

Sharp Nosed Wife Hard On Husband

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I need help—bad. I am married to a sniffer. Yes, that's what I said. She has a nose on her that would put a hunting hound to shame. The minute I step inside the door she says "Who did you have a drink with?" Or "Swell perfume—somebody you work next to, I suppose?" If I have a mint in my mouth she'll say "What are you trying to cover up with that mint? Where've you been?" Last week she said, "Your coat smells of heavy smoke. The tavern by the shop, eh?"

What beats me is the dame is always right. I get so mad I could crown her. Is there any way I can come out ahead?—DOC

Dear Doc: No. She has your number. Play it straight and don't try to outsmart her. She'll win every time—by a nose.

Dear Ann: My husband and I need some advice regarding our 17-year-old daughter. She has been going steady, against our wishes, for three years. The fellow is 21. Last month he gave her an engagement ring—also against our wishes.

Our daughter always wanted to be a nurse. Her fiancé told her he doesn't want her to be a nurse. He has advised her that in the fall she must enroll in the university where he will be a senior. He says if we refuse to send her to his university she should go to work and save toward their marriage.

Does he have the right to dictate to her just because they are engaged? Or should she listen to her parents?—S. W.

Dear S. W.: Of course she should listen to her parents, but she didn't listen to them when she was 14—or 17—so what makes you think she will listen now? Don't put all the blame on the boy for "dictating." Your daughter takes orders from him because she wants to. You lost control of her many years ago.

Dear Ann Landers: I am counting on you to give me a tongue lashing so don't let me down.

I've lost 31 pounds and have started to fall back into my old eating habits. The penalty is 15 pounds gained back. This may not sound important to you but if I don't get control of myself I will not be able to fit into my cheer-leading skirt. My mother says she will not buy me another stitch of clothing larger than a size 12. Still I continue to eat much more than I should. Please shame me into getting back on my diet. I feel miserable after I've eaten a big piece of chocolate cake, but I have no will power.—FAT-STUFF FROM KALAMAZOO

Dear Fat-Stuff: I can't come to Kalamazoo and put a zipper on your lip, Toots. And shaming you is out of the question, because you've done a thorough hatch job on yourself which proves you've got a pretty tough hide.

A high school girl who loses 31 pounds and proceeds to gain back half of it needs a head-doctor's help and guidance. Problems originating in your balcony are affecting the dimensions of your back porch.

Confidential to IN DOUBT: Stop following him. Where is your dignity anyway?

Confidential to SHOULD I?: Yes. Give this man a chance in spite of his prison record. I am betting he will not let you down. Many ex-cons are forced back into crime because no one will give them a break.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

School Heads Against Mark

SALEM (AP) — Gov. Mark O. Hatfield's bill to let him appoint the state superintendent of public instruction was opposed Thursday night by school officials and Secretary of State Howell Appling Jr.

But they supported another proposal that would have the state Board of Education appoint the superintendent, who now is elected by the people.

The governor's bill also would place the state schools for the blind and deaf from the Board of Control to the Department of Education.

Appling said nothing would be gained by changing the schools, because the state Department of Education now supervises the education at the schools.

Freeman Holmer, state finance director, said the governor would not hang tough on the proposal to let him name the superintendent.

Three school superintendents said that the board should name the superintendent, instead of becoming an advisory body as the governor proposes. They were J. W. King, Lebanon; John Thrasher, Milton-Freewater; and Elmer Fleming, Grants Pass.

S. E. Brogotti, Helix, member of the state Board of Education, agreed with them. But he said the board would be willing to take over the deaf and blind schools if the legislature wishes.

Poem Wins At Pelican

Judges gave first place award in Pelican School's fifth grade to Beth Ferry who wrote the winning poetry on George Washington in the contest among city school fifth grade classes sponsored by the Klamath Daughters of American Colonists. Beth is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Loy Ferry. Her poem follows:

GEORGE WASHINGTON
Virginia was George Washington's home
He learned the surveying trade.
O'er the countryside he did work
A friend of the frontier he made.
He fought in the French and Indian War
Martha Curtis became his wife.
He was known for his wisdom
and valor
He led a wise and useful life.

George Washington tricked the British
In the Revolutionary War.
Victory was his at the finish
Though his men were tired and sore.
The first President of our new nation
Known as Father of His Country.
Mt. Vernon was his beloved plantation
In our new land of liberty.

Plenty Of Water

PORTLAND (AP) — The Pacific Northwest should have plenty of water this summer, the U. S. Geological Survey said Thursday.

Near-record rains and snows last month and continued March storms apparently have averted what threatened to be a severe water shortage.

The storage of water in major reservoirs of the Columbia Basin was reported to be about normal. The ground water level was reported generally higher than usual.

Four KUHS Musicians On All Northwest

Four members of the Klamath Union High School Symphonic Band have been chosen as members of the all-Northwest High School Band and Orchestra that will perform Saturday evening, March 18, during the biennial meeting of the Northwest Division, National Music Educators Conference at Spokane.

They are Nancy Young and Andrea Reeder, chosen to sit in the first flute section in the band; David Poole, tuba section of the band; and Jerry Jensen, first clarinet, band and E-flat clarinet, orchestra.

The KUHS Music Department was honored to have been one of the few applicants chosen to send musicians to the conference, and the four have been further honored by their appointments, says LaMar Jensen, director of instrumental music for city schools.

