New Name For Technique Of Managing A Husband

Ruth Millert
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Having trouble communicating with your husband? A new book called, "The Human Side of Successful Communications," offers a three-point technique for improving the husband-wife communication system.

The second point is "Communicate with him in terms of his own interests." Well, let's see how you might make that one work.

Instead of nagging about how badly the living room needs a coat of paint and just when does he think he is going to get around to the job, you might just mention that you've got a painter's estimate on what the job will cost. When he hears the estimate he may hurry to get the job done before you call in the painter.

Instead of complaining that you have cabin fever from staying at home night after night, you might just mention casually that there's a Bardot movie in town.

Instead of trying to get him to buy the house you want by talking about how convenient the kitchen is, it might be better to point out that he could have a workshop in the garage.

Instead of trying to promote a vacation trip by telling him how tired you are, start remarking on how tired he looks.

Before telling him what you paid for the dress you simply couldn't resist, tell him what the one coat that you decided was entirely too expensive.

Before mentioning that you would like to have him baby sit one night a week while you play bridge with the girls, encourage him to get up a weekly poker game with the boys.

PTA NEWS

LAKEVIEW—The first meeting of the Lakeview Parent Teachers Association was held Tuesday evening, Sept. 19, with the new co-chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. Oris Rudd, presiding at the A. D. Hay School Auditorium.

The new teachers were introduced to the assembled group and Superintendent John Orr outlined his plans for the coming year. Mrs. Evelyn Barker, elementary school supervisor, gave a reading on "What is a Teacher."

It is felt by the new chairmen that a shortened PTA session would be more attractive to more parents and, with this in view, have dispensed with the membership and magazine drives usually held during the evening. The first meeting lasted for 55 minutes.

Refreshments were served by the executive board which is made up of, in addition to the chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Twitchell, vice presidents; Shirley Start, secretary; Donna Chartier, treasurer; Margaret Harlan, historian; Tallia Cahoon, hospitality. Assisting in the hospitality committee are Shirley Reynolds, Marian Knox and Bonnie Lindsey.

Other committee heads are Faye Ellis, membership; Thelma Hopkins, welfare; Helen Morin, school lunch; Marilyn Stooksberry, maga-

ENGAGED — Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Turner of Wendell, Ida., announce the engagement of their daughter, Karen Louise, to Marvin W. Macken, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Macken of Tulalake. The future bride attended Tulalake High School and was graduated from Redmond High School. Her fiancé, a graduate of Malin High School and Oregon Technical Institute, is presently serving in the Army. He has just returned from duty in Korea and is stationed at Fort Ord. —Photo by The Album, Twin Falls
