In The Day's News

By FRANK JENKINS
Miss Margery Michelmore, the Peace Corps girl who broke into the Big News by writing the wrong kind of postcard in the wrong place and then DROPPING IT where it could be picked up by the wrong kind of person, is back in the U.S.A. Interviewed by a reporter, she says:

"If I had the chance to rewrite the postcard, I'd write: 'Having wonderful time, wish you were here.' Sure, I wrote it. I dropped it. It was picked up and mimeographed and distributed to the students. It was carelessness on my part.

"I think it offended the sensibilities of the Nigerian students. When they read the postcard, without any reference to its tone, it was an OFFENSIVE postcard. But I didn't mean any offense."

Good for Margery. She's all right. She comes clean in the pinches. She takes the blame for her own mistake—even absolving the Nigerian postman from reading the postcards and then blabbing. By her frank confessions, she proves she can learn by experience.

But—
I can't help feeling that a girl of her caliber could do more good for her country in the underdeveloped countries of the world in some field other than the rather sentimental Peace Corps—say as a nurse in the office of a dedicated medical missionary, such as Congressman Walter Judd of Minnesota was for many long and devoted years.

More human nature in the news:

Traffic through the new home of Mrs. Melba Mitchell in Bonner Springs, Kansas, hasn't worn out her wall-to-wall carpet. The carpet is ON HER LIVING ROOM CEILING.

How did it get THERE?
Well, Mrs. Mitchell says that all her life she wanted wall-to-wall carpeting, but with five sons and a daughter the traffic in and out of the house would wreck a good carpet in just no time at all. So she decided to put it on the ceiling. She had the workmen apply a heavy adhesive to the ceiling and roll the carpet on in three-foot widths.

Now, she says, she can sit in her rocking chair and admire it and love it and feel wonderful because she has it—and it stays just as good as it was at the beginning.

Silly?

Well, it might be silly anywhere but in the U.S.A., and especially in the state of Kansas. In East Germany, for example, she wouldn't have been PERMITTED to do it. The communist commissars and such who run things over there just simply wouldn't have stood for it.

But over here, in free enterprise America, where she wants her carpet is her own private business. If she wants it on her ceiling, that's her affair. She earned the money to pay for it, and that's that.

West Point Hunts Plebe

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI)—West Point officials today awaited public help in locating an 18-year-old plebe who disappeared without a trace more than six weeks ago.

Paul M. Weaver, who came to the U.S. Military Academy July 5 after having been president of his class at Portsmouth, Ohio, and center on the football team, was reporting missing Aug. 30.

His disappearance was revealed only Thursday, apparently because all clues to his whereabouts proved fruitless.

Academy officials, still baffled by the disappearance almost 12 years ago of another Ohio cadet, turned to Weaver's father, his instructors and his girl friend for information about the youth.

Paul M. Weaver Sr. of Portsmouth, said his son might be working on a farm because he had a desire to become a veterinarian. The father also said Weaver knew how to operate several business machines.

Weaver lives at 1513 Highland Ave.

Economist Sees 1962 As Critical

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP)—President Kennedy's chief economist told industry today that 1962 may bring the "critical period" when renewed inflation could halt the advance toward a full-employment economy.

Dr. Walter W. Heller, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, appealed for restraint in price and wage decisions. He spoke at the fall meeting of the Business Council, attended by the heads of nearly 100 of the country's biggest corporations.

The prospect for price stability in the immediate future is good, Heller said in his address, but the business upsurge could stall next year—as it did two years ago—short of full utilization of men and machines.

"By the middle of next year we will probably have not reached full employment but we will have reached about that stage of the business cycle that we reached in 1959 and did not then manage to surpass," Heller said.

"The test next year will be whether the surge of recovery will continue toward full employment or whether a revival of creeping inflation will hamper our efforts to use the full potential of the economy in the service of our national goals.

"Every person who wants the United States to continue to discharge its world responsibilities, and every person who favors full recovery and faster rate of economic growth, is tied by the bonds of logic to the cause of price stability."

The business group, headed by Roger M. Blough, board chairman of the United States Steel Corp., heard Heller praise Kennedy's letter to Blough and 11 other major steel producers, asking them to forego a proposed Oct. 1 steel price increase.

Volta Dam Considered

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is sending a special mission to Ghana next week to review U.S. participation in the $296 million Volta River development project there.

President Kennedy announced today the designation of Clarence B. Randall, president of the Inland Steel Corp., to head the mission.

Randall, who had served also as a special assistant to former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, was named a consultant to the government on special foreign assistance projects.

The White House said Randall will leave next Tuesday for Accra, Ghana, "to lead a special mission to review U.S. participation in the Volta River project."

The project calls for construction of a hydroelectric dam and generating plant at Akosombo, Ghana, and a privately owned aluminum smelter at Tema.

The White House said the United States has made no firm commitment of any kind for sharing the project's cost, but discussions have revolved around a $37 million U.S. loan toward the cost of the dam—$27 million from the Development Loan Fund and $10 million from the U.S. Export-Import Bank.

Albania Rocks Red Boat

MOSCOW (AP)—An open rift over Albania is rocking the Soviet-Chinese boat, but it has little or no chance of capsizing it.

