

Steel Makers Refuse To Hold Price Line

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—Major U.S. steel producers have given President Kennedy a unanimous "no" to his request for a pledge to hold the steel price line. They didn't say they would boost prices, but most disputed his contention that they could absorb a coming increase in wage payments and still record ample profits.

The Cape Cod White House released replies of seven companies to the President's letter of Sept. 6 to a dozen leading manufacturers. The other five—U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Jones & Laughlin, Republic and Colorado Fuel & Iron—previously responded. In effect, steel executives who offered any comment suggested government policies were more of an inflationary factor than industry policies. They also cited economic pressures for a raise in prices. M. A. Cudlip, president of McClouth Steel Corp. made no comment. He simply said he had received the President's letter. The seven replies made public Friday came from Wheeling, Armco, Inland, Kaiser, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, National and McClouth. Logan T. Johnston of Armco said his company is reconsidering a $341-million improvement program because of a diminishing profit level.

Obliging Girl Launders Shirts

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a girl 20 years of age who is going with a fellow 27. Boris had one unsuccessful marriage and does not want another one. His first wife was a brainless little goddess about how to keep house or how to be a wife. This fellow brings his laundry over once a week so I can practice on his shirts and get them just the way he wants them. He's very fussy about the amount of starch and all. He says if I get it down to perfection now it will save arguments after we are married. My father gets very burned up when he sees Boris bringing his laundry over here. He says his mother should be taking care of his clothes. Who is right?—AIMING TO PLEASE

Dear Aiming: Your father. If you want to practice ironing why don't you do Dad's shirts? You can conquer the starch problem later.

Dear Ann Landers: You seem like a broad-minded person. I hope you'll give me the answer I want. I've been going with a very nice man for several months. He has a peculiarity that drives me crazy. He refuses to have even one drop of liquor. I'm no lush, Ann. In fact, three is my limit but I do enjoy one or two cocktails before dinner when we eat out. It's very embarrassing for a woman to order a drink when her escort sits there and says "No thank you." He makes her look like a fool — or worse yet, a solitary drunk. Last night there were others present and I asked him to order a mild cocktail just to be sociable. You know liquor makes people more jovial and friendly. He refused in front of everybody. I say a gentleman would have ordered one drink and sipped it just to be polite. Right?—BETSY

Dear Betsy: Wrong. Your friend may be an alcoholic who should not have even one teaspoon of liquor, much less one drink. Since he's good enough to let you drink if you wish, then you should be good enough to let him NOT drink if he doesn't wish.

As for liquor making people "jovial and friendly," I've read thousands of letters from women whose husbands have become so "jovial and friendly" that they can't hold a job. Their lives are a mess and they manage to mess up the lives of good women and innocent children. Dear Ann Landers: Please let me describe myself to you and then tell me what I can do about it. Well, first my hair is straight as a string and no matter what I do with it, it won't curl. Then there is my face. I have blue eyes which are quite small. Is there anything that can be done about small eyes? My nose is too big for my face. My figure isn't bad but I am too heavy in the middle. I have been doing exercises to get my waistline down but so far I can't notice any results. I'm O.K. around girls but when I get around boys I remember how ugly I am and then I freeze up. If you can suggest some beauty hints to help me out I would appreciate it.—PLAIN UGLY

Dear Plain: You'll never win a beauty contest — so what? Too many girls who consider their face their fortune wind up bankrupt. Forget about your small eyes and your straight hair. Concentrate on developing a pleasant personality. If you are friendly and fun to be with the fact that you're no beauty won't matter.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teenage Smoking," enclosing 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

WITHDRAWS FROM RACE
ANKARA, Turkey (UPI) — The oldest son of former Turkish Premier Adnan Menderes, who was hanged earlier this week, has dropped out of the Oct. 15 elections at his late father's request. Yuksel Menderes said Wednesday he was withdrawing from the race for parliament because his father in a letter had asked him to stay out of politics.

Travelers Aid Society Gets Help From United Fund

Editor's Note: This is the first of a Herald and News series of reports on Klamath County United Fund agencies. As many of the 28 remaining agencies will be covered in subsequent stories as time and space permit.

County people away from home. The first Travelers Aid was established by a former St. Louis mayor in the days when "Go West Young Man" was still echoing in the ears of slum-bound New Yorkers. Because St. Louis was the gateway to the great gold-bearing west, thousands flocked to that city in preparation for the culmination of "manifest destiny."

Soil Conservation Directors Make Plans For Annual Meeting Here

Plans for the annual meeting of the Oregon Association of Soil Conservation districts were formulated Friday by a group of 35 officers and directors meeting at the Willard Hotel. The annual session is planned for Klamath Falls for Nov. 8, 9 and 10 and will draw 250 to 300 members of the state's 60 soil conservation districts.

Following that start, which furnished places to live and food to eat for wealth-hungry Americans headed for the gold fields, another great movement demanded more individual agencies. Around the turn of the century, the influx of foreigners into the seaports of the east, combined with legions of farm-bred boys and girls headed for the big city, demanded another Travelers Aid branch, and another and still another.

Problems of the districts and possible solutions are the prime discussions of the three-day sessions, but two other activities are held in conjunction with the convalescence. One is the finals of the public speaking contest on soil conservation. Five high school finalists will speak in the competition with cash prizes being awarded for the top three.

Tax Court Names Pair

SALEM (AP)—John A. Bryan and Mrs. Evelyn Scott, both of Salem, were named Friday to the full-time staff of the Oregon Tax Court by Judge Peter Gunnar.

Bryan will serve as small claims administrator. His prime duty will be to schedule small claims hearings and interview and instruct taxpayers on how to present a small claims case.

Mrs. Scott will be law clerk. She is a 1961 graduate of Willamette University College of Law and has worked extensively as a court reporter and in administrative, research and secretarial positions for the Oregon legislature. She was a member of the staff of Gov. Paul Patterson.

Prosecution Ends Case

NEWPORT, Ore. (AP)—Dist. Atty. A.R. McMullen was to end the prosecution's case Saturday at a special Circuit Court session in the first degree murder trial of Larry West Shipley, 20, McMinnville.

Baby Killed In Car Crash

PORTLAND (AP)—A 1½-year-old boy was killed Saturday as an automobile missed a curve and crashed into a parked car on the southwest Portland outskirts.

The victim was William Ronald Odell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Terrence Odell, Portland. The father was driving the car. He escaped serious injury. The mother and a passenger in the car, Melvin J. Wofford, 19, were hospitalized. The wreck occurred near 9409 SW Boones Ferry Road. It was the 43rd traffic fatality of the month and the 350th of the year on the Associated Press list for Oregon.

Hearing Set On Art Theft

WEST LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Preliminary hearing will be held Oct. 5 for Edward Ashdown, 39, an unsuccessful Costa Mesa, Calif., real estate broker accused of the daring robbery of four paintings worth $246,000 from a multimillionaire industrialist's mansion. Detectives, who arrested Ashdown Thursday afternoon, said he admitted taking the paintings, two Picassos, a Modigliani and an Afro, Sept. 10 from the Bel-Air District home of David E. Bright.

Collections Hit High Mark

SALEM (AP)—State tax collections in July and August were $19,019,469, compared to $18,735,016 in the same months last year, the state Tax Commission said Friday. Of that amount, personal income tax collections were $17,456,063, up about $700,000. The commission's figures indicated that collections now are on the upturn after having been down
