Stab Case Man Nixes Extradition Waiver

Elmer J. Becker, 32-year-old Keno man facing a murder charge, refused to waive extradition to California Wednesday morning on the advice of his Klamath Falls attorney. Becker's attorney said his client is "in no condition to travel" and added that Becker has a legal right to extradition. Becker, suffering from the effects of a severe beating, was reported in "satisfactory" condition Wednesday morning at Klamath Valley Hospital, where he is under police guard. Upon being informed of Becker's refusal to waive extradition, the Siskiyou County Sheriff's Office immediately began preparing the necessary papers. Sheriff A. B. (Al) Cottar was expected to sign an affidavit later in the day that he believed there was sufficient evidence to extradite Becker on the charge. Becker allegedly stabbed Roger Dahl, 21-year-old Dorris man, to death early Sunday morning in front of the Star Inn in Dorris. According to Dick Newton, chief criminal deputy of Siskiyou County, a fight started in front of the Star Inn about 1:30 a.m. Sunday after someone made a remark to a girl who was with Becker. Newton said nine young men were involved in the fight. The group drove out on the Picard Road outside of Dorris where the fight continued, New-

Two Youths Hurt As Car Crashes Into Log Train

A car carrying two Klamath Falls youths crashed into a log train early Wednesday morning on Washburn Way at the crossing of the OCE railroad tracks. Both youths were taken to the hospital by ambulance. Injured were Robert L. Dumont, 16, 4060 Austin Street, and Stanley L. Lugo, 18, 2444 Pershing Way. Lugo was treated and released from Klamath Valley Hospital while Dumont's condition was reported as "satisfactory" Wednesday forenoon. X-rays had been taken but the extent of his injuries had not been determined, according to a hospital spokesman. State police said Dumont was apparently driving north on Washburn Way at a high rate of speed while the train, engineered by Richard Snyder, 1202 Division Street, was going west. Dumont apparently jammed on his brakes as his car left 169 feet of skid marks, police said. The auto hit a log car and spun around sideways in the road. Police said the car was a total wreck. A 46-year-old California man and five young Korean orphans escaped serious injury Tuesday morning when the man's car went out of control on Highway 97 in the Sand Creek area. Driver was Harry P. Lever, 46, Milpitas, Calif., and the children ranged in age from 1 to 5. Lever told police he fell asleep at the wheel. Police said the car ran off the road, skidded 250 feet on the shoulder, rolled broadside in the highway, turned over twice and landed on its wheels. No one was injured, aside from cuts and bruises.

Apportionment Plan Said Inconsistent

SALEM (AP)—Dangerous inconsistencies plague the reapportionment plan of Secretary of State Howell Appling Jr., Clay Myers, Portland, has told the Oregon Supreme Court. Myers made the statement in a letter to the court dated Oct. 3. It was referred to Saturday at a meeting of Eastern Oregon legislators seeking to promote a different reapportionment method. "There are dangerous inconsistencies that could be used by future legislatures to gerrymander, to dilute representation of a population county or to increase that of a minor fraction county," Myers said. Myers had aided the legislature in drawing up its reapportionment plan which the Supreme Court ruled unconstitutional. The court has not yet passed on the Appling plan, which has drawn fire from legislators whose seats would be lost or changed and from Eastern Oregon. Myers contended in his letter that "whole numbers were ignored in at least two instances in the House of Representatives" by Appling. He said this was done when Klamath County with a ratio of 1,611 per cent of the population needed for a single representative was not given even one member by itself. He said this also was true in Umatilla County with a ratio of 1,505 which was denied a member by itself. Myers cited numerous other counties as being subject to discrimination.

O'Neill School Dedication Set

Dedication of the Lucile O'Neill School, newest addition to the City School System's elementary facilities, will be held Sunday at 2 p.m., a spokesman for the elementary school board said Wednesday. Guest of honor at the dedication will be Mrs. O'Neill, long-time Klamath Falls educator for whom the school is named. Lucile O'Neill School is located at 1336 Avalon Street.

Oldsters Urged To Ask For Medicare Benefits

Eligible citizens over the age of 65 were being urged Wednesday by the Klamath County Welfare Department to apply for benefits of the Medical Assistance to the Aged Program as soon as possible. Enrollment began Monday and the local welfare department is prepared to accept applications, according to Reuben Larson, chairman of the Klamath County Welfare Commission. The program, financed by federal, state and county funds, is also known as Medicare. Eligibility requirements are basically these: 65 years of age or over, annual income of not more than $1,500 ($2,000 for a married couple), cash and liquid assets not more than $1,500 ($2,000 for a married couple), and real property (excluding a home) with market value of not more than $5,000. There is no dues, fees or premiums for enrollment, Larson said. He added that early application is important because benefits are made on a 12-month basis. Benefits under the program include these: 1. Fourteen days hospitalization per year with the patient assuming a charge of $7.50 per day for the first 10 days. 2. Hospital out patient service for persons needing emergency service but not requiring hospitalization as a bed patient. 3. Doctor bills after the first $50 as follows: $150 per year for medical visits, examinations and medical treatment at a doctor's office, $100 per year for X-rays and laboratory studies and $500 per year for surgical services. 4. Care in a local nursing home may be substituted four days for one of hospitalization if the doctor recommends nursing home care. Citizens not sure of their eligibility are urged by Larson to call the local welfare department at TU 4-7774. Mrs. Edna Russell is handling administration of the aid to the aged program for the local department.