That was the diplomatic assessment here today after the startling disclosure that Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai in a speech to the 22nd Soviet Communist party congress Thursday had severely criticized Premier Khrushchev's condemnation of the tiny Communist nation on the Adriatic.

The Albanian regime sides with the Chinese Communists in their contention that war is still a legitimate weapon to spread communism. In what Western observers considered an implied criticism of Peiping's rulers, Khrushchev, in opening the party congress Tuesday, had accused Premier Enver Hoxha and other Albanian Communist leaders of failing to support his policy of peaceful coexistence with the non-

Communist world and of trying to lead their country back to the era of Stalinist repression.

Chou did not name names, but Khrushchev was plainly his target when he declared: "Any public, one-sided censure of any fraternal party does not help unity and is not helpful to resolving problems."

"To lay bare a dispute between fraternal parties or fraternal countries openly in the face of the

'Blackmail' Prints Held

WASHINGTON (AP)—Irvin C. Scarbeck was said today to have tried and failed to get from Polish secret agents the photographs he contends they used to blackmail him.

FBI agent Patrick Rice, testifying at Scarbeck's trial on charges of providing U.S. secrets to the Poles, said Scarbeck told him about the incident during a series of interviews last June.

The photographs were those taken by Polish police in a raid that caught Scarbeck undressed in bed with his mistress, Ursula Discher, 22. Scarbeck told of trying to get them returned as he was about to leave Poland.

Coffee Offered Kingsley Folks

As a special welcome home gesture, a number of businesses are offering free coffee to Air Force personnel in uniform and their families between the hours of 2 and 5 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 21.

Those participating in the invitation to airmen include Bings, Winerna, Willard, Broiler, Chuck Wagon, Lucky Lanes Pelican Cafe, Holiday Bowl, Blue Ox, Shondo's Drive In, Crawford's and Wong's Cafe.

enemy cannot be regarded as a serious Marxist-Leninist attitude.

"We socialist countries and we Communist parties of all countries support and cooperate with each other in a brotherly way, on the basis of independence and full equality."

Chou said disputes and differences between Communist parties or governments "should be resolved patiently in the spirit of proletarian internationalism and on the principles of equality and unanimity through consultation."

Chou's defense of Albania did not extend to Yugoslavia, where Communist leadership Khrushchev also had attacked Tuesday. The Chinese premier said "the grouping of American imperialists and Yugoslav revisionists is trying every way to drive a wedge in the cohesion of progressive forces around the world."

Key Witness Threatened

NEW YORK (AP)—A key witness in a purported plot to fix a federal court criminal case for $25,000 was reported under heavy FBI guard today after receiving threats by telephone and mail.

The witness was identified by the New York Post and New York Journal-American as a doctor. The newspaper said FBI agents were guarding him at his Long Island home and at his office in Manhattan.

The threats were said to have been made because of the doctor's willingness to testify before a federal grand jury probing the alleged fix attempt, in which the doctor was reported to have served as a "go-between" in certain phases of the situation.

The doctor was said to have been granted immunity from prosecution after giving information to the government.

Dream Comes True For Happy Camel Driver

WASHINGTON (AP)—The smiling camel driver from Pakistan had his big dream come true today, he saw America's "king"—President Kennedy.

"I have met the man of the world," Bashir Ahmad said as he emerged from Kennedy's White House office.

Although the meeting with the President had not been arranged in advance, Bashir had hoped that he would get to see Kennedy.

The grinning Pakistani was taken to the President's office after a half-hour tour of the White House with Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, wife of the vice president.

Johnson, who is in Texas, invited the visitor to come to America on meeting the camel driver in Karachi on an Asian tour.

Six Countries Ask Russia To Halt 50-Megaton Blast

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Six countries close to the Soviet nuclear testing area formally called on the United Nations today to appeal to the Soviet Union to cancel its proposed explosion of a 50-megaton bomb.

The new resolution was laid before the General Assembly's main political committee by Canada, Denmark, Iceland, Japan, Norway and Sweden as that body debated steps to halt further testing of nuclear weapons.

It noted with deep concern Premier Khrushchev's announcement that a 50-megaton bomb would be exploded before the end of the month. It "solemnly" appealed for cancellation of the plans.

The resolution was circulated to the 101 members of the committee this morning. Representatives of Denmark, Japan and Canada were expected to press for priority action later in the day.

The first speaker at the morning session was Indian Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon, who pressed for a new voluntary moratorium on nuclear testing despite Western insistence that such a ban would be a trap unless guaranteed by a treaty and inspection machinery.

Menon told the committee that both the Western powers and the Russians must share responsibility for resumption of tests. Diplomats predicted overwhelming support for the six-nation appeal to Khrushchev.

Asian-African nations reportedly had planned to introduce a similar resolution, but they apparently decided to leave the initiative to nations more likely to be affected by fallout from the giant blast.

Several U.N. delegates have expressed the suspicion that Khrushchev had no intention of setting off the bomb despite his dramatic announcement before the Soviet Communist party Congress Tuesday. They believe the Soviet leader, knowing the alarm his announcement would arouse, intends to let the full impact sink in, then, as a magnanimous gesture, say he has decided for the sake of world harmony to heed the appeals.

