Whitebirds Victors Despite Adversities

troubled him all his life. According to doctors his vertebral structure is completely out of kilter.

He had to start the season wearing a "corset" bracing the back, but he soon discarded it and forgot about his trouble. It didn't slow him up in the tournament any more than did a hand that was still healing from a nasty cut between his fingers.

To compound Biehn's aches, a badly twisted ankle became his as a result of the action in the semifinals at state. With the help of Dr. Fletcher Conn, a Pelican rooster on hand at the tournament, Biehn shook that one off, too.

Second team all-star Wally Palmberg, the Pelicans' number one scorer over the long season, was stricken with an attack of appendicitis at a crucial point and was forced to miss out on valuable practices and league games.

He fought the doctor, the coach and his parents to get back in the harness as soon as possible. The possibility of ripping out some stitches in his anxiousness to rejoin the club obviously never occurred to him. Palmberg played tournament ball as if the appendix had never existed.

Reserve guard 5-9 junior Shern Allen suffered a brain concussion in the final game of the season, the Pel's only loss to Medford. . . he took a couple of days' rest and was right back at it.

Another guard, senior Bob Lapsley, came up with a bad infection in a boil . . . just before the tournament. It necessitated doctor's care. Any bad effects from the sore spot were completely ignored by Lapsley.

Big senior Ray Taylor twisted his back during the latter part of the season but you couldn't notice him having any trouble at the tournament . . . and there was no complaint.

Senior forward Wayne Dennis jumped for a while with a bad case of shin-splints . . . these too disappeared, or were forgotten.

To cap it off, their coach, Dean White, broke his hand in an independent league basketball game just before his trip to the tournament.

There may have been ailments troubling other members of the squad . . . but they were never mentioned, if such was the case.

To cap it off, their coach, Dean White, broke his hand in an independent league basketball game just before his trip to the tournament.

And everyone he met at Eugene had to shake his injured hand. He winced through this until he finally found time to get the hand set and splinted . . . just in time to accept the thousands of congratulations that came his way for guiding the Pelicans to the third Oregon basketball championship in the history of the school.

This is his third trip to Eugene since he took the Pel helm in 1959. That year he nabbed sixth place; in 1960 he was third, and in 1961 he steered the "crippled" Pelicans to the absolute top.

mortems of the fight mob over the late and unlamented heavyweight title fight, a bad string of losers at the races (horse, dog and human) and more fishing shutouts than a Saturday shop-keeper.

But here's the way it stacks up from here:

National League—1. San Francisco Giants, 2. Milwaukee Braves, 3. Los Angeles Dodgers, 4. Pittsburgh Pirates, 5. St. Louis Cardinals, 6. Cincinnati Reds, 7. Chicago Cubs and 8. Philadelphia Phillies.

American League—1. Chicago White Sox, 2. Baltimore Orioles, 3. New York Yankees, 4. Cleveland Indians, 5. Minnesota Twins, 6. Detroit Tigers, 7. Boston Red Sox, 8. Kansas City A's, 9. Los Angeles Angels and 10. Washington Senators.

Kuenn Big Help
Considering the National League first, the Giants get the call in this corner because Harvey Kuenn figures to make the infield jell instead of jelly; Bill O'Dell should get back on the track with Juan Marichal as a big surprise while Willie Mays and Orlando Cepeda supply the power.

The Braves will be running at them as long as Spahn, Burdette and company have any arms left at all and probably the best infield in baseball puts them in the picture all the way despite Charlie Dressen's mournful whistling.

The Dodgers are packed with pitching but Frank Howard can't make me forget the dulled or departed likes of Hodges, Furillo and Snider.

I didn't think the Pirates would win last year and this time I'm sure the clock will strike for the Cinderella club and they'll ride home in a pumpkin.

The Cardinals, off their strong finish last year, are talking pennant. But this is not the end of the year, only another distressing beginning. The Reds, as usual, need pitching help and maybe milkman Jim Turner can help. But you have to look through the long end of the binoculars to see how much.

The Cubs are still the Cubs. The Phils are saved from ninth or 10th because Houston and New York do not join the league until next year. You don't win without runs and the Phils can't get 'em.

