

MARKETS and FINANCE

Stocks Wall Street

NEW YORK STOCKS By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS AJ Indust 4 1/2 Alco Prod 17 1/2 Allied Ch 18 1/2 Allis Chal 20 1/2 Alcoa 57 Alum Ltd 27 1/2 Amerada 93 1/2 Am Airline 40 Am Can 25 Am Cyan 44 Am McFdy 38 Am Motors 17 1/2 Am Smelt 59 1/4 Am Tel & Tel 92 1/4 Am Tob 121 1/4 Am Viscose 55 1/2 Anaconda 47 1/2 Arco Stl 72 Alchison 28 Avco 22 1/2 Bendix 61 1/4 Beth Steel 42 1/4 Boeing Air 48 1/4 Borden 69 1/4 Borg Warner 55 Brunswick 44 Burroughs 32 1/4 Cal Pac 36 1/4 Cdn Pac 24 1/4 Cater Trac 37 Celanese 32 1/4 Chrysler 53 1/4 Cities Svc 52 1/4 Colun Gas 28 Con Edis 46 Cont Can 60 Corn Pd 56 Crown Zll 18 Curtiss Wr 34 Decca Rec 34 Doug Airc 29 Dow Chem 73 1/4 East Kod 109 1/4 EIPasoNG 26 Evans Pd 11 1/4 Firestone 47 Ford Mot 104 Forem Dairy 23 Gen Dym 27 Gen Elec 74 Gen Mtrs 49 GT&E 24 Gen Tire 45 Ga Pac Cp 55 Goodyear 48 GI No Ry 45 GI West S 32 Gulf Oil 38 Idaho Pw 37 1/4 Int Bus Meh 58 1/4 Int Harv 80 Int Nick 80 Int Paper 51 1/4 Int Tel&Tel 39 Johns Man 30 Kaiser Al 79 Kennecott 12 LibMcN&L 47 Loch Air 61 Lorillard 27 Martin Co 76 Merck 72 Minn M&M 53 Monsanto Ch 113 Mont Ward 31 Nat Cash R 25 Nat Distill 25 NY Central 41 Nor Pac 18 Olin Math 18 Outb Mar 20 Owens Ill Cp 24 Pac Am Cp 84 Pac G&E 98 Pac T&T 20 Pan AW Air 35 Parke Da 35 Penn Dix 53 Penney JC 26 Phi R 54 Pepsi Cola 21 Pfizer 26 Phil Pet 55 Polard 92 Proct&G 39 Pug S&P&L 34 RCA 20 Rayonier 37 Raytheon 39 Repub Stl 37 Reyn Met 39 Richfield Oil 39 Safeway St 38 St Reg Pp 38 Schenley 28 Scott Pp 125 Sears Roeb 82 Shell Oil 82 Sinclair 47 Socomey 38 Wn Bancorp 48 West UnTel 24 WestABK 24 Sou Pac 27 Sperry Rd 27 StOil Cal 26 StOil NJ 46 Stud Pack 30 Sunray 10 Sunsh Mn 14 Swift & Co 39 Texaco 37 Thiokol 64 ThompRW 64 Tidewater 57 TimkRear 43 Transamer 43 Twen Cent 34 Un Carbide 128 Un Oil Cal 58 Un Pac 36 Unit AirLin 35 Unit Air 44 US Plywood 8 US Smelt 39 US Steel 47 Varian As 43 Vendo Co 44 Walgreen 58 Warm B. Pic 51 Wash Wat Pow 54 W. El 49 W. S. Sil 43 W. S. Smith 83

