Scotty's BARKS 'N' BITES

By WAYNE SCOTT

The KF American Legion 1961 baseball season was a success, two teams and all, and that success was the result of a fine effort on the parts of the players, coaches, officials, fans, commission members and sponsors.

The following letter came from Fred Lawson, the man who handles the bookkeeping for the commission:

Dear Members of Klamath Post No. 8:

We of the Baseball Commission hereby present our annual financial report of the 1961 baseball season.

We wish to express our appreciation to the following sponsors who made it possible for us to have a successful season financially: The Broiler, The Chuck Wagon, The Coast to Coast Store, The Eastside Electric, The Gun Store, Hal's Sport Shop, The Herald and News, K. C. Paint Store, KFLW, Oregon Food Stores, Ned Putnam Logging, Deane Sacher Realtor, Sixth St. Steel and Oxygen, Superior Troy Laundry, and The Texaco Oil Co.

Special recognition should be given to A. E. "Gene" Coleman for his wonderful assistance in selling season tickets. Special thanks should also be given to Loris Binney for his hard work in handling the ticket sales at the gate and season tickets.

You will note that our 1961 season ended with a surplus in operation of $251.63, but we had expenses of $225.21 for the 1960 season; therefore, we were only able to add $26.42 to our surplus. We have a total surplus as of today which is all cash in bank of $181.32.

Respectfully submitted,
s) Fredric Lawson,
Finance Commissioner.

Always Welcome, Dept.

. . . and this one also reminds us that next year's baseball program is nearer than you think. It comes from Dallas Fanning, the SSLL prexy.

"Dear Wayne,

In the operation of the South Suburban Little League we have received much needed help, many kindnesses and personal sacrifices, and have benefited from the generosity of many people.

We would like first to express our appreciation to you and the Herald and News for your cooperation in publishing the many notices and announcements necessary in the construction of our new ball park and also to you personally for the coverage of our league play and the tournament.

. . . We realize that with the multitude of names and statistics reported to you by our league scorers that a few errors are only human.

. . . Without your help and many people like you this league could not and would not operate.

With kindest personal regards,
s) Dallas Fanning
President, SSLL"

Odds and ends . . .

Bill Sproat, a Colorado U sophomore, formerly a member of the Klamath Union track squad, is doing well on the CU cross country team. Recently the unbeaten seven man CU team journeyed to Lincoln, Neb., where they topped Nebraska 23-36. Coach Frank Potts is real high on Sproat's potential.

Bill is in the School of Pharmacy and likes it fine, thank you.

The Dutchman, Minnesota's Norm Van Brocklin, cleared the air, but good, in a recent "chat" with his Vikings. He barked . . . "any man not willing to pay the price of playing 60 minutes of football" is in danger of losing his job. He continued, "We don't have to keep 42 men on the squad —we don't even have to keep 36."

Suppose the Viks got the message?

And San Jose State coach Bob Titchenal had this to say after the Oregon State game last week, "You have to have something up your sleeve to call something like that (a delay of game penalty). If this is the way you play football, I shouldn't be coaching it."

Titchenal was referring to a penalty charged his club while it was in the midst of a drive to the Beaver goal line at the start of the fourth quarter. The Spart boss told sports writers he figured the call must have been "premeditated." My, My.

We were a bit worried that "Sports Illustrated" might have put the "kiss of Death" on Oregon State's Terry Baker. Not so. Baker is one of those rare individuals who is not jinxed by publicity . . . nor is he the type whose hat size changes.

He's gotten raves from all the writers who have seen him in action since the article broke. "Terrific," "Great," "It's all true" . . . is the way he was described.

OUT OF ACTION

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Quarterback Steve Thurlow of Stanford was out of action Saturday when his team met UCLA. The team doctor reported Thurlow might be suffering from mononucleosis although a positive diagnosis won't be made until this week.

BOXING

TORONTO — Former heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott was named to referee Dec. 4 title bout in Toronto between heavyweight king Floyd Patterson and challenger Tom McNeeley.

