Scotty's BARKS 'N' BITES

By WAYNE SCOTT

Many intelligent and sincere businessmen in this "gotta-make-a-buck" world of ours beat their brains out daily in their efforts to accumulate dollars that can eventually put them on easy street and allow them to retire and enjoy life in comfort.

And this is fine . . . but some of these same business tycoons, by virtue of their very struggle for success, often unwittingly destroy things that could make their eventual retirement the happiest period of their lives.

While I am admittedly no great shakes as a student of things politic and normally avoid such matters like I would the plague . . . I sincerely feel that the time has come for me to get in my two-cents worth concerning a situation that personifies "destruction" mentioned.

I'm talking about the Rogue River . . . and a pair of bills to come before the State Legislature this week . . .

House bills No. 1551 and 1497 are each aimed at opening the Rogue, probably the greatest fishing stream on the coast, to the inroads of industrialization . . . namely pulp mills and dams.

Should they pass . . . one of nature's great beauty spots and one of the finest places in the world for a man to relax and forget the cares and stresses of everyday life will become a thing of the fondly-remembered past . . .

Remembered by the literally thousands of tourists and Oregonians who annually made a Rogue River fishing trip the highlight of their year . . .

If you've ever spent any time on the Rogue, either in the spring or fall . . . you know what I mean. If you're a fisherman and you haven't been there yet . . . you're missing something.

While I have no idea of just how much money the introduction of pulp mills and the like on the Rogue could mean to Oregon and her communities . . . and I couldn't care less, frankly . . . I do know that they would have to do better than the $13 million the annual tourist trade attracted by the river brings in . . . far better . . . in order to qualify the destruction of such a wonderland.

Granted we need a pulp and paper industry . . . but surely not this bad . . . and not yet.

The day will come when the pulp and paper business will solve the problem of stream and air pollution that accompanies its operation . . . but it hasn't yet . . . and until they do I feel that every conservationist should oppose any possibility of the proposed plan's passage.

The committee to consider the plan meets for the first time Wednesday, March 8 at 8 a.m., (State and Federal Affairs Committee of the House) . . . and Carrol Howe represents Klamath Falls on the committee. If you share my views please drop him a card and tell him so . . . he will appreciate your opinion. The time to write or call him is right now. Move.

It has been rumored that Craig Gardner, the 6-0 eagle-eyed senior sparkplug for the District 5B championship Prospect Cougar squad, will attend Southern Oregon College . . . this may not be entirely so.

Saturday came a counter-rumor . . . which claimed that elder brother Dave Gardner, currently a member of the Raider hoop squad, was not entirely satisfied at SOC and is steering brother Craig away from Ashland. Both are going to be great ball-players . . . there are many schools at which they would be welcome . . . Oregon Tech, say. Of course, cracking that lineup next season will not be child's play . . .

Incidentally, there is a third brother, Terry, a junior . . . and he was very much in evidence at the playoffs . . . for a lad only 5-11 he can really jump.

Speaking of the Prospect-Chiloquin tournament . . . I'd have to go with Gardner (Craig) as the most valuable player but Chiloquin's "Smiling Ed" Case runs him a close second. You can't ignore Panther Frank Heglund either . . . or Prospect coach Duane Payne's son Stan for that matter. Chiloquin's Butch Crume had himself a pair of lousy games and I imagine he feels worse about it than anyone . . . but it wasn't all Butch's fault. The Cougars realized, before they got here, that stopping Crume was an important key to a victory . . . and they made life miserable for the County scoring champ from the opening whistle of the first game . . .

Coach Payne paid "Smiling Ed" a compliment . . . said he, "I told my kids that Case was a clown all right . . . but don't spend too much time laughing at him . . . or he'll be gone for "two" . . . Payne is so right. Case is one of the most deceptive players in the county.

We get letters . . .

And this one I don't like about 30 cents worth . . . it follows (it was addressed to "Letters to the Editor" but wound up on my (naturally) desk.)

Dear Sirs:

various activities practically ignored by your reporters. We would have more news coverage

First, I would like to commend you for the various changes you have made in Klamath County's only daily paper. I also feel that the paper has more "eye appeal."

I have one big criticism however! Why are Henley School's if we lived in Dunsmuir. At present Henley's Basketball Team is District champ. It isn't our fault that we can't compete closer to home. Our victory means just as much to our children and their families though; who are all, incidentally your subscribers. Thurs.'s Herald and News carried big headlines of K.U.'s wrestling squad going to the State meet. Well, Henley has a few boys up there too. If you would give us more equal coverage, it would help encourage a friendlier spirit between the two schools.

Sincerely
Beulah E. Balsiger.

