

KUHS Hosts Region 5 Conclave

Some 250 representatives from 45 high schools in Coos, Curry, Josephine, Jackson and Klamath counties left Klamath Union Tuesday morning for home after a successful Region 5 conference of high school student body officers and advisers held in Klamath Falls Monday.

and community relations, student body codes, student body finances, interschool relationships and sportsmanship, student-faculty relations, the promotion of student interest and participation in school activities and assemblies, home representation and communication problems, and student council problems.

year's officers: President, Crater; vice president, Reedsport; treasurer, Henley; secretary, Brookings; members - at - large, Grants Pass and Sacred Heart of Klamath Falls.

The meet wound up with a banquet in the Willard Hotel, which was "out of towners" and 175 guests were present. Judy Eberhart of Ashland delivered the after-dinner address, and was followed by guest speaker John Kerbow, state representative for two terms.

Homecoming Festivities Slated For Oct. 12-13

Concentrated efforts are underway at Klamath Union this week to make KU's fourth annual homecoming a success in face of two factors already foreseen to give the Pelicans trouble in their traditional football conquest.

of Biehn Street. The school's letterman club will build the bonfire, the site of the crowning of a lovely homecoming queen by club president Sherm Allen.

A huge bonfire, burning Medford in effigy, will kick off the festivities Thursday night on the Graham Brothers' lot at the end

After a big pep assembly scheduled for Modoc Field during the last class of the school day Friday afternoon, a colorful, float-filled parade will wind its way down Main Street headed by the KUHS marching band, rally squad, and pep clubs.

The most important event will be the game Friday evening with special half-time entertainment—all aimed to boost the Pelican "eleven" on to victory.

The Home Economics Department is up $900, because of a newly-created two-teacher department. The Math Department is up $900, because more students are taking math courses and using more supplies. Music is up $1,000, because the budget was cut last year and this year it was felt the money

JIM DREW

Student Body Elects Drew Fourth-Vice

On Sept. 22, KU voted freshman Jim Drew as fourth vice president of the student body. The final election followed an earlier one which ended in a runoff between Drew, David Lyman, and Judy Ward.

Sue, a senior, as is Gary, is active in Pep Peppers and Latin Club.

Drew expressed his feelings of being elected by saying, that it was "... quite an honor to be chosen from the 700 freshmen."

As the title implies, the two were chosen by their friendliness and both are definitely deserving of the honor.

Duties of the fourth vice president are being chairman of the Lost and Found Committee and being a member of the Eligibility Committee.

Barbara Vinson, senior, one of Oregon's two representatives at Girls' Nation in Washington, D.C., this past summer, and Larry McClure, another senior, who is star fullback on the Pelican football team, were named girl and boy of the month for September. The pair were selected by Girls League and Boys Alliance respectively.

He will now join the line of succession to the presidency.

Barbara is not only active in Pep Peppers, I.R.L., Ski Club, and Honor Society but is also secretary of the student body.

Barb, a 5' 8", 124-pound brunette, is 17 and hails from the state of Washington. As her best friends she names Kathy Ellington, Bonnie Lake, Janet Fowler, and Julie Bratton.

YHS Picks Officers

YREKA—Stephen Pueyo, Yreka High School principal, announced the school's student council was organized last week with the election of 19 student officers, with the exception of a freshman class president.

Barley Sale Gets Underway
PORTLAND (AP)—The Commodity Credit Corporation was to offer some 50,000 bushels of barley for sale in Portland today.

Portland Zoo Railway Makes Profit
PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—It is rare, indeed, that a new railroad is established, and rarer, still, that it makes a profit. But a new one here is doing a brisk, profitable business.

Line Three Year's Old
The first run over the narrow-gauge tracks was made June 8, 1968. The line has been growing steadily since with more track, more rolling stock.

Has Mail Contract
The railway has a special dignity, too: A $1-a-year contract with the United States government to carry mail. Letters dropped into slots in the sides of the locomotives get the official postmark, "Portland Zoo Railway, Oregon."

Students Paint Murals For Something To Do

ELYRIA, Ohio (UPI)—The home of a family here is becoming a showplace because a 15-year-old high school sophomore "wished something to do."

