

Pentagon Not To Spend Millions For Bombers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration announced Friday night that the military buildup will give the nation "a nuclear capability several times" that of the Soviet Union's, and thus the Pentagon will not spend extra millions ticketed by Congress for big bombers.

The decision not to use the $700 million Congress voted for the bombers and for pushing work on aircraft of the future was made public by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. He said he had President Kennedy's approval.

In announcing that the funds would be impounded, the Defense Department said: "The progress of the administration's accelerated defense buildup makes unnecessary the use of additional defense funds appropriated by the Congress above the amount requested by the administration."

The Pentagon originally opposed buying more of the long-range B52 bombers and a speedup in development of the B70, designed to fly at 2,000 miles an hour.

But when the Berlin crisis developed, Congress not only approved all the additional funds Kennedy had requested but added more for another 45-plane wing of the B52s, plus money to speed development of other projects.

Bryson Sworn

PORTLAND (AP) — Dean F. Bryson, Portland, was sworn in Friday as a circuit judge for Multnomah County.

He succeeds the late Judge Frank J. Lonergan.

Chief Justice William M. McAllister of the Oregon State Supreme Court and Gov. Mark O. Hatfield were among those giving brief talks at the ceremonies.

Since then the bomber program has been under study in the defense Department.

There had been rumors and hints that the Pentagon might reverse itself. But Friday's decision was foreshadowed even when Congress was considering the bill. McNamara let it be known then he was disinclined to spend the money.

The announcement not to spend the money ran into opposition from Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate military preparedness subcommittee, who led the floor fight for the funds.

Stennis said Friday night in Jackson, Miss., that he is still convinced that "it will be an error not to proceed with the manned-bomber program."

He said in a statement that he will object to the use of the money for any purpose other than the bombers. He added: "I will continue to urge an increased program of B52 and B70 long-range bombers."

McNamara said his recommendation "in no way means that our bombers are becoming obsolete."

He listed factors entering into the decision against using the money. The United States, he said, now has a force of about 1,500 heavy bombers and 204 medium bombers and 204 tanker planes—and this "gives us more than enough capability to perform the tasks for which they are particularly suited."

This bomber force, he added, will be able to perform its mission through the late 1960s and into the early 1970s.

The decision against using more money for the B70, he said, was based on the conclusion that the supersonic airplane program should be pursued to demonstrate the technical feasibility of the faster-than-sound plane as an aircraft, rather than as a "full-scale weapon system."

BIG FEED — Parents and Patrons of Henley School will serve a spaghetti dinner to the public in the school cafeteria on Nov. 4. Serving will be from 5 to 7 p.m. Money from the venture is used for school projects. There will be dinner music by accordionists Patsy Dingler, Bill Sellers and Eric Wakkuri and a vocal quartet including Virginia Scala, Connie Stone, Starla Beymer, Donna Short, with Pamela DeLap as accompanist. Background dinner music will be by Danny Ginther and Judy Peterson. Mrs. Vern Berry is general chairman. Left to right are Eric Wakkuri, Starla Beymer, Donna Short and Connie Stone.

Police Chief Accused Of 'Framing' Candidate

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — The Newport, Ky., police chief stood accused today of framing George Ratterman a man running for sheriff on a pledge to clean up the county surrounding that northern Kentucky gambling haven.

The foul odors of vice, corruption and bribery cover Campbell County like a pall, a federal grand jury reported Friday as it returned indictments against Newport Police Chief Upshere White, two of his detectives, and three other men.

The indictments charge the defendants conspired to arrest Ratterman in a hotel room with a strip tease dancer last May 9, although they "knew Ratterman was innocent" of any law violation. Ratterman, a former professional football player, is running for Campbell County sheriff in next month's election with the backing of a reform group.

"It's a relief to have my phase of the investigation over," Ratterman, 34, said. "But I take no pleasure in seeing anyone indicted. I'm sure they'll get a fair trial."

The grand jury session began last summer to see if Ratterman's civil rights had been violated when he was arrested in the hotel room with dancer April Flowers. Ratterman claimed he had been drugged and framed, and misdemeanor charges against him were dropped in a police court trial.

Indicted with White, 49, were Detectives Pat Ciafardini, 39, and Joseph Quitter, 43; Charles E. Lester, a Fort Thomas, Ky., lawyer; and night club operators Tito Carinci, 32, and Edward Anthony Buccieri, 39.

Ciafardini was the man who arrested Ratterman in the hotel room, which was Carinci's. White, then a detective, and Quitter were on the call. Lester allegedly telephoned a photographer to arrange for pictures of the incident; and

Death Rate Still Climbs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Four deaths in Oregon traffic Friday pushed Oregon's traffic toll for the year to 406 as the death rate continued its frightening climb.