. . . and I thought I had treated Henley pretty well . . . but that's the way it goes. Lose a few, lose a few.

Strangely enough I thought that relationships between the students and athletes of both Henley and KU were in pretty fair shape . . . guess I don't know everything at that, huh?

Sure there's a spirit of rivalry and competition between the two . . . but if this didn't exist they'd both be lousy schools.

The 1961 Oregon Collegiate Conference champion Oregon Tech Owls are all set for a big banquet honoring them and their highly successful basketball season.

The feed is slated in the OTI Cafeteria on Sunday, March 12, at 6:30 p.m. . . . and all Klamath Falls sport fans are urged to attend . . . the food will be excellent . . . the program better . . . and the ball team is just about the greatest.

Owl Hoot members please note . . . it is especially important that all club members be on hand at the Chuck Wagon Restaurant Monday, March 6, at 6:30 p.m. to wrap up final arrangements for the banquet.

The program and guest speaker details are still in the mill . . . according to Rex Hunsaker and Wally Palmberg.

Odds and ends . . .

A clipping sent in by Chet Langslet, one of the more ardent local field and stream fans, tells us that "duck-hunting is a rapidly declining sport in this great state (California) . . . the number of hunters has dropped 100,000 in one year. . . . Lack of suitable places to hunt is the main cause . . . members of duck clubs enjoyed fair to good gunning but those who have to seek a place to hunt were out of luck." . . .

The article appeared in a California paper and was headed "Duck Hunting Declines on Coast."

If you haven't your reservations in Eugene for the tourney yet . . . you may be too late . . . tickets are still available, however. . . .

I darn near goofed . . . but UO's Art Litchman saved me . . . found me a place to sleep and set up my typewriter. I already had the best seat in the house . . . number 25 in the press row . . . this is four years straight and I ain't mad. There are some advantages to this business after all.

Didja know . . . that 5,000 youngsters are competing in school wrestling programs across the state today . . . and that 85 schools were represented in the state championship matches in Corvallis Friday and Saturday . . . this 85 included the best from the various districts (130 schools involved all told).

Baseball is upon us again . . . and I still haven't had a chance to catch up with either Bill Mansfield at KU or Jim Cordial at Oregon Tech to see what is on tap for us this season . . . for that matter I haven't even seen a schedule from either yet this year

Lakeview Honkers Conquered, 61-32

By JOHN NOLEN
Herald and News Correspondent

ASHLAND (Special) — Henley's rampaging Hornets roared away with the District 6A-2 basketball championship here Saturday night as a murderous second half paved the way to a 61-32 triumph over the Lakeview Honkers.

In winning the district crown, the first in the school's history, the Hornets nabbed a berth in the State A-2 tournament in Coos Bay starting March 13.

In the consolation game Sutherlin's tall Bulldogs downed Glide 50-36 for third place.

Henley was in command all the way, as the sharpshooting of guard Ray Brown and forward Bob Chapman led to a 17-7 first quarter margin. By the half, the Hornets had capitalized on a sizzling fast break and, with Bert Allbritton providing the key points, pulled out to a 26-13 bulge at the intermission.

In the third and final periods it was all Henley, especially the third. In that fatal stanza both the Lakeview offense and defense crumbled and the Hornets poured in 24 while the Honkers could manage only nine.

Henley coach Jerry Johnson pulled all his starters late in the third period and the subs finished it up.

Allbritton, hitting 10 of 14 shots from the field, led the Henley onslaught with 22 points, the biggest single effort of the playoffs.

Floyd Kendall backed up Allbritton with a 10 point effort. Teammate Kent Gooding, a 6-7 sophomore spire, hauled down 17 rebounds and Allbritton grabbed off ten but the Henley crew was still on the lower end of a 63-53 rebound count.

Reserve Gary Reynolds topped the Lakeview scoring with 11.

In the consolation game Sutherlin's big height advantage began paying off early in the second quarter, but the Bulldogs had to fight off the determined Wildcats from Glide for the next two periods.

Sutherlin stalled out in the final few minutes as Jim Foster, high pointer of the game with 15 tallies, contributed some timely free tosses to put the game on ice.

Weed Nabs Top Spot At Yreka

YREKA (Special) — The Weed Cougars commanded a steady lead all the way over Yuba City to cop the Yreka Invitational Basketball Championship here Saturday night by a 56-51 score. The loss left the Bears as the runner-up club in the tournament.

Earlier in the evening, the host Yreka team nabbed the number three place by squeaking past Del Norte, 39-35, while Anderson cooled off the Tulelake Honkers 83-50, in the afternoon session to finish in fifth place.

