Firetrap Play Pier Transformed Into Glamor Entertainment Park

By JOSEPH JARES
United Press International
SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI)—Once a decrepit firetrap, the amusement pier here has been transformed into a beautiful and profitable entertainment area called Pacific Ocean Park.

A sort of Disneyland-by-the-sea, POP came into existence and survived a tidal wave of red ink largely through the work of Ben A. O'Dorisio, president and minor stockholder.

The park opened July 22, 1958, and lost money the first two seasons. But O'Dorisio reports it now is safely in the black because of a policy he calls Pay One Price, which, conveniently enough for billboards, has the same initials as the park.

The customer, adult or child, shells out $1.75 for admittance, more than 40 attractions and dancing in the POP Pavilion to the music of Freddy Martin.

"It's fantastic," said O'Dorisio. "Most of the top parks around the country are copying the idea."

POP took in $2 million in paid admissions last year, compared to $759,000 in 1959, when the cost of each ride was separate.

The park was an International Promenade with Spanish, German, Cantonese, English, French and Italian restaurants, a "speakeasy" entered through a telephone booth, a decorator's show, an automatic radio station, a swank night club and rides galore.

The idea for the park came to O'Dorisio and a business associate, William H. Jaynes, when the two were working for the Los Angeles Turf Club (Santa Anita), managing its Lake Arrowhead properties.

With the Turf Club and the Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS) putting up the money, POP was built at a cost of $10 million. With other costs, the plant set the owners back about $15 million, O'Dorisio said.

John M. Morehart, real estate developer and rancher, bought out the Santa Anita and CBS interest in the park in October, 1959, but O'Dorisio stayed.

"They were a great asset," said O'Dorisio of the original owners. "I've never worked for finer people. We were fortunate to have groups of that stature backing it. I've never been discouraged. I think it was just a matter of time. We originally set a five-year deadline in which to show results, but we made big inroads last year."

The old Ocean Park Pier, which went up in flames three times, thus became a tourist attraction.

O'Dorisio said the Federal Redevelopment Agency is planning to tear out much of the surrounding blighted area in Santa Monica and Los Angeles (POP is on the border) and build a $60 million development with shopping center and about 2,000 living units.

And O'Dorisio can always count on the drawing power of the Pacific Ocean itself.

"Most of all, I enjoy it," said O'Dorisio. "I don't think you could run an amusement park without enjoying it."

Motherhood No Handicap For This Singing Career

NEW YORK (UPI)—Motherhood for Phyllis Curtin will not be a handicap to her career, but something to give her new cheer.

"You can bet that this baby will be the most-traveled in the world," the beautiful prima donna said in her upper West Side apartment where she lives with her photographer-husband, Gene Cook.

Miss Curtin became a major opera figure about five years ago when she starred in "Salome" at the New York City Opera and since has performed the taxing title role in Europe and South Africa.

There also is the story that Miss Curtin, on three hours' notice, stepped on stage at the Vienna State Opera and sang the Cio Cio San role in "Madama Butterfly" even though she had not previously seen this company's production of the Puccini classic about the fickle American naval officer and a Japanese girl. She received an ovation.

Such critics as Howard Taubman of the New York Times have hailed her as a "superb" singer. She combines this great singing ability with a natural knack for acting that doubles her value on stage.

But the most startling aspect about this West Virginia-born singer is her beauty. She is so photogenic that pictures of her showing in many of the more sophisticated restaurants.

Because of her beauty, Broadway producers have sought to cast her in musicals. She has politely turned them down, preferring the opera stage and concert hall.

Miss Curtin does not cater to convention in concert halls.

A soprano generally sings the same numbers in a concert, but it is more likely that Miss Curtin will sing unfamiliar tunes to an unfamiliar audience.

"In opera, a singer has other singers and an orchestra to help make the work easier," Miss Curtin said. "But on the concert stage, the singer has only her accompanist."

"For his reason I sing the songs I want to sing. At first the audience may feel that I should have chosen numbers they know, but I've found that they soon find they like whatever I have selected."

Just to look at her is worth the price of admission.

Population To Increase

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—On or about Aug. 3, 1963, California will pass New York and become the most populous state in the nation.