So far this year, 406 have died in Oregon traffic. In the record year, 1959, only 403 had died by the end of October. The final count that year was 497.

These fatalities were recorded yesterday:

Velma Jay Greer, 42, and her daughter, Sandra Greer, 14, of Oakridge, died when their car collided with a pickup truck about 20 miles southeast of Eugene on Highway 58.

State police said Mrs. Greer was driving and apparently pulled out to pass a truck when she saw the oncoming pickup. She slammed on the brakes, police said, but the car skidded sideways and the pickup piled into it broadside. Marvin Brown, 58, Fall Creek, the pickup driver, was hospitalized.

Earl W. Hartsook, 59, Albany, died after his car collided with a Southern Pacific freight train at a crossing south of Albany.

Catherine Edgar, 30, Wilsonville, was killed early Friday when her car skidded on the rain-swept Salem freeway nine miles south of Portland and collided with another vehicle.

Police Chief Accused Of 'Framing' Candidate

Buccieri was a coowner of the hotel.

White, Ciafardini, Newport Mayor Ralph Muffman, three city commissioners, and several police officers were indicted by a Campbell County grand jury last month on charges of conspiracy to obstruct justice.

White was named police chief this month after former Chief George Gugel, accused of failing to enforce antive laws, retired. Gugel later was barred by Gov. Bert Combs from holding public office in Kentucky for four years.

"I'm glad," White said of his indictment. Now I've at least got a chance to defend myself."

It's the first time in the whole incident I've really felt bitter," Carinci said. I didn't get a chance to present the real truth of the whole story."

Quitter had no comment, and the others could not be reached. None of the six appeared before the jury Friday.

Ratterman did, along with Miss Flowers, whose real name is Juanita Jean Hodges, of Houston, Tex.

The indictments, brought under a federal law prohibiting the use of police power to deprive a person of his constitutional rights, carry penalties of a $1,000 fine and a year in prison on each count. Each defendant was indicted on two counts.

Red Booklet Tells How To Survive Fallout

MOSCOW (AP) — Come out of your shelter after seven days and wash everything, including the family pig and even the fish you eat.

That's part of the advice given Soviet citizens who want to survive nuclear fallout.

It appears in a pamphlet that sells for 10 kopeks—about a dime. There are no indications it is a best seller. It tells how to build a simple shelter, but there are no exhibits around of such shelters, nor does one run into anyone who has seen a shelter.

Villagers are advised to use cellars.

Colored posters, on sale cheaply, tell how to dig trenches and cover them with logs and earth. They also detail how to wash a cow: do it soon before the fallout on the outside gets inside. Until it gets inside, the milk can be eaten if drunk. Or the cow can be eaten if killed early enough.

The pamphlet, one of a series dealing with air raids and the like, bears the date Dec. 21, 1960. No mention is made of Soviet bombs. It says testing "by some imperialist states" endangers people even though explosions take place far from inhabited regions.

This correspondent has made a sustained but unsuccessful hunt to find either a bomb shelter or anybody who has seen one in the Soviet Union.

Postcard Girl Stays In

WASHINGTON (AP)—A young woman whose post card touched off a furor about the Peace Corps in Nigeria, will stay with the corps—in Washington.

The announcement Friday that Margery Michelmore, 23, would be assigned here came shortly after it was disclosed that President Kennedy had written her a brief letter of encouragement.

Miss Michelmore of Foxboro, Mass., was among a group of Peace Corps teachers assigned to Nigeria. She wrote a post card describing living conditions in the African country as primitive and apparently dropped it. Nigerian students at Ibadan University came in possession of the card and promptly demanded ouster of all corps teachers.

Miss Michelmore apologized for the incident, offering to resign, then left Nigeria.

In an interview at her home in Foxboro Friday night, Miss Michelmore said she hoped the post card incident would be forgotten. She said she was disappointed at not being able to continue in Nigeria.

"I was fascinated by Nigeria," she said. "When I joined the Peace Corps, I wanted to go to Nigeria, but I didn't apply specifically for it."

"I thought it was wonderful when I was assigned there."

The letter from Kennedy, published in the Boston Globe Friday, was dated Oct. 18. It read: "Dear Miss Michelmore: "I want you to know that we are most appreciative of your steadfastness in recent days. We are strongly behind you and hope that you will continue to serve in the Peace Corps."

"Sincerely,"
"John F. Kennedy."

UAW Poses Strike Stab At Chrysler

DETROIT, Mich. (AP) — Chrysler Corp. had today what amounted to a Thursday strike deadline from the United Auto Workers Union.

The union gave every indication that it would attempt to avoid a walkout at plants of the only money-loser among the auto industry's big three, but the UAW international executive board said Friday night it was postponing until 8 p.m. Tuesday a decision on whether to serve 48-hour notice of contract termination.