Sox Have Pitching
The Chicago White Sox get the nod in what could be a five-team race in the American League on the strength of their all-powerful pitching. Last year when the starters were winning, the relievers should have been paying their way into the ball park—and vice versa. This time there are high hopes that they'll get together.

The Baltimore Orioles appear to have too many rookies who must make good as sophomores—a debatable chore, while the Yankees have more troubles than they have been accustomed to in many years. Their woes are centered on the hill and Casey Stengel's departure won't be as negligible as the owners try to make it appear.

Basketball Probe Continues To Widen Showdowns Due In NIT, NCAA

Field Sliced To 10 Clubs For Nationals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The National Invitation Tournament, as unpredictable as ever, swings back into the basketball spotlight Tuesday night while Ohio State, still sighing with obvious relief, preps for a weekend showdown in defense of its National Collegiate (NCAA) championships.

Dayton plays Temple and Niagara meets flashy Providence in a doubleheader at New York's Madison Square Garden that will decide which pair joins St. Louis and Holy Cross in Thursday's NIT semifinals. Dayton (19-7) and Niagara (16-4) are the last of the original field of 12 teams in action in the 24th New York tournament and each has a score to settle after the way the other two seeded clubs—Colorado State and Memphis State—were treated in their openers.

Memphis State, considered a strong championship threat, was bounced by streaking Holy Cross 81-69, and St. Louis spilled Colorado State 59-53.

The six NIT survivors and Ohio State, Cincinnati, St. Joseph's (Pa.) and Utah—the four regional champions in the NCAA scrambling—are all that's left as another collegiate season, clouded for the second time in a decade by an ominous fix scandal, moves toward its climax next Saturday.

The NIT plays its final on Saturday afternoon with the NCAA championship Saturday night in Kansas City, where unbeaten Ohio State plays St. Joseph's and Cincinnati meets Utah in semifinal tests Friday night.

The two small college tournaments ended last Saturday, with Wittenberg (Ohio) beating Southeast Missouri 42-38 for the NCAA title, and Grambling (La.) whipping Georgetown (Ky.) 85-75 in the NAIA final.

Ohio State extended its two-season winning streak to 31 and its 1960-61 record to 26-0 over the weekend, thumping Kentucky 87-74 in the Midwest regional final at Louisville Saturday night after escaping with a 56-55 victory over the University of Louisville 24 hours before.

All-America Jerry Lucas, held to a career low of nine points by Louisville, stormed back with 33 points and 30 rebounds in the Kentucky romp.

In St. Joseph's, the Buckeyes meet a club on a 15-game streak after spilling Princeton 72-67 and then Wake Forest 96-86 in the Eastern regional at Charlotte.

An Ohio State victory likely would set up a meeting of the nation's No. 1 and No. 2 teams, since second-ranked Cincinnati will be favored over Utah's Skyline Conference kings in the other semifinal.

Cincinnati pushed its winning streak to 20 and its over-all record to 25-3 by beating Texas Tech 78-53 and Kansas State 69-64 in the Midwest regional at Lawrence, Kan.

Utah, which won the Skyline NCAA berth in a playoff with Colorado State, got 60 points from 6-9 Billy McGill in nailing the Far West regional crown at Portland, Ore., with a 91-75 triumph over Loyola of Los Angeles and an 88-80 decision over Arizona State.

Providence, with Johnny Egan scoring 34 points, downed DePaul 73-67 and Temple built a 24-point halftime lead and coasted past out-of-class Army 79-66 in an afternoon doubleheader in the NIT that preceded the quarter-final triumphs by Holy Cross and St. Louis.

C. K. Yang Paces UCLA Exhibition Baseball

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—UCLA's powerful track and field team will compete in Santa Barbara's Easter Relays Saturday and the Bruins' C. K. Yang might be the star of the meet.

