

Pelicans, Black Tornado Clash On Modoc Tonight

Program Drafted By NCAA

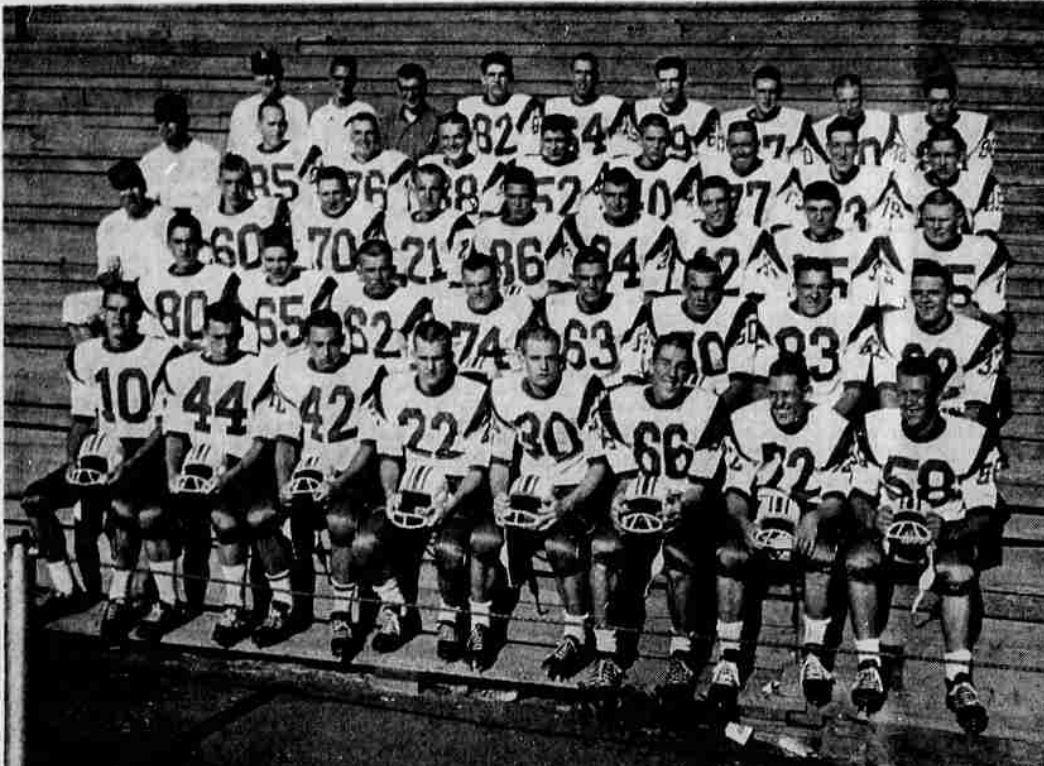

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—The National Collegiate Athletic Association today recommended a 16-point program aimed at combating "the criminal conspiracy of bribery" in college sports.

The program was drafted by the NCAA after months of study and review of information and suggestions obtained from a variety of college agencies, the New York County district attorney's office, and the permanent subcommittee in investigations of the House of Representatives.

The report, issued by NCAA Executive Director Walter Byers, urged passage of federal anti-gambling and anti-bribery laws. It also encouraged state legislatures to enact anti-bribery laws.

Blame Organized Gambling

"The cancerous core from which much of this evil spreads is organized gambling," the report added, "and both recent legislation and proposed laws pending before Congress can do much to strike against this recognized evil."

FACE TOUGHEST TEST — The atmosphere which will pervade the post-game Homecoming festivities at Klamath Union High tonight depends a lot on how this crew of KU Pelican gridgers fare against the Modoc Black Tornado beginning at 8 o'clock on Modoc Field. The Pels deliberately chose the Tornado as their Homecoming opponent despite the fact the battle falls on Friday the 13th. The squad, from left to right, front row, includes Kent Hunsaker, Dave Stippich, Gary Buchholz, Ken Lewis (injured), Rog Macy, Charley Rooks, Ricky Currin and Dick Mode. In the second row, from left, are Ray Taylor, Ken Galloway, Chuck Hastings, Brian Routh,

Medford, KU Elevens Have Miseries; Lady Luck May Be Wooded In Classic

It isn't just another high school football game, the battle slated tonight at 8 o'clock on Modoc Field.