The band and orchestra will contain the cream of high school musicians in Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming and Alaska.

Students meet for four days of concentrated rehearsals under nationally known directors and section leaders who are specialists of various instruments.

The band will be directed by Frank Pierson, associate professor of music and director of hands at Iowa State University. Louis G. Wersen, director of music for Philadelphia public schools, will lead the orchestra. Wersen is a graduate of Washington State University and taught formerly in the Northwest.

A number of KUHS orchestra and chorus members will perform at other times during the conference March 15 through 18.

Transient Found Guilty By Circuit Court Jury

Charles Junior Gaymon, 35-year-old transient, was found guilty of forgery by a circuit court jury, which deliberated only 15 minutes before returning an 11-1 verdict for conviction.

Gaymon had been accused of cashing a $50 forged check at the Unique Market, 129 South Ninth Street, last Dec. 5.

The trial took just one day and the lone serious point of contention between the state and the defense was the admission of the check in question into evidence. The check was finally admitted by Judge David R. Vandenberg over the objections of Defense Attorney John Thomas. District Attorney John Thomas. District died the case for the state.

Gaymon will be sentenced next Tuesday morning.

Lakeview To Offer Work

LAKEVIEW — Members of the county court, fair board and welfare commission for Lake County are working out a program wherein able-bodied men who are on relief will be used for a work program at the fairgrounds, County Judge C. W. Ogle reports.

The program will affect about 13 to 15 men who are unemployed, have families and do not receive social security or other benefits. These men are not at present eligible for old age or medical assistance.

Work needed to be done at the fairgrounds includes fence repairs, covering of water pipes and cleaning and burning of refuse. As the roundup grounds and fairgrounds are owned by the county the roundup association is also cooperating with the group in lining up necessary jobs. A supervisor will be obtained for a minimum salary. The men will report for work to the county court or welfare office.

Burglars Hit Two Schools

NEW PINE CREEK — Kelly Creek School here and State Line School across the border in California were burglarized Monday night, authorities said.

Lake County sheriff's deputies said the thieves took $60 in cafeteria funds from a teacher's desk at Kelly Creek School. They sprang a window for entry and tried the lock on the desk.

Modoc County deputies could find nothing missing at the other school. Entry was also gained through a window.

Officers stated the entries appeared to be the work of professional thieves.

Small Railroad Makes Money For City

PRINEVILLE (AP) — Take a small, defunct railroad, put it on its feet and manage it carefully, and it can make a million dollars profit in little more than a decade.

That was demonstrated a few days ago when the City of Prineville Railway put another $10,000 check into the city treasury, making more than a million dollars since 1949.

In 1945, when C. C. McGinn became manager of the line for Prineville, the railroad had been a liability for some years. The road had disintegrated, ties had rotted and track needed replacement. There was talk of abandoning what was then called the "Toonerville" line.

Members of the City Council, however, believed that the line could supply a needed outlet for Crook County mills and ranches, and could be made to pay its own way.

In four years, under the new management, debts were paid, new ties and rails installed and the roadbed overhauled. An ancient steam locomotive was replaced first with one, then with a second diesel locomotive. By 1949, as cars continued to shuttle back and forth, the railroad was showing a tidy profit.

Declining lumber shipments recently have lowered the profit margin, from a peak of $167,500 in 1953 to $36,821 last year. Total profits turned over to the city since June 30, 1949, is $1,001,654. Railroad equipment is valued at $22,654.

Railroad profits help hold Prineville taxes down to second lowest in the state for cities of comparable population. Declining lumber shipments may further affect the profit in 1961, but meanwhile the city has tucked under its belt the fact that many modern improvements have been put into the city, from parks to a new municipal hall.

Washington Leaders In Tribute To Harry Truman

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman Thursday night observed an anniversary, and the occasion was awash with nostalgia and good spirits.

President Kennedy popped in to help celebrate the 20th anniversary of the creation of the Senate War Investigating Committee, which served as Truman's springboard to national prominence.

The dinner party was arranged by Charles Patrick Clark, who served as counsel for that long ago committee Truman headed. Many of Washington's most prominent faces—old and new, Republican and Democrat—beamed at the former president around the banquet table.

Visibly moved by many tributes, Truman who is 76 told them: "I'm going to do what I can (for the country), but I haven't much left."

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Fadeley To Speak

SALEM (AP) — Rep. Ed Fadeley, D - Eugene, will speak Wednesday night before the Josephine County Democratic Central Committee in Grants Pass. His subject will be: "What a Freshman Democratic legislator finds in Salem."

Fadeley is the sponsor of a bill that would require lobbyists to register and report their expenses. He is expected to speak on this bill.

Truman, in return, promised to come to Washington to speak at the May 27 party fund-raising dinner.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson said that there "never was a time, rain or shine, warm or cold, dark or daylight" that Truman ever ignored a plea from a friend.

There was praise, too, from Henry A. Wallace, Truman's predecessor as vice president, who was fired from the Truman cabinet, and by Sen. Styles Bridges, R-N.H., chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee. Bridges said that Truman was "one of the most politically-minded men" he ever met.

Chief Justice Warren, another Republican, said that he had become through the years, "much attached to President Truman."

There were many more laudatory speeches. "I am overwhelmed," Truman said finally.