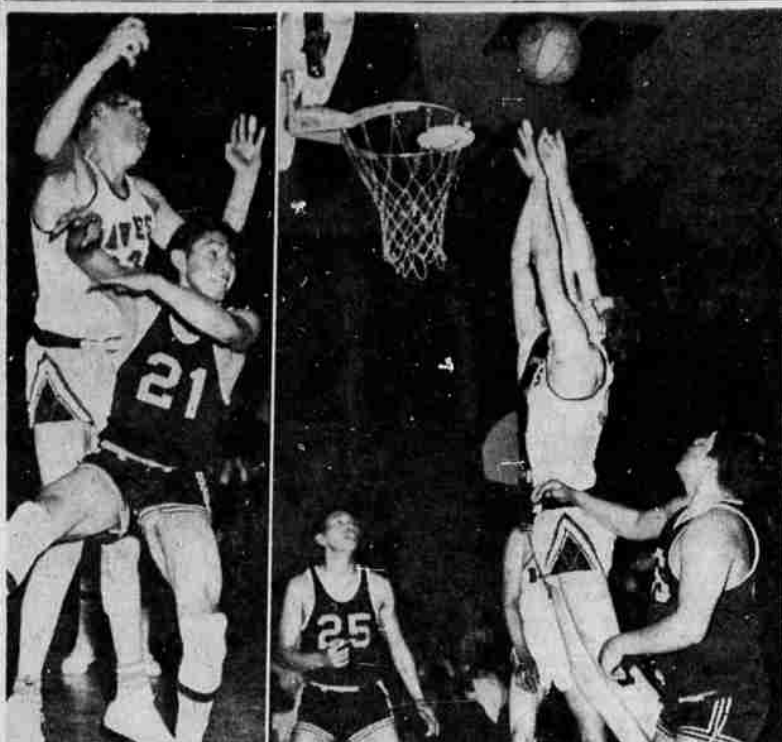

The Chinese decathlete ace tossed the javelin 226 feet, 1 inch Saturday as the Bruins won 12 of 15 events in downing the University of California at Santa Barbara and Cal Poly of San Luis Obispo.

The heave was Yang's all-time best. It was the only event in which he competed because of a pulled leg muscle.

Meet records were set in the 440 by sophomore Andy Dunkell (46.2) and shot put by Clark Stranor (57-7½).

The Bruins had a total of 111½ points against 37½ for UCSB and 11 for Cal Poly. In a concurrent meet, the UCLA frosh scored 89½ points to beat the UCSB frosh with 36 and Santa Barbara City College with 34½.

The San Francisco Giants pitching staff turned in 16 shutouts during the 1960 season.

Former Bullpen Specialists Regaining Old Form In Florida

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Injury-plagued Don Mossi and Ray Narleski are reforming the combination that made them the relief pitching duo in the majors.

The former bullpen specialists, who made 82 appearances between them for pennant-winning Cleveland in 1954, then continued to toil spectacularly until traded to Detroit in 1958, picked up victories Sunday as the Tigers won a pair of exhibitions.

Mossi, who compiled a 9-8 record with a 3.47 earned run average although slowed by a sore arm in the 1960 campaign, hurled effectively for five innings and combined with Paul Foytack to six-hit Washington 14-1.

Narleski, sidelined for the entire season last year with a ruptured disc in his back, allowed three runs in his first inning before settling down for two stanzas of scoreless relief as the other half of the Tigers' squad edged Philadelphia 10-8.

In other games, St. Louis whipped Pittsburgh 8-0, Kansas City blanked the Chicago White Sox 2-0, Cincinnati outlasted Milwaukee 13-10, Minnesota Twins bombed Los Angeles Dodgers 10-2.

Cleveland beat San Francisco 15-9, Baltimore edged New York 7-6 and Chicago's Cubs split, defeating the Los Angeles Angels 10-8 while losing to Boston 6-1.

Charley Maxwell hit two homers and a double in Detroit's 16-hit outburst against the Senators while home runs by Larry Osborne and pinch hitter Bubba Morton in an 18-hit attack gave them their victory over the Phils.

Tony Curry drove in five Philadelphia runs with three doubles. The Cards won it early, lacing Pittsburgh starter Harvey Haddix for five first-inning runs on singles by Julian Javier, Bill White, Ken Boyer, and Stan Musial, a double by Daryl Spencer and two passed balls. Bob Gibson, Ron Kline and Lindy McDaniel blanked the world champions on seven hits—four by Bill Mazeroski.

Rookie Norm Bass started the string of shutout frames against the White Sox, pitching three-hit ball over five innings before Dick Wickersham and Dick Hall finished up. Andy Carey drove in one Kansas City run with a single. Frank Cipriani accounted for the other with a sacrifice fly.

