RIPS OUT POWER — This McCloud River Railroad car, carrying a log-loading crane, ripped out power, telephone, fire alarm and signal wires Friday in McCloud; crippling communications in that city. Brake failure was blamed for the accident. Two cars rolled down an incline, struck a derail switch and left the track. The crane's boom swung wildly through the air and ripped down the lines. One power pole was broken and four left standing at 45 degree angles.

Superb Acting Displayed In 'Great Divorce' Play

By HELEN L. MERSON
All it takes is a little imagination and the superb acting of the Bishop's Company players and you can believe almost anything.

Thursday night they asked 200 Klamath Falls residents to pretend they were residents of hell. Spurred on by a cluster of people huddling under an umbrella as they waited for a tour bus to take them to the borders of heaven, the audience at Peace Memorial Presbyterian Church, plunged into "The Great Divorce" based on the C. S. Lewis novel.

Adding to the realistic atmosphere were "angels" and "ghosts from hell" who acted out conversational, sometimes witty, and sometimes sad, arguments without benefit of props or elaborate costumes.

The eight-member repertory cast portrayed 15 different roles in the dialogue which pitted residents of hell against the "specialized angels" who offered them hell tourists an opportunity to enter heaven.

Well, it turned out the residents from hell did most of the talking. The angels could hardly get a word in edgewise. The hell residents symbolized extremes of cynicism, intelligence, doing nothing, unloving wives, pity-ridden husbands, egotistical actors and artists and a man who missed God when he became so wrapped up in ecclesiastical studies.

The hell residents talked themselves out of a chance to enter heaven, just as they had done all through life. A kindly Scottish brogue angel in the mediator party told "man" that the scenes he saw appeared overly dramatic because heaven has a way of bringing all actions into their proper perspectives. In reality, the angel noted that people are making the same decisions. Only humans just aren't as aware of them.

The sermon-in-drama illustrated why the unique Bishop's Company troupe meets with such high praise wherever they present their entertaining, but enlightening, 20th century morality plays.

The council decided to end a national strike that shut down all of Ford's plants 10 days ago, idling 120,000 production workers.

But the council turned over to the International Executive Board the problem of settling disputes over working conditions at a score of key plants in the Ford automotive system.

UAW Vice President Ken Bannan, who is director of the UAW Ford department, said, "We are hopeful of getting this wrapped up over the weekend—possibly today."

The board late Thursday night authorized continuation of strikes at all plants where agreements have not been reached on working conditions. The board said it will meet again Sunday to review situation.

A 30-ton haystack was whittled down to about four tons shortly before midnight Thursday, Klamath County firemen reported.

The stack, located at Reeder and Hill roads, caught fire at 11:44 p.m., firemen said, from unknown causes. The hay belonged to Paul Fairclo, Route 2, Box 683, Klamath Falls. All but about four tons of the hay was not salvable.

KINGSLEY FIELD—Edward R. Deatherage, Kingsley Field fire chief, has invited the public to participate Saturday in the base's observance of Fire Prevention Week.

An open house will be in effect at the base fire station beginning 9 a.m. Deatherage announced. Fire fighting equipment will be on display along with a mock missile carried by the P-101B "Voodoo" jet interceptors stationed at the base.

Lectures, films and demonstrations are also included in the program. Deatherage said.

Gas Tank Explodes

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Explosions and fire at a gas storage plant drove householders, some in night clothing, from the area early today.

They were returning, after the blaze was put out, when officials ordered re-evacuation of a two-block area near the Southeastern Natural Gas Corp. at N.W. 29th Ave. and 25th St.

County fire headquarters said gas was still leaking from two 30,000-gallon tanks and remained an explosion hazard. A spokesman said the re-evacuation was ordered to permit transfer of the gas to other facilities. The transfer was expected to take two hours.

The 30-by-50-foot storage tanks grew warm during the blaze but firemen prevented them from igniting.

The society expects that well over 200 species of birds will be reported on this season's list. In 1959 the fall species noted were 208, in 1960 the tally was 218. This activity is open to all bird watchers in the Klamath Basin and the society welcomes bird lists, no matter how small, from all interested people.

The reporting session this year will be held at a potluck supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warner Kimball, 4678 Crosby Avenue, at 6:30 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 22. Information regarding the society and its activities can be obtained from Lorraine Quillen, president, at LU 2-2522.

Shoplifting Draws Sentence

Veronica Herrera, 26, Klamath Falls, was placed on a year and one month probation Friday morning for shoplifting a package of meat and one bottle of shampoo from a local supermarket.

Miss Herrera pleaded guilty to the charge in Klamath County District Court and was sentenced by District Judge Hal Coe. The court placed special conditions on her order of probation, forbidding association with two other women who were, she claimed, involved in the incident. She was also instructed to find employment.