Medicare Program Goes Into Effect Wednesday

A government Medicare program, designed to assist elderly citizens with hospital and medical expenses, goes into effect Wednesday in Oregon. Mrs. Edna Russell, manager of Medicare for the Klamath County Welfare Department, said 84 applications had been received locally through Monday afternoon. Response has been heavy, Mrs. Russell said, and she has appointments scheduled through most of the week. The Klamath Basin Council on Aging met with Mrs. Russell Monday in the Klamath Auditorium to hear details of the medical program. About 20 representatives of churches and other civic organizations attended. Generally eligible to apply for Medicare are those persons at least 65 years of age with an annual income of less than $1,500 ($2,000 for a married couple), cash and liquid assets under $1,500 ($2,000 for a married couple) and real property (excluding home) valued under $5,000. Applicants must furnish proof of age in the form of a birth certificate, driver's license or other official document. Persons who have medical insurance may apply for Medicare but should provide information concerning the insurance such as policy number and coverage. Medicare benefits include: 1. Fourteen days of hospitalization per year with the patient assuming a charge of $7.50 per day for the first 10 days. 2. Hospital outpatient service for persons needing emergency service but not requiring a hospital bed. 3. The patient pays the first $50 of doctor bills after which the following services are covered: $150 per year for medical visits, examinations and treatments; $100 per year for X-ray and laboratory studies, and $500 per year for surgical services. 4. Care in a licensed nursing home may be substituted four days for one of hospitalization if the doctor recommends nursing home care. Medicare is financed from national, state and county sources. Persons interested in the program are urged to call the welfare department at TU 4-7774 and make appointments with Mrs. Russell. Early application is important because benefits begin with the application date.

Williamson Trial Enters Second Day

The prosecution's main witness was testifying Tuesday morning in the second day of the armed robbery trial of Johnnie Lee Williamson, 18-year-old Klamath Falls youth. Mrs. Lorelei Haynes, manager of the Falcon Heights Store, 3204 Midland Road, identified Williamson as the young man who robbed her of about $55 at gunpoint on the night of Aug. 29. Mrs. Haynes said Williamson first came into the store and asked where Sam's Corner was. She said she told him it was across the street. He went out, she said, but came back in a few minutes. "I looked down and saw a revolver in his right hand," Mrs. Haynes said. "Then he said, 'I guess all I want is your money.'" Mrs. Haynes said she took the cash drawers from the register and the young holdup man scooped the money into a bag. Williamson, a short, freckle-faced, redhaired youth, was arrested by state police two days later on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. The armed robbery charge was filed after Mrs. Haynes picked him out of a police lineup. A jury of six men and six women was chosen Monday as the trial began. Williamson went on trial earlier this month but a mistrial was declared when one of the jurors was called out of town. After the jury viewed the scene, the defense attorney said in his opening statement that "Williamson was not present when the robbery occurred." He said Williamson was at Lucky Lane Bowling Alley and added that Mrs. Haynes was "mistaken."

Jazz Show Set At OTI

Cal Tjader and his quintet, presenting "Jazz by Tjader," will appear for one night only this evening at Oregon Technical Institute, 8:30 p.m. Tickets for the Tjader concert are available on campus, at the door this evening and from Derby's Music Store in downtown Klamath Falls. Tjader is a product of the psychology department at San Jose and San Francisco State colleges as well as the orchestras of George Shearing and Dave Brubeck. Known as one of San Francisco's top jazz groups, the Tjader Quintet includes a vibraphone, piano, bass, drums and conga drum. His announced specialty is jazz with a Latin American beat, in which Tjader makes extensive use of the talents of Mongo Santamaria on the conga drum. Tjader's own talents include dancing, drums and his present specialty, the vibes. At one time he turned down an opportunity to tour with the Lionel Hampton Orchestra in order to finish his college work. He first came to national prominence as a member of the Brubeck Trio. Tjader was the first winner of the Down Beat New Star Award in the vibraphone category.

Obituaries

Janice Marie Gates, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Gates, died here Oct. 29, 1961. Besides her parents she is survived by grandparents, Mrs. J. Gates, Central Point, Ore.; Elita Lowdon, Grants Pass; brothers, Bert Hogue, Selma, Ore.; Charles Hogue, Gold Beach; two grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. Funeral services will be held in the Chapel of Ward's Klamath Falls Funeral Home, Wednesday, Nov. 1, at 10:30 a.m. Chaplain services Klamath Memorial Park.

Funerals

Funeral services for Cecil Ararat Buell will be held at the Chapel of Ward's Klamath Falls Funeral Home on Wednesday, Nov. 1, 1961, at 2:30 p.m. Rev. L. A. Lawrence, of the First Baptist Church, of God Church officiating. Concluding services in Eternal Hills Memorial Gardens.