It's the annual classic which features one of the most heated rivalries in the annals of Oregon football, one in which black cats, ladders, broken mirrors and Friday the 13th count for nothing.

However, there is a bare possibility that Lady Luck will be welcome, if the pre-game comments of Klamath Union coach Bob Williams and Modoc mentor Fred Spiegelberg are any criteria.

Both clubs are suffering from the loss of regulars out with injuries—just how bad they may be hurting is something tonight's tussle will prove.

The Tornado is short the services of regular fullback George Clearwater, punter Wayne McGowan, defensive guard Chuck McNair, and quarterback Scott Eaton. The Pels will go without end Dana Ash and halfback Ken Lewis.

Medford, as usual, will have the edge in both the line beef and bench strength departments, but will field a lighter unit in the backfield. They are not short of speed and agility however.

Eaton's replacement as signal-caller is 145-pound junior Mike Neathamer who may alternate with little Danny Niles. Frank VanPelt, a 165-pound junior, will fill the fullback post and Mike Barnes will sub for McGowan. McNair will be replaced by Paul Bauer, 180.

For the Pels, Ash's job will be taken over by Kent Franklin, who will be replaced at his old post by end Grover Dahn. Gary Buchholz, one of the Whitebirds' defensive demons, will get the nod for the vacancy created by Lewis' injury. Also to see work at the spot is Earl Brinson.

Paul Noel, Mike Kitching, Ken Cooper, Ron Hitchcock, and Roger Macy will join the both-way players on defense.

Britons Top US Linkers In Cup Play

LYTHAM ST. ANNES, England (AP)—Surprised in the very first match when Gene Littler and Doug Ford were beaten, the United States swept the next three matches for a 3-1 lead in the Ryder Cup golf matches today at the end of the four morning foursomes.

Littler and Ford went down before Christy O'Connor and Pete Alliss, 4 and 3, to the delight of a crowd of 12,000.

The favored Americans quickly bounced back.

Art Wall and Jay Hebert beat John Pantan and Bernard Hunt 4 and 3 to tie the score. Then Billy Casper and Arnold Palmer put the Americans ahead by defeating Dai Rees and Ken Bousfield, 2 and 1. Bill Collins and Mike Souchak widened the margin by beating Tom Halliburton and Neil Coles, 1 up.

Four more 18-round foursomes will be played this afternoon over the par 35-36-71 course of the Royal Lytham and St. Annes course.

Sixteen single matches Saturday wind up the competition.

ROME, Italy (AP)—A United States Davis Cup tennis team, which hardly anyone gives a ghost of a chance to win, meets favored Italy today in the opening two singles matches of the interzone final.

Jon Douglas, of Santa Monica, is paired against Fausto Gardini in the opening match of the clay courts of the Rome Tennis Club. Whitney Reed, of Alameda, Calif., was matched against Nicola Pietrangeli in the second singles.

The doubles in the best-of-five match will be played Saturday and the final two singles on Sunday.

Fight Plans Near Closing

WEST JORDAN, Utah (UPI)—Negotiations are nearly complete for a middleweight title bout in December between Gene Fullmer and Benny (Kid) Paret, Fullmer's manager revealed here today.

Marv Jensen said "it looks very close" when asked if Fullmer would meet Paret in Las Vegas on Dec. 9.

Fullmer, the National Boxing Association's middleweight champion, and Paret, the welterweight title-holder, would battle in the Las Vegas Convention Hall in a nationally televised bout.

Henley Gridgers All Set

The Henley Hornets have their work cut out for them tonight. They invade Medford for an important Rogue League football game with the smooth St. Mary's Crusaders. Game time is 8 o'clock.

The Hornets, 3-0 in league play to date, figure their rock-ribbed defense will get a thorough workout tonight when they meet one of the most wide-open attacks in the league.

