The crash happened about 11 p.m. Friday 6 miles west of Salem on the Dallas-Salem highway.

The deaths brought the highway fatality total for September to 53, with one day remaining in the month.

Home-Front Legislative Programs Get 'Hard-Sell'

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—The Kennedy administration is working on a campaign to sell its home-front legislative program and find out what else the country wants done.

Under the plan now developing, teams of government experts will go into a number of major cities to confer with state and local officials and to conduct seminars on such bread-and-butter issues as unemployment compensation and housing.

They will discuss legislation passed by Congress this year and its effect on host communities. They also will ask for suggestions on measures the administration should back in the 1962 session.

Harold Campbell, president, asked for suggestions regarding chamber assistance in promoting the proposed override tax for the junior college district which would permit building and improvements.

A tour by chamber members of the College of the Siskiyous was suggested as a means to determine the needs of the 280 students schooling in space planned for 200.

The chamber will study a plan to register all eligible voters in the city limits. A vote to extend honorary membership to W. E. Roberts, College of the Siskiyous' president, was approved.

Legislators Tour Area

MONTAGUE—A week-long tour of Northern and Central California will be made by California congressmen and Sen. Clair Engle, starting Oct. 9, according to Congressman Harold T. (Bizz) Johnson.

The congressional group will report on accomplishments of Congress in 1961 during the swing through the state. Congressman Johnson said the federal legislators will leave Washington soon after final adjournment of Congress for this year.

He said the tour will bring California's inland congressmen and Senator Engle home to report directly to the people on progress on President Kennedy's legislative program.

Three Hurt In Accident

YREKA—Capt. C. J. McAlister, commander of the Yreka area, California Highway Patrol office, reported a three-car accident occurring on Highway 139, 500 feet south of the East-West Road at Tulelake Wednesday morning.

Driver of the first vehicle, Clifford Jenkins, 52, Tulelake, manager of the Tulelake Growers' Association, was driving north on Highway 139, and had stopped for a maintenance crew working on the road.

The second vehicle driven by George A. Smith, 46, 2405 Summers Lane, Klamath Falls, also driving north, stopped behind the first vehicle. The third automobile driven by William B. Noble, 64, Eugene, did not stop but crashed into Smith's car, which in turn crashed into the vehicle driven by Jenkins.

Injuries were sustained by Noble, and his wife, Mary, 67, and her twin sister, Mildred Dugan. The three were transported to the Klamath Valley Hospital for treatment, with the two women being admitted and Noble being released. All three vehicles were heavily damaged.

McAlister said no citation had been made as yet, pending further investigation.

Highway 99 Work Told By Expert

WEED—The next highway construction project on U.S. 99 will probably begin at the former 99 Ranch corner (Edgewood Junction), Herbert Miles, engineer Division of Highways, Redding, told Weed Chamber of Commerce members Tuesday, "as there will be less interchange problems facing the construction progress in that section."

He retracted a request for a public hearing here in October for discussion of U.S. 99 here.

Policies and procedures for freeway development were outlined to the chamber group and he stated the contracts to complete the U.S. Highway 99 freeway construction to the Oregon border must be let by 1969.

The enlarged aerial map of the proposed route from Springhill north of Mount Shasta to north of Weed is now on display at the Weed City Hall for study by local residents.

Harold Campbell, president, asked for suggestions regarding chamber assistance in promoting the proposed override tax for the junior college district which would permit building and improvements.

A tour by chamber members of the College of the Siskiyous was suggested as a means to determine the needs of the 280 students schooling in space planned for 200.

Ceiling Asked On Aid To Dependent Children

SALEM (AP)—The Yamhill County Welfare Commission asked the State Welfare Commission Friday to put a $300 monthly ceiling per family on aid to dependent children.

A resolution passed by the Yamhill County Commission was forwarded to the state commission by Norman Riley of McMinnville, chairman of the Yamhill commission.

Under a temporary program recently approved by Congress, children of unemployed persons will come under the welfare aid to dependent children program. This amendment passed by Congress is effective Oct. 1 through June 30, 1962.

"We cannot understand how an unemployed, unskilled father, who can receive from public assistance for six or seven months out of the year more than he can earn, will have incentive to find employment on a year round basis at a lesser amount," the resolution said.

"Public opinion, when the impact of this amendment is realized, will be so aroused that the entire public assistance program for all categories will suffer. The Yamhill commission said it does not oppose aid to needy persons but that it desires that the aid be within the realm of reality.

Acting State Welfare Administrator Andrew F. Juras told the commission the state could not create two standards for ADC payments. He said that because much of the money comes from federal grants that it probably would not be legally possible to change the aid payments and quality for the federal funds.