Each of the schools represented in the tourney placed one man on the all-tournament squad, and Anderson, Weed, and Yreka landed two on the all-star lineup. Those named to the team were Fred Brown, La Sierra; Rick Good, Yuba City; Arlie Daum, Anderson; Doug DeBortoli, Weed; Ron Long, Tulelake; Butch McCarthy, Yreka; Charles Mathews, Del Norte; Bill Bailey, Anderson; Mike Auman, Weed; and Jackson Lane, Yreka.

The trophy for the all-around player went to Ralph Watts of Yuuba City, who finished second in the total scoring honors for the tournament with 54. Ron Long, Tulelake's all star-ace, was the tourney high scorer with a 56-point total to his credit.

The scoring summaries:

U.S. Hockey Team Fails

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The punchless United States ice hockey team, defending titlists, lost its second straight game in the world champions Saturday, a 4-1 setback by Czechoslovakia.

Linfielders Edge Vikings

MCMINNVILLE (AP)—Linfield edged Portland State, 50-49, and won the right to meet Eastern Oregon next Tuesday for the Oregon, district 2, NAIA basketball title.

The Northwest Conference champions rallied from a 27-17 halftime deficit and won it on a jump shot basket by Micky Jones with 32 seconds left.

PCL OK's New Plan

SEATTLE (AP) — The Pacific Coast Baseball League voted Saturday to try out the so-called "wild card" rule in 1961, giving its managers the right to name a substitute to hit for a pitcher.

The vote by the board of eight directors was not disclosed.

League President Dewey Soriano said a full outline of the details would be released next week.

Under the plan, a manager would announce before the start of each game whether the pitcher would take his times at bat or if an alternate player would be used. If the latter, the pitcher would play only on defense and his alternate — becoming the team's 10th man — would appear only as a hitter.

At an earlier meeting this winter, Soriano was authorized to suggest the plan to the National Baseball Rules Committee. This group has not met yet, but Soriano said individual leagues could try out new ideas without violating baseball rules.

Tornado Defeats KU Pels, 72-56

BULLETIN

Sherm Allen was taken to Klamath Valley Hospital following the Medford game Saturday night, suffering from injuries sustained in a collision with Ray Taylor in the closing moments.

Hospital officials report Allen was being taken to emergency for X-rays. Indications were that Allen might be suffering from concussion, although no official report on his condition was available.

A sparkling season closed on a sad note for the Pelicans Saturday night as they ran into a bowling Tornado from Medford and foundered, dropping a 72 to 56 defeat, their third of the season.

Despite the fact the game was played within the friendly confines of Pelican Court, the Pels found that Medford usurped the privileges of a guest and administered a sound defeat, the worst hung on the Pelicans this season.

The Medford loss, coupled with a 61 to 49 victory over Grants Pass Friday night closed out the Pels regular season with a record of 19 and 3. The defeat did not affect the conference standings with the Pels wrapping up the title two weeks ago, but it did tab Medford as a team to watch in the state tournament.

Klamath missed three lay-in shots in a row in the opening seconds of the game, and Jim Barry drew first blood with a two pointer for Medford with 25 seconds gone. Wally Palmberg, high point man for the Pels with 22 points, counted two free throws to tie it up, but Bob Quinney who scored 22 for Medford, dropped in a field goal and 50 seconds later added a charity toss to give Medford a 5 to 2 lead.

Palmberg countered the Pels first field goal with 3:20 gone in the first quarter to pull the count to 4 to 5. Bruce Bray added a free throw for Medford, and Kent Hunsaker tied it up with a two pointer.

Klamath then took their only lead of the night as Bruce Brickner and Gary Patzke each dropped in field goals and Palmberg made it a free throw at 11-6.

Medford rallied, however, with Quinney scoring a free throw and a minute later adding a field goal as the quarter ended with Klamath Falls holding an 11 to 9 edge.

Dick Ragsdale opened the second quarter with a jumper to deadlock the game at 11-all, and 50 seconds later Jim Barry scored a three-pointer, dumping the field goal and converting the gift shot on Patzke's infraction.

Medford kept the lead from this point on, bulging it out to 27 to 18, and holding a 39 to 26 halftime margin.

The Pels rallied to within two points several times in the third quarter, the last time at 34-36, but field goals by Barry, Ragsdale, Quinney and Bray pushed the visitors to a 45 to 38 third quarter margin.

Playing a masterful stall game throughout the entire fourth quarter, Medford capitalized on defensive lapses and moved steadily away from a frantically pressing gang of Pelicans.

It was the first time in four tries that Medford had topped the Pelican this season.

Klamath had the dubious distinction of a better shooting percentage and more rebounds, but neither did them any good. The Pels converted 20 of 47 field goal attempts for a .425 percentage while Medford shot a .377 with 24 out of 61.