Grains

Table with columns for Wheat, Corn, Oats, Rye and Soybeans, showing prices for various grades and quantities.

Opinions Vary On Wilderness Bill

McCALL, Idaho (AP)—A biologist said the Senate-approved Wilderness Bill is "one of the truly great pieces of legislation," but a businessman said it "stifles multiple use development of our natural resources." That was the range of testimony given at a House public lands subcommittee hearing which opened Monday and was to wind up Tuesday before going to Montrose, Colo., Wednesday. Seventy persons testified in person Monday. Fifty were opposed, 20 were in favor. Forty more were scheduled to appear Tuesday. The subcommittee chairman, Rep. George Plof, D-Idaho, said of the written statements submitted, 103 were in favor and 33 were opposed. The Senate bill would set aside certain public lands and preserve them as wilderness areas. I. H. Harris of Burley, president of the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce, said the bill "stifles multiple use development of our natural resources and... by allowing only a congressional veto of a presidential recommendation is contrary to the United States constitution and the power it confers on the legislative branch of the government." Lyle Stanford, College of Idaho biology professor, said the bill is "one of the truly great pieces of legislation" and does "not lock up land to anywhere near the amount that our opponents have been leading people to believe." Art Manley of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, president of the Wildlife Federation there, said there is "considerable misunderstanding and lack of understanding about" the legislation. Henry Kral of Everett, Wash., representing the North Cascade Conservation Council, said objections to the bill "have been met long ago... there is no economic justification to oppose the Wilderness Bill." "There is no need for a special law to protect or set aside wilderness areas because it is already provided for," said Ernest Butler, president of the Mining and Resources Association of Lewiston, Idaho. "The average American tourist is not the wilderness user. It strangles further development of mass recreational facilities," said R. N. Witter of Seattle, assistant supervisor of timber and land for the Northern Pacific Railroad Co. Mrs. Plof said the subcommittee is considering not only the Senate-passed bill but also other bills and will make recommendations for "the best bill possible." Hilliker suffered head and arm injuries and will recuperate at home for a few days before going back on duty.

Cure Talked For College Money Ails

SALEM (AP)—State Finance Director Freeman Holmer recommended today that the state Board of Higher Education split its financial dilemma by increasing the student-teacher ratio and by practicing rigid economy. He urged the state Emergency Board, which meets here Friday, to give the state colleges and universities $244,231, instead of the $2,770,124 which they requested. The financial trouble resulted from a 15 per cent increase in enrollment this fall, instead of the 6.7 per cent that had been expected by the Board of Higher Education and the legislature. Holmer said the ratio of students to teachers could be increased to 17.3 to 1. It was 16.7 to 1 last year, and the legislature had planned to reduce it to 16 to 1 this year. If the Emergency Board accepts his proposal, the ratios would range up to 22 to 1 in freshman and sophomore classes, but much lower for upperclassmen and graduates. He also said that the Board of Higher Education should defer plant rehabilitation where possible, and make an intensified economy drive. Holmer said the Board of Higher Education should not be blamed for not anticipating the enrollment increase. For several years, he said, about 35 per cent of Oregon high school graduates have gone on to college.

Williamson Trial Enters Second Day

The prosecution's main witness was testifying Tuesday morning in the second day of the armed robbery trial of Johnnie Lee Williamson, 18-year-old Klamath Falls youth. Mrs. Lorelei Haynes, manager of the Falcon Heights Store, 3204 Midland Road, identified Williamson as the young man who robbed her of about $55 at gunpoint on the night of Aug. 29. Mrs. Haynes said Williamson first came into the store and asked where Sam's Corner was. She said she told him it was across the street. He went out, she said, but came back in a few minutes. "I looked down and saw a revolver in his right hand," Mrs. Haynes said. "Then he said, 'I guess all I want is your money.'" Mrs. Haynes said she took the cash drawers from the register and the young holdup man scooped the money into a bag. Williamson, a short, freckle-faced, redhaired youth, was arrested by state police two days later on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. The armed robbery charge was filed after Mrs. Haynes picked him out of a police lineup. A jury of six men and six women was chosen Monday as the trial began. Williamson went on trial earlier this month but a mistrial was declared when one of the jurors was called out of town. After the jury viewed the scene, the defense attorney said in his opening statement that "Williamson was not present when the robbery occurred." He said Williamson was at Lucky Lane Bowling Alley and added that Mrs. Haynes was "mistaken."