Arms experts have pointed out that there is little military value in exploding such a superbomb. They say that after test bombs reach a certain size, they furnish no useful information.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson told the Political Committee Thursday there is "no military purpose whatever in such weapons."

"For years the United States has been able to build such weapons," Stevenson said, "but we are not interested in the business of intimidation or bigger blasts."

Stevenson declared that unless a nuclear test ban treaty is signed the United States must prepare to take all steps needed to protect its security, including nuclear tests in the atmosphere as well as underground.

He challenged the Soviet Union to sign such a treaty at once, declaring: "I pray we do not lose another chance to meet this challenge of our time and stop this death dance."

The Security Council scheduled a meeting for next Wednesday afternoon to consider membership applications from Mauritania and Communist Outer Mongolia. A Western diplomat and some African delegates expressed belief Nationalist China would not carry out its threat to veto Mongolia, an action certain to provoke a Soviet veto of Mauritania.

But the New York Times, quoting Western diplomatic sources at the United Nations, said the United States and perhaps some other Western powers had persuaded Chiang Kai-shek's government not to veto Outer Mongolia because such action would likely step up the drive in the United Nations to give Nationalist China's seat to the Chinese Communists.

A report from Taipei said qualified sources there expect the Nationalist Cabinet to ask the Legislative Yuan, Nationalist China's Parliament, to revise its June 23 resolution in which it endorsed the use of the veto against Outer Mongolia.

Paris (AP)—Reinforced police detachments arrested more than 500 Algerian women and children today in an effort to head off another anticurfew demonstration by nationalists.

Police, wary after bloody clashes two nights this week when Algerian men staged mass demonstrations, rounded up some of the women and children as they arrived by bus and taxi in the heart of the city.

Algerian nationalists, who have waged a war for independence for seven years, had called for a demonstration by women and children.

The Algerian nationalist exile regime at Tunis, Tunisia, charged that about 50 persons, including women, were killed in the Paris clashes Tuesday and Wednesday nights, and that "the wounded are counted in the hundreds."

The French have announced six deaths and 92 cases of injuries in the clashes, and have arrested more than 14,000 demonstrators. Police arrested 421 Thursday night for curfew violations. About 3,500 of those arrested have been released.

At least 1,500 of the prisoners are scheduled for deportation to Algeria by airlift. About 500 already have been flown back home. More deportation planes left Paris this morning.

The Tunis-based rebel government made plans to stage mass demonstrations in France and Algeria Nov. 1, seventh anniversary of the launching of the Algeria revolt against France.

Auto Peace Speeds Work

DETROIT (AP)—The threat of a new shutdown gone Ford Motor Co. got into high-gear production of 1962 models today under a newly wrapped up three-year contract with the United Auto Workers Union.

The last of 55 at-the-plant working agreements, which supplement the UAW-Ford national contract, was reached Thursday night.

The final unresolved local-level agreement held the threat of closing down assembly lines. It was at the Walton Hills stamping plant outside Cleveland, Ohio, which makes pressed metal parts for all Ford's cars except the Lincoln Continental.

It was just carelessness on my part," she said. "I merely wrote a postcard which I dropped. It was picked up and mimeographed and copies were distributed to the students at the University College at Ibadan."

A number of students demonstrated in protest at her description of the country. But, she said, some Nigerian students had expressed sympathy to her.

She noted that the card had mentioned primitive living conditions but that it also reported that living in Nigeria was "a very rewarding experience" and that she was "very happy" there.

She said portions lifted from the text might have sounded offensive but "I didn't intend it that way."

Asked if she thought Communists were behind the protests against the card, she said she had no reason to believe so. She said she had not seen any anti-Americanism in Nigeria.

Miss Michelmore said she knew of no reason, because of her experience, why a girl should not join the Peace Corps.

"She should keep an open mind and realize that things are good and bad," she said.

Concerning her own future as a Peace Corps member, she said she will "consider it very carefully."

Postcard Writer Warns Others About Messages

NEW YORK (AP)—Margery Michelmore, whose stray postcard touched off a Nigerian furor, arrived here today with a smiling word of caution to any other girls who want to join the Peace Corps.

"Maybe she shouldn't write any postcards," Miss Michelmore, 23, of Foxboro, Mass., told newsmen. "Maybe if she did, she should stick to: 'Having a wonderful time. Wish you were here.'"

A British airliner, on which Miss Michelmore was bound from London to Bermuda, was diverted here because of weather.

She said she had intended no offense to Nigeria in writing the postcard, which described squalor she encountered there. She said she liked both Nigeria and the Nigerian people.

"It was just carelessness on my part," she said. "I merely wrote a postcard which I dropped. It was picked up and mimeographed and copies were distributed to the students at the University College at Ibadan."

A number of students demonstrated in protest at her description of the country. But, she said, some Nigerian students had expressed sympathy to her.

She noted that the card had mentioned primitive living conditions but that it also reported that living in Nigeria was "a very rewarding experience" and that she was "very happy" there.