In rebounds, the Pels pulled in 34 to 26 for Medford with Brickner pulling in half of the Pels rebound credits.

Medford shot a very accurate 20 out of 27 free throw efforts, and the Pels dropped in 16 of 22.

Klamath Falls will open the state A-1 tournament at Eugene on Tuesday, March 14 when they tangle with St. Helens.

Medford plays the first game in the bottom bracket of the state meet, playing Tillamook Wednesday afternoon.

Ducks Trip Cougars; Even Count

PULLMAN, Wash. (AP) — The Oregon Ducks made it 3-2 in their series with Washington State Saturday night as they defeated the Cougars 76-68.

The Ducks found WSU lacking at the free throw line and hurt by an injured Charley Sells.

Sells, one of the stars in Friday night's Cougar victory went out early with a pulled tendon. His sub, Bill McKenzie, scored 13.

The big break for the Ducks came in 19 misses by the Cougars at the free throw line, many on first tries in one-and-one situations. There were 11 WSU misses in the second half.

Big gun in the Oregon attack was fast Charley Warren who got 21, all but two of them in the second half. He and Glenn Moore herded the Ducks to victory in the last 10 minutes when Warren hit a pair of free throws, tipped in a rebound and drove from the baseline to put the Ducks ahead for good in a frequently tied game.

Ojai Golfer Keeps Lead In Tourney

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A tricky wind failed to stop Doug Sanders Friday and the 27-year-old Ojai, Calif., professional stayed at the top after the third round of the $30,000 Greater New Orleans Invitational Golf Tournament.

Sanders had a three-under-par 69 and showed 68-65-69—202 for his 54-hole work.

But he had a new challenger in Gay Brewer Jr., of Cincinnati, Ohio, whose 66 spun him into the runner-up spot. The 28-year-old Brewer hung up a 54-hole total of 72-65-66—203.

Young Johnny Pott of Shreveport, La., tied with Sanders for the first-round lead, shot his third straight 68 and placed third at the end of three rounds at 204.

The three had the top echelons all to themselves, since the closest contender was at 209. Howie Johnson of Cog Hill, Ill., shot a 68 and his work for the three days produced 70-71-68—209.

EOC Gains NAIA Finals

LA GRANDE (AP) — Eastern Oregon of the Oregon Collegiate Conference gained the final round of the District 2 NAIA basketball playoffs Saturday by defeating Lewis and Clark 82-77.

The score was tied 41-41 at the half. EOC had built up a 78-69 lead with two minutes remaining and was never challenged after that. Bill Maurer produced 19 points for the losers. Tom Neel was high for EOC with 17.

Scots State Champ; Pels A Little Short

CORVALLIS (Special)—The David Douglas Scots got an assist from the Black Tornado on the Oregon State College mats Saturday night when Chuck Shaw of Medford pinned Klamath Falls' Gary Hancock (191) in the third round of the finale of the state A-1 wrestling championships.

A victory by Hancock would have meant a state title for the here-to-fore unbeaten Pelican team and would have also marked the second straight year that a Hancock had nabbed a state championship. In 1960 Gary's brother John pulled down the heavy crown.

Shaw's win, however, was just enough to keep the Pelicans from passing the Scots for the state title.

David Douglas went into the championship round with only three men as compared to five for the Pels, but their added points stemming from the consolation round proved enough to bypass the KU club.

Klamath Falls, coached by DeLance Duncan, was represented by Gary Head, Dale Crumrine, Gary Leavitt, Larry Wishart and Hancock in the finals. Each was relegated to a runner-up position that resulted in a total of 53 points for the Pels as compared to 55 for the Scots.

Lebanon grabbed the third place spot with 35 markers while Medford was fourth with 33.

Duncan had high praise for his Klamath squad. He entered the tournament with only eight men, three of which were eliminated in the second round. Among the three, according to Duncan, was another pair of potential state champs. The Pels entered the tourney short the services of big Art Mills, 178, who suffered an elbow injury two weeks ago in a non-conference bout.

Duncan noted that Hancock had done a tremendous job in his bout with Shaw and added that he was extremely proud of his entire squad.

DeLANCE DUNCAN
. . . extremely proud

Saturday afternoon the Pelican grapplers swept into the championship, five strong, as each of the semi-finalists came through with wins. Coach Duncan had special praise for the Garys, Leavitt and Head, both of whom turned in great performances. Duncan was disappointed when both Milo Crumrine and Bob Mitchell were dropped out of title shots when the men they lost to the second time around were defeated in the second round. Each of the KU grapplers had been considered championship material by Duncan.

Leavitt and Dale Crumrine, by virtue of their Saturday afternoon semi-victories, dropped powerful Lebanon out of the title contention.