The Crusaders boast a fine passing attack which features star tosser Jim Calhoun, one of the state's best, and his favorite target, a glue-fingered all-stater, Paul Elliott.

Coach Bill McKibbin's SM crew, 2-1 thus far in their debut as a new member of the RR League, also can come up with a fine running game.

Hornet tackler Charlie Thompson and Jim Stenberg will bear the brunt of the SM ground game since about 80 per cent of their rushing comes right over the top of them. They'll get help from end Mike Tacchini and Joe Kerns and will also be joined by guards Jay Balsiger and John Riggs.

Said Henley boss Len Weber, "We think we're ready. We'll try to throw the book at them. All we have to do is win two of the next three and we'll qualify for at least a tie for the title. Our defense may hold the key tonight, but we have also honed up our offensive strategy — we'll see tonight just how successful we have been."

Weber's offensive backfield will include Earl Albritton, Steve Reiling, Dave Trapp and John Crumrine. Mike Beymer will join Tacchini at end on offense and Stenberg will take over center.

Techmen Favored In Saturday OCC Tilt

If the win-one, lose-one trend the Oregon Tech Owls have followed thus far in the 1961 college football season is any indication they must be rated the favorite in the Saturday night battle with the Eastern Oregon Mountaineers on Modoc Field.

However, they have more than just a trend going for them this weekend as they swing into their second Oregon Collegiate Conference contest.

They have a decided edge in the weight department and their defensive setup is one that puts the burden of proof on their opponent. Both of these factors, however, had better be in good working order tomorrow night because coach Archie Dunsmoor is not bringing a crew of ripples to town. He's bringing a squad that wants to get even with somebody for the stinging 34-14 loss at Oregon College last weekend.

The Mountaineers may be in for some surprises when the new Oregon Tech offense gets into operation, though. Coach Rex Hunsaker and assistants George Miller and Jim Cordial have revamped their scoring potential for the second time in a three-week period.

They have failed to reveal their plans but the word is out that little Max Hull, a freshman halfback from Grants Pass, figures strongly in the overall setup. They implied, however, that there are more switches planned in their lineup.

The listed offensive unit includes Hull and Harvey Graham at halfbacks; Bill Ransom or Jim Hanson at quarter and Stan Glass at full; ends Mel Smith and Jack Fox; tackles Jim Madden and Claire Hawkins; guards Tom Broce and Ed Anderson and center Frank Benecsky.

Defensively Ted Morris and Rog Hooper will go at ends; Madden and Hawkins will remain at tackles; Windell Winterbottom and Don Vidie are slated at guard slots; Jack Williams and Harvey Graham are the linebackers; Wayne Dennis and Tom Wadman are the halfbacks and Andy Cook

Ailing Raiders Test Viks

ASHLAND (Special)—A bruised and battered but determined Southern Oregon College football team left Friday for Portland and the Oregon Collegiate Conference opener Saturday night against Portland State.

The Red Raider offensive unit, which has averaged only 14.3 points per game this season in four outings compared to a whopping 28.5 average by their opponents, had no less than three starters on the injury list as the team ran through wrap-up drills prior to the Portland trek.

Offensive right end Howard Hartman suffered a pinched nerve in his left shoulder earlier in the week, an injury that could prove disastrous to the usually strong SOC air attack.

Two other offensive unit starters, fullback Al Barnes and halfback Doyle Bransom, were forced to take it easy this week in practice. Barnes received a face injury Wednesday night in a special session under the lights on Fuller Field, while Bransom was still nursing a shoulder pointer suffered two weeks ago.

Hartman, who has a pass reception record of 25 completions for 250 yards in four games, will be replaced by 6-foot-5 reserve end Dave Graham, a non-letterman from Ashland.

One bright spot in the Raider's weekend outlook is the news that John Buck, All-Conference linebacker in 1960, was given the doctor's okay to return to the defensive lineup against PSC. Buck has been sidelined two weeks with an ankle injury.

The four consecutive losses to date is the longest losing skein by a Raider gridiron crew since Atkins took over the SOC post seven years ago.

They have failed to reveal their