Williamson Trial Enters Second Day

The prosecution's main witness was testifying Tuesday morning in the second day of the armed robbery trial of Johnnie Lee Williamson, 18-year-old Klamath Falls youth. Mrs. Lorelei Haynes, manager of the Falcon Heights Store, 3204 Midland Road, identified Williamson as the young man who robbed her of about $55 at gunpoint on the night of Aug. 29. Mrs. Haynes said Williamson first came into the store and asked where Sam's Corner was. She said she told him it was across the street. He went out, she said, but came back in a few minutes. "I looked down and saw a revolver in his right hand," Mrs. Haynes said. "Then he said, 'I guess all I want is your money.'" Mrs. Haynes said she took the cash drawers from the register and the young holdup man scooped the money into a bag. Williamson, a short, freckle-faced, redhaired youth, was arrested by state police two days later on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. The armed robbery charge was filed after Mrs. Haynes picked him out of a police lineup. A jury of six men and six women was chosen Monday as the trial began. Williamson went on trial earlier this month but a mistrial was declared when one of the jurors was called out of town. After the jury viewed the scene, the defense attorney said in his opening statement that "Williamson was not present when the robbery occurred." He said Williamson was at Lucky Lane Bowling Alley and added that Mrs. Haynes was "mistaken."

S. V. Pickett Dies Oct. 30

S. V. (Pick) Pickett, longtime resident of Klamath Falls, died Oct. 30 in the Veterans' Hospital at Vancouver, Wash., following a lengthy illness. He was 64 years old, born in July, 1897. He came to Klamath Falls, March 7, 1927, with Hal Blackman's Orchestra which also included Neust Nelson, Dewey Powell, Jack Bowling, Lloyd Webb and Lloyd Derby. Mr. Pickett, a master of the bugle, won both state and national championships while a member of the Klamath Falls American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps. He was a Navy veteran of World War I and was of the Latter Day Saints faith. Funeral services will be held in Ogden, Utah.

Hurt Officer Recuperating

Darrell L. Hilliker, 23, Klamath Falls policeman injured early Sunday morning in a freak auto accident, was released Monday morning from Klamath Valley Hospital. Hilliker was standing outside his patrol car at 3:40 a.m. Sunday in front of 312 North Eleventh Street during investigation of a case. A car driven by Charles A. Hahn, 22-year-old Klamath Falls electrician, came down the street and rammed Hilliker's patrol car, causing it to spin around and knock Hilliker into the air. Hahn was charged with drunk driving at the scene of the accident and with disorderly conduct after he allegedly resisted arrest. He was arraigned Monday morning in municipal court and given until Nov. 15 to make an appearance by Acting Judge Robert Kerr. Hahn said his attorney is out of town. Hilliker suffered head and arm injuries and will recuperate at home for a few days before going back on duty.

Youth Cited For Bad Breaks

A citation for driving with defective brakes was issued Monday morning to an 18-year-old Klamath Falls youth after a collision at the corner of South Sixth and Elm streets. Cited was Dennis G. Larson, 18, Route 3, Box 293. City police said Larson's brakes failed and he ran a red light and hit a car driven by Deane H. Hagen, 33, 4419 Clinton Street.

Death Claims B. F. Hogue

Benjamin Franklin Hogue, 84, a resident of Klamath Falls for 42 years, died Oct. 30 at the home of a stepson, W. C. Killian. Mr. Hogue had been in failing health since the death of his wife, Kate, in 1960. He was born March 15, 1877, in Waldo, Ore. During the time he lived here he accumulated business properties and for 14 years before his retirement was with the Oregon Liquor Commission retail store in Klamath Falls. He was a member of Klamath Falls Lodge, No. 77 A.F. & A.M., Scottish Rite, Hillah Temple, White Shrine of Jerusalem, Royal Neighbors, Kirby Lodge IOOF, Ewauna Encampment and the Rebekahs. Funeral services will be at 1 p.m. Nov. 1, from St. Paul's Episcopal Church, where he was a member, with the Rev. Robert Greene officiating. Final rites and interment will be in Linkville Cemetery with Ward's Klamath Falls Funeral Home in charge. Survivors include daughters, Agnes Gold, Santa Ana, Calif.; Minnie Wise, Berkeley, Calif.; Stephanie W. C. Killian, Klamath Falls; sisters, Elsie Atterbury, Central Point, Etta Lowdon, Grants Pass; brothers, Bert Hogue, Selma, Charles Hogue, Gold Beach; two grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Funerals