Dragsters To Meet, If Weather OK

MEDFORD (Special) — Drag races will be held today at the Medford drag strip by Southern Oregon Timing Association, but Nov. 12 has been set as the rain date should inclement weather force cancellation of the events.

National champion roadster driver Dave Skeans will be on hand gunning the powerful Skeans-Pickering "A" modified roadster from Vancouver, Wash., through the speed traps.

The Vancouver speedster was a trophy winner at the National Championship drag races held over Labor Day weekend at Indianapolis and currently holds the national record in the "A" division of modified roadsters.

The sleek red acceleration machine is a record holder among many drag strips in the Northwest and holds the strip record at Medford in this class at 147.29 miles per hour with an elapsed time of 9.81 seconds. The entry is powered by a fuel injected and supercharged Chevrolet engine.

A special powderpuff section of competition has been billed for the gals who like to demonstrate their driving ability on the drag strip. They will compete in the stock division of competition.

The meet's top eliminator will walk off with $75 in cash and trophies will go to all other class winners.

Strip officials reminded all contestants to phone either of these two numbers if they are not sure of the weather prediction for today at Medford: SP 2-5470 or SP 3-4274.

Friday's Results

Edmonton 7 Los Angeles 1
Vancouver 2 San Francisco 0
Portland 5 Seattle 4

The San Francisco Seals of the Western Hockey League have played nine games so far this season, two more than any other team in the league.

This has given them the opportunity to lose eight, four more than anyone else in the league.

The Seals picked up defeat number eight Friday night when they were blanked by Vancouver, 2-0, at Vancouver. It was the first win of the season for the Canucks.

In other action the top dogs in both the northern and southern division lengthened their leads, with Edmonton whipping the Los Angeles Blades, 7-1, and Portland rallying in the third period for a 5-4 win over Seattle. Calgary and Spokane were idle.

Headed For Home

The sorry Seals and coach Max McNab are hoping the team's luck will change when they finally get a chance to perform before the home town fans. So far they have spent all their time on the road, and they don't get a look at their Cow Palace lodgings until Nov. 17.

Coleman Hall, owner and general manager of the Seals, stormed onto the ice during the third period of Friday night's game to protest a penalty. Referee Scotty Morrison ordered him off the ice and said Hall would be fined

Both Canuck goals came in the first period, off the sticks of Ron Hutchinson and Bob McCusker. A San Francisco defenseman got an unwitting assist on the second goal, when the shot deflected off his stick into the net.

Seattle led the southern division-leading Portland Buckaroos 4-2 going into the third period at Seattle. The winning goal, a bullet by Tommy McVie, came with 48 seconds remaining to play.

5th Straight For Flyers

League scoring leader Art Jones and Ron Matthews had put the Bucks back in the game with goals earlier in the final period. Both teams scored twice in the opening period, and Seattle jumped ahead with two in the second.

The Edmonton Flyers glided to their fifth win without a defeat when they bombed Los Angeles.

The Blades scored first, and remained in contention at the end of the first period when the scoreboard read 1-1. But the Flyers broke loose for a go-ahead goal in the second period and then boomed in five in the third.

Chuck Holmes turned in a hat trick for the Flyers, the first of the season for northern division-leading Edmonton.

Winter Fish Season Open November 1

Oregon anglers are reminded that Tuesday, Oct. 31, is the end of the general summer angling season. As of Nov. 1 winter angling rules will become effective.

The winter angling rules may be found in the angling synopsis on pages 40 through 47, and only those waters listed under the winter regulations will be open to winter angling. Anglers will also find that almost without exception, fishing deadlines under the winter regulations are dropped to downstream points to protect the upstream spawning areas.

Of special importance to salmon anglers is the complete closure of the Columbia River and tributaries to all salmon angling during the entire month of November. This closure includes the main stem of the Columbia and all tributary streams which drain directly or indirectly into the Columbia system. The closure does not affect steelhead fishermen or those fishing for other game fish.

