work as well as in expedited schedule for existing jobs."

In a speech prepared for a meeting of the Associated General Contractors, Dominy said the Reclamation Bureau already is working overtime to speed up awards on contracts for supplies and equipment.

He said progress is being made on major projects such as the Trinity River division in California and the Colorado River storage project in Utah, Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico.

Construction soon will be started on the Yellowstone Dam and power plant in Montana, he added, as well as on the Canadian River project in Texas.

Dominy disclosed that a report on the proposed Devil's Canyon project in Alaska has been completed and will soon be released for public study and comment. This project would involve two dams and a 500,000-kilowatt capacity power plant.

This capacity would be nearly eight times the present production of all generating plants in Alaska, Dominy said. He added: "This energy could be a major factor in unlocking Alaska's industrial development."

NOTHING TO CENSOR
LONDON (UPI) — Back from a lecture tour of India, chief British movie censor Lord Morrison said his job would be tricky in India because of the no kissing rule in effect there.

Said Lady Morrison: "Take out the embraces and what's left?"

Canadians May Demand Tariff

VICTORIA, B. C. (AP) — The legislature is considering the possibility of tariff protection for Canadian agriculture competing with produce from United States farms watered by the Columbia River.

Agriculture Minister Frank Richter brought up the matter Wednesday.

He said a national research and marketing committee will meet in Winnipeg April 24 and later will examine the effect of downstream production on Canadian production.