Carl M. Frisen, chief of the state's population studies section, said when that day dawns both California and New York will have a population of 17,436,000.

But by nightfall California will have moved ahead because it gains about 1,500 new citizens a day, while New York gains only about 533.

California's population now is at just under 16.5 million. The count was made last July 1, at the close of a year during which the state added 585,000 residents. This was sufficient to create a new Seattle, Wash., or Buffalo, N.Y., or 204 Hominy, Oklahomas.

Although most persons believe California's population boom began after World War II, the state has averaged 45 per cent growth during every decade since the Civil War. It took so long to catch New York because it started with only a few Spanish ranchers.

If California had depended on its subsequent birth rate to make population grow, would it continue to trail New York? But it hasn't; it has regularly lured full-grown persons from elsewhere.

During the decade from 1950 to 1960, for instance, California gained 3.1 million residents. Only 39 per cent entered via a hospital, the rest came over the state line.

Seventy one per cent of the immigrants who arrived between 1950 and 1960 settled in the eight counties of Southern California, which includes Los Angeles. But later immigrants appear to be discovering the 50 counties of Northern California. During the year ending last July 1, immigrations to these areas increased to 44 per cent of the total.

Singer Sits On Edge Of Heaven

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Ethel Waters, who says she is sick, broke and jobless, has this message for friends who worry about her:

"I have never been so happy in all my life. The Lord has his arms wrapped around this big, fat sparrow. I'm sitting on the edge of Heaven."

Except for an occasional television appearance, the 61-year-old, 250-pound singer and actress has been out of work for five years. "If I tried real hard I might be able to rustle up $5," she told an interviewer.

Miss Waters made such pictures as "Cabin in the Sky" and "Member of the Wedding," for which she received an Academy Award nomination. Songs she helped make famous included "Am I Blue?" and "Stormy Weather."

Her autobiography, "His Eye Is on the Sparrow," was a best seller 10 years ago.

Now white-haired, Miss Waters has a room in the house of a Pasadena family. She says she suffers from high blood pressure, diabetes and heart trouble. In May, 1960, she suffered a heart attack which hospitalized her for months, and has limited her activities ever since.

"When I go to bed at night I never know if I'm going to hear the birds singing in the morning again," she said. "But I'm not afraid to die. In fact, I'm kinda looking forward to it. I know that the Lord has his arms wrapped around me."

Miss Waters says her religious beliefs forced her out of show business.

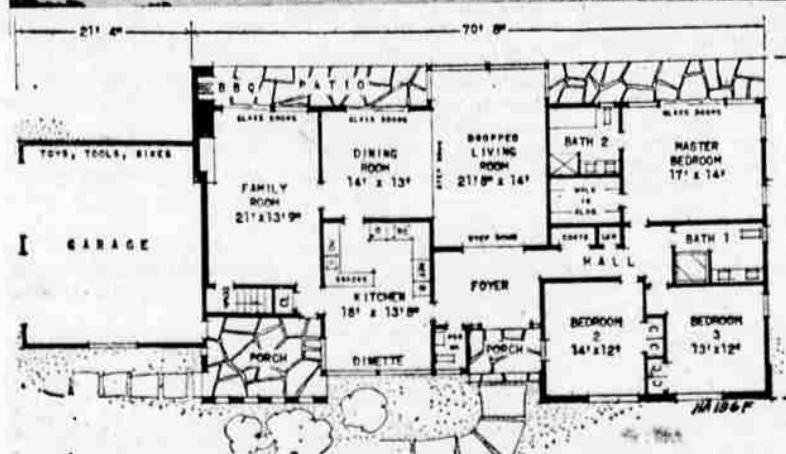

"I got good offers from famous men," she said. "They wanted to give me thousands of dollars to be in their plays—but the plays were dirty, and blasphemous, and I refused."

TOURS OF BASES

WIESBADEN, Germany (UPI)—U. S. Air Force Secretary Eugene Zuckert arrived Tuesday on a two-week tour of Air Force bases and installations in Europe.

Ethel Waters — Top Negro singer, who made several fortunes in movies, now is broke, sick but happy. Miss Waters claims her religious beliefs forced her out of show business.