Under the winter rules, the bag limit on trout, salmon, and steelhead is two fish 12 inches or over per day, four such fish in possession or in seven consecutive days. Anglers fishing for salmon or steelhead must have a salmon license in possession as well as the regular angling license.

Anglers will find that a number of lakes and reservois will remain open to angling during the winter months with the regular summer bag limits. Anglers are urged to check the synopsis for waters which remain open the entire year.

No Problem For SD '11', Denver Next

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The tangled situation in the Eastern Division of the American Football League may be cleared somewhat with games at Buffalo, Oakland and Dallas today, but there's nothing to clear up in the Western Division.

San Diego leads the Western Division by 3½ games and could afford the luxury of a couple of losses before gaining even a brow wrinkle.

The Chargers aren't due to start the luxury tod a y, either. They play Denver at San Diego and will be expected to post their eighth straight victory.

San Diego hasn't come close to losing a game of any kind, practice or league. Denver, which has won two in a row, might give San Diego its best test thus far.

The Eastern Division is so close last place can shake hands with first place without moving out of its tracks. New York and Boston are tied for the lead with 3-3 records, Buffalo is next with 3-4, and Houston is in a virtual tie with Buffalo with 2-3. Boston and Houston have a tie game on their records, but ties count nothing in the AFL.

Houston could take over the lead if it beat Buffalo, which it plays at Buffalo, and New York and Boston lost.

New York is at Oakland and Boston at Dallas.

Dallas needs a victory to hang in contention, if dim, in the Western Division. The Texans are in second place with a 3-3 record. Another loss would mean the death knell of even that dim prospect of figuring in the title.

Buff Family Downs Reds

By United Press International

A family which plays together wins together.

The Cullens of Ottawa, Ontario, pooled their talents Friday night to provide the Buffalo Bisons with a bitterly contested 3-2 overtime decision over the Providence Reds in the only scheduled American Hockey League game.

After Providence had overcome a two-goal deficit to force the game into extra time, Brian Cullen whipped a pass from brother Barry past Red goaltender Ed Giacomin for the decisive tally. The score came just 25 seconds after the start of the overtime session.

Buffalo scored twice in the second period on goals by Autry Erickson and Bob Courcy but the Reds evened it in the third period on counters by Zellio Toppazzini and Ed MacQueen.

The victory lifted the Bisons into undisputed possession of first place in the league's Western Division.

Hitchhiker Big Factor

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CORVALLIS (AP) — Perseverance paid off for a Washington State University freshman football player who missed the team bus for a game at Oregon State University Friday.

"Some joker hid my pants," growled end Dennis McCurdy of Couer D'Alene, Idaho, who hitchhiked more than 400 miles to Corvallis with the help of nine rides.

He arrived just 2½ hours after the team bus pulled in.

It's a good thing for Washington State that he made it.

McCurdy caught two long touchdown passes as the Coubabes edged the Oregon State frosh, 22-20.

Committee Chairman Doubts Value Of Present Helmet, Face-Protector

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP) — The chairman of the NCAA committee on football injuries said today he has become highly suspicious of the helmet and face protector.

"I'm speaking only for myself," said Ernie McCoy, Penn State athletic director, "but I am concerned about the helmet we have been using, and some changes may be required."

Already this season four collegians, two semipro players and 15 high school boys—a total of 21—have died, most as a result of injuries.

"We haven't come to any official conclusions yet," said McCoy. "We are gathering the facts. In fact, we have offered to take over some of the research that is being conducted by the coaches' committee on the subject.

McCoy said that he thinks the plastic helmet and the protruding face guard have resulted in added danger.

"Furthermore," he said, "the way the boys tackle these days doesn't help. Almost all tackling is around the chest, with the hope of causing a fumble. That can snap the neck back.

"I remember in the days of Fielding Yost, he would get terribly upset if we tackled anywhere over the knees. How often do you see that today?"

McCoy said that his committee had taken a survey two years ago on injuries.