Funeral services for Helen Marie Giles will be held Thursday, Nov. 2, at 10 a.m. in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, of the Holy Rosary Cemetery, 8:30 p.m. in the church. Interment Mt. Calvary Cemetery. O'Hair's Memorial Chapel in charge.

Funerals

Funeral services for Cecil Ararat Buell will be held at the Chapel of Ward's Klamath Falls Funeral Home on Wednesday, Nov. 1, 1961, at 2:30 p.m. Rev. L. A. Lawrence, of the First Baptist Church, of God Church officiating. Concluding services in Eternal Hills Memorial Gardens.

Grains

Table with columns for Wheat, Corn, Oats, Rye and Soybeans, showing prices for various grades and quantities.

Opinions Vary On Wilderness Bill

McCALL, Idaho (AP)—A biologist said the Senate-approved Wilderness Bill is "one of the truly great pieces of legislation," but a businessman said it "stifles multiple use development of our natural resources." That was the range of testimony given at a House public lands subcommittee hearing which opened Monday and was to wind up Tuesday before going to Montrose, Colo., Wednesday. Seventy persons testified in person Monday. Fifty were opposed, 20 were in favor. Forty more were scheduled to appear Tuesday. The subcommittee chairman, Rep. George Plof, D-Idaho, said of the written statements submitted, 103 were in favor and 33 were opposed. The Senate bill would set aside certain public lands and preserve them as wilderness areas. I. H. Harris of Burley, president of the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce, said the bill "stifles multiple use development of our natural resources and... by allowing only a congressional veto of a presidential recommendation is contrary to the United States constitution and the power it confers on the legislative branch of the government." Lyle Stanford, College of Idaho biology professor, said the bill is "one of the truly great pieces of legislation" and does "not lock up land to anywhere near the amount that our opponents have been leading people to believe." Art Manley of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, president of the Wildlife Federation there, said there is "considerable misunderstanding and lack of understanding about" the legislation. Henry Kral of Everett, Wash., representing the North Cascade Conservation Council, said objections to the bill "have been met long ago... there is no economic justification to oppose the Wilderness Bill." "There is no need for a special law to protect or set aside wilderness areas because it is already provided for," said Ernest Butler, president of the Mining and Resources Association of Lewiston, Idaho. "The average American tourist is not the wilderness user. It strangles further development of mass recreational facilities," said R. N. Witter of Seattle, assistant supervisor of timber and land for the Northern Pacific Railroad Co. Mrs. Plof said the subcommittee is considering not only the Senate-passed bill but also other bills and will make recommendations for "the best bill possible." Hilliker suffered head and arm injuries and will recuperate at home for a few days before going back on duty.

KUMS Faces Extended Schedule Next Year

(Continued From 1) cause of difficulty in setting meeting times. 6. Increased clerical and administrative help costs. 7. No teacher-supervised study hall. The problem remains, what will take place after 1962-63? School officials hope to have a bond issue proposal ready for the voters by spring, 1962. The issue will be to finance construction of a Summers Lane High School building, which may eventually become a junior high school, housing either grades seven, eight and nine or at least seven and eight. It seems probable now, that if the bond issue passes, its first year or so of operation will be for ninth grade only, thus alleviating some pressure on the existing high school facilities. The ultimate plan, again hinging on voter approval, is that a junior high school system will be adopted here by the mechanism of the district voting itself down to include additional grades and leaving KUMS itself as a senior high school for grades 10, 11 and 12. Flitcraft said that detailed plans will be available from the architect by April, 1962, and the board hopes to be able to let bids for the Summers Lane construction shortly after that.