Wally Post's third spring homer was the key shot of a six-run eighth as the Reds piled it on against the Braves after forging ahead with a seven-run second. Homers by Zorro Versalles and Harmon Killebrew triggered the Twins' triumph over the Dodgers in a rain-shortened six-inning contest.

Eight runs in the fourth inning—three on a homer by John Romano and another trio on Willie Kirkland's double—got the job done for the Indians against the Giants. Yogi Berra's throwing error allowed Gus Triandos to score with the clincher for Baltimore as the Yankees lost their eighth in nine games.

Other Players To Appear: Two Accused

NEW YORK (AP)—Another parade of witnesses in the current college basketball scandal was scheduled to go before the district attorney's investigators today as the probe continued to widen.

"We will be questioning several players and others from various colleges under investigation," said a spokesman for the district attorney's office.

So far two Seton Hall players and one from the University of Connecticut have been accused of accepting bribes to hold down the point totals of two specific games.

The district attorney said Henry Gunter and Arthur Hicks, both 21, of Seton Hall, were paid $1,000 each for shaving their team's points in a game against Dayton in Madison Square Garden on Feb. 9.

The University of Connecticut player, so far unidentified, was paid $1,500 to hold down the score of his team in a game against Colgate, in Hamilton, N.Y., on March 1, the district attorney said.

Two accused fixers have been arrested. They are Aaron Wagman, 26, of New York, and Joseph Hadden, 41, also of New York. Both have previous gambling convictions.

Two assistant district attorneys—Alfred J. Scotti, head of the racketeers bureau, and Peter Andreoli—headed the investigation and apparently they want to give protection to the players questioned. They refused even to say where they would quiz today's witnesses.

This seems to be the wish of District Attorney Frank Hogan, who also handled the investigation in the 1951 scandal that involved 33 players from some of the top teams in the country.

Hogan, insiders say, felt he could have gotten more convictions in the 1951 case if there hadn't been so much publicity given to the players.

But John Nucatola, supervisor of the 600 eastern officials who work the college games, disagreed. He wanted names named, especially the schools under investigation.

"They say there are 15 or 20 schools involved," he said, "and they don't even pinpoint them geographically. Now people all over the country looks at each college and ask: 'Was it this one?' and they look at each player and ask: 'Was it you?'"

Nucatola said one way to eliminate the fixers would be to stop giving out point spreads and odds on games.

"In Madison Square Garden I hear the gamblers squawk over referee's calls that an 8-year-old could have made. They squawk because the call goes against the point spread," he said. "I don't think we should service this group of people."

Rivals Laud Both Teams

as the game was played and replayed and both winning and losing coaches and players were congratulated.

While the Klamath Falls fans were celebrating their win there was a definite reason for the Medfordites to join them.

The two schools shared the knowledge that the Southern Oregon Conference had emerged from the tournament one-two in state rankings contrary to pre-tourney dolesters' predictions that the bigger Portland area schools and the edge.

Summoned to the microphone during the festivities by his admirers, Pelican coach Dean White, head of the KU basketball fortunes since 1959, keynoted the evening when he said, "I believe tonight dispelled all doubt in some minds as to the caliber of basketball we play in the Southern Oregon Conference. . . . We beat a great ball team and a great coach, Frank Roelandt. Medford was better than anyone else in the tournament . . . with the possible exception of the Pelicans."

White also said, "I believe tonight's ball game, regardless of the win or loss, has removed any 'bad blood' or harsh feelings between the two schools. . . . we are banded together against the rest of the state."

White had previously stated that he had a great deal of respect for Roelandt, saying that he should be considered the "coach of the year" for his team's development over the season.

Roelandt, who attended the party in company with Lee Ragdale, the athletic director of Medford High, followed White to the microphone. "If we had to be beaten, I'm glad it was by Klamath Falls. . . . long live the Southern Oregon Conference," he exclaimed.

Mike Pyle, Yale's football captain, is a heavyweight on the Elgin wrestling team.

Topping said that he and Webb waived territorial rights last December to allow the new National League team to play in the Polo Grounds, old home of the Giants, until they got their own ball park.