Notice of contract termination normally means strike notice, and a union spokesman said it would be in the case of Chrysler.

The UAW executive board gave several reasons for delaying until Tuesday a termination notice for Chrysler, among them a request from William Simkin, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, "on behalf of the United States government."

Delay was decided upon, too, the union said, because of "the real progress that has been made both with respect to national and local negotiations" on a new Chrysler contract.

The corporation offered approximately the same economic package of wages and fringe benefits Friday that the UAW previously had negotiated with General Motors Corp. and the Ford Motor Co.

The union estimates the package is worth more than 12 cents hourly over each year of the three-year contracts in take-home pay, and it broadly improves such fringe items as pensions and supplemental unemployment benefits.

Another reason for delaying of a fixed deadline, the union said, could be attributed to its recognition of the "precarious position" of Chrysler and "serious loss" in the corporation's historic percentage of the automobile market.

The UAW said it wanted to give Chrysler's new management "an opportunity to take imperative steps to overcoming the serious deficiencies of the past."

The topmost stumbling block in Chrysler-UAW negotiations remained at the plant working agreements, which will supplement a national agreement. All but 12 bargaining units among the UAW's 88 at Chrysler's 46 plants had reached local-level agreements Friday night.

But still outstanding was the Twinsburg, Ohio, stamping plant. A strike over local-level issues at Twinsburg would have approximately the effect of a company-wide strike. Twinsburg is Chrysler's No. 1 plant for the production of pressed metal parts used by all car and truck divisions.

Also still outstanding were settlements at all assembly plants, except that at St. Louis, Mo.

Girl Thinks Rich Dad Necessary Evil

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Your cornball advice is making me sick to my stomach. When teenage girls write and ask how to be popular why don't you level with them instead of dishing out that goo about being loyal, friendly, interesting, and "fun to be with?"

Anybody whose skull is on straight knows that the way to be popular is to have a rich father so you can live in a beautiful home and buy the latest gone platters for your stereo. It also helps if you have a new car.

If a girl doesn't have any of this she absolutely must have a beautiful face or at least knock-out measurements.

So muffle that 18th-century drawing-room rattle, Granny Landers, and give the cats the hip scoop.—SAPPHIRE NEEDLE

Dear Needle: I receive plenty of letters from girls who are sitting in their lovely homes—alone, with their beautiful faces and knock-out measurements, listening to the gone platters. The kids are gone, too. They left when they became bored. And it didn't take long.

The way to have friends is to make people want to be around you. This takes warmth and sparkle. The expensive trappings may attract a few bees, but they sip the honey and then fly away.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter signed "Getting Tired" was the story of my life.

My husband is wealthy. He owns eight apartment buildings. I used to clean the apartments when a tenant moved out, just as "Getting Tired" did. Finally I got tired, too, and quit. He had to hire two men to replace me.

My husband neglects his teeth and they are falling out of his mouth. He refuses to see a dentist because "they charge too much." His eyes are bad but he wears dime store glasses because eye doctors are "too expensive."

Our old car is falling apart. Our home is a disgrace to the neighborhood because it needs painting and repairing.

I make all our child's clothes because my husband won't give me money to buy anything. I haven't had a new dress in five years.

He claims he loves me, yet he says if I don't like the arrangement I can move out. I'm thinking of doing just that, but I must find a way to support myself and our daughter. Please help me.—GIVING UP

Dear Giving Up: Your husband sounds like a dingbat. Tell him to give you a decent allowance at once or you will leave and he'll have to pay for two homes—yours and his.

The law says a husband must support his wife and family. Educate yourself with the help of a lawyer and then throw the book at him.

Confidential to S.O.S. 7-11: Your sister is trying to operate outside her orbit. These decisions should be yours, not hers. Tell her so promptly.

SCARED STIFF: You can't keep this kind of a "secret" much longer. Tell your parents immediately.

TORN BETWEEN TWO LOVES: If your wife is as wonderful as you say she'll urge you to go to your mother's bedside — alone. Leave the decision to her.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking and Petting—and How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Graduate Study Plan Uncovered

SALEM (AP) — A proposed Portland area graduate study center was unveiled Friday — before the governor's advisory committee to the State Planning and Development Department.

It called for creation of an "autonomous educational institution, which would have its own administration."

The proposal came in a report of the planning and development department's science, engineering and new technologies committee.

Acceptance of need and philosophy as included in the proposal was agreed to by the advisory committee.

The proposal would call for the center to operate in cooperation with the State System of Higher Education, private colleges and industries, especially in the Portland area.

Gov. Mark Hatfield said top priority would be given the proposal and he said he already had asked presidents Arthur Flemming of the University of Oregon, James H. Jensen of Oregon State University and Branford P. Miller of Portland State College for their views.