No Special Meet Eyed By Governor

SALEM (AP)—Gov. Mark O. Hatfield said today he has no plans to call a special session of the legislature. "There is no crisis that would justify a special session," he said. "Besides," he added, "a special session would be too costly. There would be a multiplicity of issues, and much political finagling." The governor said, however, that he would call one if some crisis developed. "But as of now, I don't see any such crisis." Several weeks ago, he had indicated he might call a special session so that the daylight saving time referendum might be placed on the ballot next May. It now is to be placed on the November ballot. He had said that placing it on the May ballot would give the people a chance to adopt daylight saving time for the whole state, and thus avoid time confusion next summer.

Accused Man Waives Jury

Richard D. Jones, 27-year-old California man accused of burglary, waived grand jury Monday and entered a plea of guilty in Judge Donald A. W. Piper's circuit court. Judge Piper deferred sentence until a report can be obtained from the California Department of Parole and Probation. Jones and a woman companion, Mae Myrtle Caron, 23, were arrested early on the morning of Oct. 7 in an apparent burglary attempt at the Spot Tavern, 2404 South Sixth Street. A City policeman had noticed a wood chip on the outside of the building. He investigated and caught Jones as he ran out the back door. Miss Caron was found inside crouched behind some draperies. Police said a cigarette machine, console machine, juke box and shuffleboard machine had been ripped open and small change had been removed from the coin boxes. Jones had $74.74 in nickels, dimes and quarters in his pockets when he was arrested, police said. Jones told police he and Miss Caron had come to Klamath Falls in September from Sacramento. They both gave the same address, 2028 Arthur Street. She first said she was Jones' wife.

Death Claims B. F. Hogue

Benjamin Franklin Hogue, 84, a resident of Klamath Falls for 42 years, died Oct. 30 at the home of a stepson, W. C. Killian. Mr. Hogue had been in failing health since the death of his wife, Kate, in 1960. He was born March 15, 1877, in Waldo, Ore. During the time he lived here he accumulated business properties and for 14 years before his retirement was with the Oregon Liquor Commission retail store in Klamath Falls. He was a member of Klamath Falls Lodge, No. 77 A.F. & A.M., Scottish Rite, Hillah Temple, White Shrine of Jerusalem, Royal Neighbors, Kirby Lodge IOOF, Ewauna Encampment and the Rebekahs. Funeral services will be at 1 p.m. Nov. 1, from St. Paul's Episcopal Church, where he was a member, with the Rev. Robert Greene officiating. Final rites and interment will be in Linkville Cemetery with Ward's Klamath Falls Funeral Home in charge. Survivors include daughters, Agnes Gold, Santa Ana, Calif.; Minnie Wise, Berkeley, Calif.; Stephanie W. C. Killian, Klamath Falls; sisters, Elsie Atterbury, Central Point, Etta Lowdon, Grants Pass; brothers, Bert Hogue, Selma, Charles Hogue, Gold Beach; two grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Funerals

Funeral services for Helen Marie Giles will be held Thursday, Nov. 2, at 10 a.m. in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, of the Holy Rosary Cemetery, 8:30 p.m. in the church. Interment Mt. Calvary Cemetery. O'Hair's Memorial Chapel in charge.

Grains

Table with columns for Wheat, Corn, Oats, Rye and Soybeans, showing prices for various grades and quantities.

Opinions Vary On Wilderness Bill

McCALL, Idaho (AP)—A biologist said the Senate-approved Wilderness Bill is "one of the truly great pieces of legislation," but a businessman said it "stifles multiple use development of our natural resources." That was the range of testimony given at a House public lands subcommittee hearing which opened Monday and was to wind up Tuesday before going to Montrose, Colo., Wednesday. Seventy persons testified in person Monday. Fifty were opposed, 20 were in favor. Forty more were scheduled to appear Tuesday. The subcommittee chairman, Rep. George Plof, D-Idaho, said of the written statements submitted, 103 were in favor and 33 were opposed. The Senate bill would set aside certain public lands and preserve them as wilderness areas. I. H. Harris of Burley, president of the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce, said the bill "stifles multiple use development of our natural resources and... by allowing only a congressional veto of a presidential recommendation is contrary to the United States constitution and the power it confers on the legislative branch of the government." Lyle Stanford, College of Idaho biology professor, said the bill is "one of the truly great pieces of legislation" and does "not lock up land to anywhere near the amount that our opponents have been leading people to believe." Art Manley of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, president of the Wildlife Federation there, said there is "considerable misunderstanding and lack of understanding about" the legislation. Henry Kral of Everett, Wash., representing the North Cascade Conservation Council, said objections to the bill "have been met long ago... there is no economic justification to oppose the Wilderness Bill." "There is no need for a special law to protect or set aside wilderness areas because it is already provided for," said Ernest Butler, president of the Mining and Resources Association of Lewiston, Idaho. "The average American tourist is not the wilderness user. It strangles further development of mass recreational facilities," said R. N. Witter of Seattle, assistant supervisor of timber and land for the Northern Pacific Railroad Co. Mrs. Plof said the subcommittee is considering not only the Senate-passed bill but also other bills and will make recommendations for "the best bill possible." Hilliker suffered head and arm injuries and will recuperate at home for a few days before going back on duty.