"We found some interesting things," he observed. "For one, we found that the biggest percentage of injuries occurred in the beginning of the third period of games. That would indicate that the boys have not been warming up enough before the second half. Perhaps we should make a compulsory rule that they warm up for five minutes.

"Then we found that most of the seasonal injuries took place in the first three weeks of practice. Perhaps the conclusion here is that there has been too much head-knocking at the start before the lads are properly trained."

McCoy pointed out that at Penn State the players wear a stocking around their necks filled with sponge rubber during practice.

"They wouldn't be without it once they've used it," he said. "We also ask the boys to wear mouthpieces rather than face protectors. It's hard to get youngsters to do this because they've been trained in the use of face protectors all during high school."

Sophomores Spark Miami 10-0 Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The football fortunes at Miami and Boston University are looking up a bit because of a couple of sophomores, Hurricane quarterback George Mira and Terrier halfback Joe DiPietro.

Mira, a sensation early in the season, had sat out a couple of losing games with torn rib cartilages but returned to action Friday night and led Miami to a 10-0 decision over Atlantic Coast Conference co-leader North Carolina.

DiPietro had carried only three times all season, picked up 114 yards and a pair of touchdowns—including an 87-yard jaunt—in leading Boston University to a 20-6 victory over George Washington in the only other major game Friday night. It was BU's second straight victory after losing four straight.

Their performances ushered in a football weekend that has the top-ranked teams, such as Michigan State, Mississippi and Alabama, facing relatively easy bids to remain unbeaten.

'Catcher Of Year' Takes The Plunge

NEW YORK (AP) — Sal Durante, 19, the truck driver who made a $5,000 catch of Roger Maris' historic 61st home run Oct. 1, will be married today.

"Sure, the money made some difference," Sal said today, "although we had been talking about marriage before I got the ball."

His bride will be Rose Calabrese, who went with Durante to Yankee Stadium that Sunday afternoon nearly a month ago when Sal bought tickets for $7.30 that put him in the spot in the right-field stands where the Yankee slugger's 61st landed.

Sal made a bare-hand, one-hand catch of the drive that catapulted Maris to the greatest total of home runs ever hit in a major league season. But Sal is much more nervous about Sunday's nuptials, scheduled for 5 p.m. EST at St. Finbar's Roman Catholic Church in Brooklyn.

"I caught a baseball before," he grinned.

Monday, Sal and Rose will fly to the West Coast, all expenses paid, where he will present the ball to Maris at the Sacramento, Calif., restaurant of Sam Gordon. It was Gordon who proposed to the New York Yankees late in the baseball season that the person catching No. 61 accept a $5,000 check from him in exchange for turning over the ball during a presentation at his restaurant.

The Yankees approved, and Sal was delighted to oblige. So was Maris, although it was reported Friday night that he was ill with flu at his home in Raytown, Mo., and might not make the trip.

The Yankee slugger's agent, Frank Scott, said in New York, however, that Maris "definitely will fulfill his obligation. What Maris probably meant when he said he wasn't going was that he's not going out this weekend. He's going to make a one-day trip out there Nov. 4, and the presentation will be that day."

Durante has another West Coast trip coming up next spring. He has been invited to the Seattle World's Fair, and he expects to go there in April.

The Milwaukee Braves figure they lost a good chance for the 1961 National League pennant by losing 15 of 22 games to Cincinnati.

Linfield Ace Ranked No. 2 In Rush Stats

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Linfield College fullback Steve Beguin was listed second in football rushing offense this week by the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Beguin took the second spot among small college players with an average of 129.6 yards a game. He trailed Jerry Linton of Panhandle A & M, Okla., who has an average of 165.8 yards.

Bob Pennel, Oregon College of Education fullback, was in fourth place in the NAIA list with an average of 122.5 yards. Bill Dressel of Linfield was ninth with 106.8 and Mickey Hergert, Lewis & Clark, was 11th with a 104.2-yard average.

Beguin, who does not pass, was tied for 17th in total offense.

Linfield was eighth in rushing offense with 275.6 yards a game. It was sixth in total offense with 397.2 yards a game.