Mike Katz has been decorating his parents' home since June by painting murals on the walls.

So far he has painted them in three different rooms. He began by painting a picture of a calypso drummer on one wall in his bedroom. The mural stands more than six feet high and is done in red, yellow and black.

In his parents' room he did a mural of an apple blossom branch with colors of blue, pink and green.

His latest artistic effort was a scenic landscape on the closet door in the living room. The landscape is painted in brown, bronze and gold. He completed it in two days.

The young artist says he sketches the mural with a pencil before painting them.

"Then, if they pass my approval, he paints them on," his mother, Mrs. Michael Katz, laughingly added.

However, she indicated she is quite happy to have a talented decorator in her own home. She says "the murals add to the brightness of the house."

Mike doesn't limit his talent to one type of art. He also drew up the plans for and constructed a fish pond in the family's backyard. The kidney-shaped pool is partially surrounded by a rock garden.

He also drew pencil portraits of President Kennedy and Vice President Johnson, which he sent to the White House. Two weeks later he received a letter of thanks. That, properly framed, now hangs proudly over his bed.

Mike also enjoys sculpturing and has some of his works in this field on display in his home. Otherwise, he is a normal happy teenager interested in tennis, ice skating and basketball.

He plans to major in art in college and become either a commercial artist or a magazine illustrator.

Hilton Suit Arguments End
PORTLAND (AP)—Court arguments ended for the time being Thursday in a suit filed by the prime contractor on the Hilton Hotel project in Portland.

The contractor, Anderson-Westfall, Inc., Portland, is seeking to rescind its contract because of what it said was unreasonable delay and expense caused by structural changes in the building.

The plaintiff and defense attorneys were scheduled to examine a transcript of the case and submit written briefs to Circuit Judge Arno H. Denecke. Denecke will give his decision after hearing additional oral arguments.

A marine contractor turned his designer loose to help with the streamliner.

Railway executives, trainmasters, clerks and road foremen of the area's major railroads turned up and joined local businessmen on their days off in using pickaxes and shovels and mauls. The schools sprouted stock salesmen. (One share of stock and a ride for a dollar.)

An auction held in cooperation with the adjacent Oregon Museum of Science and Industry sold such things as a $4,000 diamond brooch, a Bavarian beer dinner for 75, a luncheon date with Miss America, a dinner with the governor and his wife, an Australian walley. All were donated and profits bordered on 100 per cent. The auction is repeated each year.

Profits alone won't do it unless growth costs are held down. Right now directors are looking for some

Take It From Kathy

Q—I'm a sophomore in high school and I want very much to be a nurse. My parents say "No!" What should I do to change their minds? Karen.

Dear Karen: Hope you aren't one of the people guilty of making up one's mind before you have the facts. You'd have a giant-sized problem if you were completing your senior year and all set to start that career! As things stand though, there's enough time for both you and your parents to find a happy solution, Karen. Do something positive about it—take the necessary science courses and prove you can handle them well. Without this aptitude you would be lost in nurses' training. It's a good general background for any career.

As soon as you're old enough your parents will probably okay a job as nurses' aide since this is an excellent chance to get a broad view of nursing. You see things as they really are—not at all like they appear in the movies.

Give your parents credit for a little experience. Check out their career suggestions. If, after doing this, you still are serious about a nursing career, they will know that you have thought it out and not made a snap decision. Just remember, "Taint a crime to change your mind."

One last thought—If your high school offers guidance counseling, take advantage of it. Counsellors are good listeners, and believe me, they can help.

HIP SHOOTING — The first step in the firing exercise is noted here by city manager Robert Kyle as patrolman Vic Murdock highshoots 10 rounds at the target from the seven-yard post. They have only 25 seconds to fire the 10 rounds, that means firing five shots, reloading and firing five more.

HILBERT PAINTING — Mike Katz has been decorating his parents' home since June by painting murals on the walls.

RAPID FIRE — Officer Phil Chlopek demonstrates the deadly effect of the Thompson submachine gun and its effect on the silhouetted target. Here he is firing from the 25-yard post during a special demonstration of the weapon.