Funerals

Funeral services for Helen Marie Giles will be held Thursday, Nov. 2, at 10 a.m. in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, of the Holy Rosary Cemetery, 8:30 p.m. in the church. Interment Mt. Calvary Cemetery. O'Hair's Memorial Chapel in charge.

Grains

Table with columns for Wheat, Corn, Oats, Rye and Soybeans, showing prices for various grades and quantities.

Opinions Vary On Wilderness Bill

McCALL, Idaho (AP)—A biologist said the Senate-approved Wilderness Bill is "one of the truly great pieces of legislation," but a businessman said it "stifles multiple use development of our natural resources." That was the range of testimony given at a House public lands subcommittee hearing which opened Monday and was to wind up Tuesday before going to Montrose, Colo., Wednesday. Seventy persons testified in person Monday. Fifty were opposed, 20 were in favor. Forty more were scheduled to appear Tuesday. The subcommittee chairman, Rep. George Plof, D-Idaho, said of the written statements submitted, 103 were in favor and 33 were opposed. The Senate bill would set aside certain public lands and preserve them as wilderness areas. I. H. Harris of Burley, president of the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce, said the bill "stifles multiple use development of our natural resources and... by allowing only a congressional veto of a presidential recommendation is contrary to the United States constitution and the power it confers on the legislative branch of the government." Lyle Stanford, College of Idaho biology professor, said the bill is "one of the truly great pieces of legislation" and does "not lock up land to anywhere near the amount that our opponents have been leading people to believe." Art Manley of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, president of the Wildlife Federation there, said there is "considerable misunderstanding and lack of understanding about" the legislation. Henry Kral of Everett, Wash., representing the North Cascade Conservation Council, said objections to the bill "have been met long ago... there is no economic justification to oppose the Wilderness Bill." "There is no need for a special law to protect or set aside wilderness areas because it is already provided for," said Ernest Butler, president of the Mining and Resources Association of Lewiston, Idaho. "The average American tourist is not the wilderness user. It strangles further development of mass recreational facilities," said R. N. Witter of Seattle, assistant supervisor of timber and land for the Northern Pacific Railroad Co. Mrs. Plof said the subcommittee is considering not only the Senate-passed bill but also other bills and will make recommendations for "the best bill possible." Hilliker suffered head and arm injuries and will recuperate at home for a few days before going back on duty.

Funerals

Funeral services for Helen Marie Giles will be held Thursday, Nov. 2, at 10 a.m. in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, of the Holy Rosary Cemetery, 8:30 p.m. in the church. Interment Mt. Calvary Cemetery. O'Hair's Memorial Chapel in charge.

Grains

Table with columns for Wheat, Corn, Oats, Rye and Soybeans, showing prices for various grades and quantities.

Advertisement for 'Each Check Micro-Filmed' by Bank of Klamath Falls, including contact information and a testimonial.

Advertisement for 'SMORGASBORD' at Klamath Lutheran Church, featuring home-cooked food and contact details.

Advertisement for 'O'HAIR'S MEMORIAL CHAPEL' in Klamath Falls, Oregon, with a photograph of the building and contact information.

Advertisement for '23 Years Ago' featuring a photograph of Paul O. Landry and an advertisement for 'The Landry Co.' insurance services.