Cafe Theft Under Probe

Further police investigation of a weekend burglary at the Blue Ox Restaurant, 535 Main Street, has disclosed that safecrackers "punched" the safe early Sunday morning and stole $1,368.40. First reports were that someone had reached into an unlocked safe at the restaurant and removed about $1,600. A police detective, who investigated, said the theft apparently occurred between 6 and 10 a.m. Sunday. The detective said the safe was an old model with no locking handle. He said burglars knocked the dial off the safe and punched the shaft inside. Bill Burke, a bartender, discovered the theft while Bob Wilson, restaurant owner, reported it to police. Beatrice Wright, a cook, said she saw two men near the back door when she came to work at 7:40 a.m. Sunday. There are no suspects.

Public Use Charge-Off Asked For OC Log Roads

PORTLAND (AP)—A proposal for charging some of the costs of logging roads on Oregon and California Revested Lands against public uses such as recreation, will be before the O&C Advisory Board Thursday. A wide range of other matters also will be on the agenda for the board's annual meeting. Among them are plans to bring 300,000 acres of Bureau of Land Management public domain forest under unified management with O&C lands and a program for more uniform sale practices between BLM, Bureau of Indian Affairs and the Forest Service. The O&C Advisory Board, an 18-member group under chairmanship of Charles A. Sprague, Salem publisher and former governor, represents state and local governments, labor, management, outdoor groups and the general public. It makes recommendations to the BLM on management of the more than two million acres of Western Oregon timberlands that were taken back from the railroad and wagon road grants a half century ago. Russell E. Getty, Oregon BLM director, said these were the major matters to be before the board at its Thursday meeting. Logging road construction, now a charge against the industrial operation, is proposed for a book-keeping change that would reflect public use of the roads once they are built, both for through use of passenger cars and for reaching recreational sites. Sales practices of the various federal agencies handling timber are proposed for revision to bring uniformity in measurement, setting allowable cuts for sustained yield, methods of bidding and practices to assure needed planting stock. Transfer to single-unit management of 300,000 acres of BLM public domain forests and the O&C forests is suggested as ultimately bringing a higher allowable timber cut. The public domain timber has not been under intensive management practices in the past. Advisory Board members and the group they represent: Charles A. Sprague, Salem, public; Eric Allen, Medford, newspapers; Ben Day, Medford, grazing; O. K. DeWitt, Lyons, recreation and wildlife; Hollis M. Dole, Portland, mining; Hardin R. Glascock, Jr., Portland, conservation; A. F. Hartung, Portland, labor; Darrell Jones, Oregon City, county government; Mary G. Kelly, Medford, public; Sid Leiken, Roseburg, lumber industry; David T. Mason, Portland, forestry; Joseph W. McCracken, Portland, timber industry; Walter F. McCulloch, Corvallis, forest education; Charles McKinley, Portland, public and education; Dwight Phipps, Salem, state forestry; Ned S. Putnam, Klamath Falls, public and timber industry; Max L. Ruge, Klamath Falls, timber industry; and Julius C. Viancour, Portland, labor.

Drunk Charge Plea Entered

A 23-year-old Chiloquin woman who fought with police officers trying to arrest her early Wednesday morning for being drunk, pleaded guilty later in the morning to drunk and disorderly conduct charges. Annabelle Baker was sentenced to pay a $25 fine or spend five days in jail on the drunk charge and sentenced to $50 or 10 days on the disorderly charge by Municipal Judge Clarence Humble. City police said they first saw Miss Baker in a drunken condition at the corner of Seventh Street and Klamath Avenue. They said she fought with her hands and feet while they were trying to put her in the "paddy wagon." While she was being booked at the police station, she allegedly grabbed the desk sergeant's pen and broke it into small pieces.

Portland Man Tells Of Theft

A transient from Portland told city police Monday that he had been robbed of $16.23, some personal papers and a bed roll by two men in Dunsmuir. Ambrose O. C. Durham of Portland said two men attacked him in a boxcar in the Dunsmuir railroad yards. A railroad detective was called to investigate the report. Other city police reports: Martin Nelson, 241 Michigan Street, said two tires and wheels were removed from a trailer parked at Lakeway Signal Station at the corner of Bieth Street and Oregon Avenue. A pay telephone in a booth in front of 2045 Oregon Avenue was reported to have been damaged by vandals.

Girls Arrested On Curfew Law

Two girls, one 20 and the other 14, were arrested early Tuesday morning on charges of curfew violation and police said the girls had been drinking. Booked on a charge of aiding a minor to violate curfew was Madeline A. Jimenez, 20, who lives on Laurel Street in Klamath Falls. She failed to appear for municipal court Tuesday morning and forfeited $25 bail. Police found Miss Jimenez and a 14-year-old Bonanza girl wandering at 1:25 a.m. Tuesday at the corner of Fifth and Main streets. Police said the younger girl was "obviously drunk." The juvenile girl spent the night in the county juvenile home.