Auto Skids; Girl Killed

PHILOMATH, Ore. (AP)—An automobile skidded into a tree in early morning fog today and killed a passenger, Patricia M. Ferdig, 19, Corvallis.

Four other young persons in the car were injured, but only Darla Walters, 19, Corvallis, required hospitalization. Her condition was not considered serious.

Police said the car driver was Frederick Russell Lane of Corvallis, who said fog obscured the intersection where he wanted to turn in to Philomath, and the car skidded when he tried to make the turn.

It was the 19th traffic fatality of October and the 307th of the year on the Associated Press list for Oregon.

Weather Report Plan Seen Boon To Oregon

Rep. Al Ullman said Wednesday night that the new U.S. Weather Bureau Station in Klamath Falls and the statewide weather reporting service which goes into effect soon will boom Oregon's industrial and agricultural production.

The expanded weather information program was developed at Ullman's request and received congressional approval in the session just ended.

"The establishment of the weather reporting service was one of the most important accomplishments for the second district," Rep. Ullman said.

"He said the new service, which will operate 24 hours a day, will have a private teletype system to flash reliable weather reports across the state to every community that wants to participate.

"Inadequate weather reporting has long constituted a real problem for Oregon and particularly the second district," Rep. Ullman said. "Because of the great distances and the very wide diversity of climate in Oregon, improved weather information is very important to us."

Ullman said the weather reports will be tailored for the needs of the section, and that the Weather Bureau office being established in Klamath Falls will soon be expanded from two to seven full-time employees.

Ullman made an inspection of the new Winema National Forest on Thursday with Alex Smith, forest supervisor. The tour ended at Chemult and Ullman continued on to Prineville.

The deceased was born Dec. 19, 1954, in Portland. His mother, the former Margaret Murphy, graduated from Henley High School and taught there for two years after her marriage.

Survivors include the parents, who reside at 1879 Williams Highway in Grants Pass, and three sisters, Teresa, Maureen and Evelyn; Mrs. Blanche Slaughter, maternal grandmother, Klamath Falls; Oliver Haley, paternal grandfather, Bonanza; and great-grandmothers, Mrs. Inez Short of Klamath Falls, Mrs. Nellie W. Haley of Ashland and Mrs. Carrie E. Gordon of La Grande.

Pacific Power Officials Guests At Kiwanis Club

Top officials of the Pacific Power and Light Company, in Klamath Falls for a budget meeting for the Copco Division of the company, were guests of the Kiwanis clubs of this area in a get-acquainted session at the Winema Thursday.

Don R. McClung, PP&L president, explained the purpose of the recent merger with California Oregon Power Company, saying, "A larger utility can do a better job for the community it serves and its customers."

He praised the Copco activities, stating, "Copco has a long, deep seated interest in the Klamath Basin, and there will be no diminution in such effort, but it will be even more intensified in the same direction."

He also explained the role of the industrial development department of the company, listing the development of water from the sand dunes at North Bend as an example. Here, the company drilled three wells on a 13-acre spread of the sand dunes to produce water for a pulp plant in the area. He explained that 30 million gallons of water daily are available in these dunes.

However, he told the group, the company will need from $700 million to one billion dollars for construction capital during the next 10 to 12 years, and he added, "This means that we have to watch our nickels and dollars."

Following McClung's brief talk, a 15-minute film was shown which covered the construction of the earth-fill Swift Dam on the Lewis River in Washington.

At the head table with McClung were Don Frisbee, vice president and treasurer, and Albert Bauer, vice president and general manager, both of PP&L in Portland; Glenn L. Jackson, vice chairman of the board of directors; Frank Bash, vice president and assistant treasurer; H. P. Bosworth Jr., vice president and Copco Division manager, all of Medford.

McClung was introduced by John Holzgang, Klamath Falls, PP&L employe and a Kiwanian.

Booze Takes Stolen Cash

DETROIT (AP)—"I spent it all on women, booze and travel," said a man accused of embezzling $88,000 from General Motors Corp. Charles E. Botz, 38, was quoted by Assistant Prosecutor Benjamin F. Cornelius as admitting the fraud.

"I guess I was just greedy," Botz said when arrested Thursday. He said his trips took him to California, Florida, New York and once to Europe.

Botz was hired by GM in August, 1953, as a clerk at the Ternstedt division. Last June he was fired for carelessness. Auditors later discovered the division was listed as buying—at a dollar a pound—large lots of "pure Swedish casting sand for experimental purposes."

No one at GM had ever heard of pure Swedish casting sand.

Evatt Hearing Date Scheduled

District Judge Hal Coe Friday set Oct. 31 at 9:30 a.m. for the preliminary hearing for James W. Evatt, 55, accused of the Wednesday night shooting of a local union official, Donald B. Schortgen. Evatt is presently being held by the county sheriff in lieu of $4,000 bail.

He is charged with the felony assault with a deadly weapon.
