

Historical Tea Focuses On Baldwin Hotel's Tie Between Past, Present

By KEN McLEOD

The open house and tea to be given by the Klamath Historical Society on Nov. 16, between the hours of 2 and 5:30 p.m. at the Baldwin Hotel, is a coming event to focus community attention upon past history and an opportunity for local people to actually step backward into the atmosphere of March 21, 1907, it may reach this life as it was lived here in Klamath Falls at the turn of the century.

The Baldwin Hotel at 31 Main Street is not more than just another hotel in the city of Klamath Falls. It is one of the few remaining historic landmarks that ties the history of the present to the history of the past. The inspiration for its construction in the hands of the track-laying optimism of a brave, small community that its destiny was to be Klamath Falls by March 21, 1907, the "subsidy" would be refunded to the Klamath donors. We can well imagine the bitter pangs suffered by the promoters when this "easy money" had to be returned to the community because the railroad builders failed to meet the deadline and did not arrive in Klamath Falls until 1909.

Klamath Falls already had a well known hotel on the shore of Lake Ewauna known as the "Linkville Hotel" which was an aging wooden structure. Under the spell of the railroad hysteria a group of local citizens purchased this building in 1904, changed its name to the "Lakeside Inn" and increased the size of the building by 50 sleeping rooms. Yet in spite of this hotel activity there remained a feeling that the growing community needed a truly modern hotel constructed in the best tradition of the period and in keeping with a growing metropolitan. Thus the idea of the Baldwin Hotel was born, a modern structure of native stone, brick, steel and the finest of Klamath's lumber took shape along the street from the Lakeside Inn.

The citizens of Klamath Falls had been led to believe by the railroad promoters that the terminal of the railroad would be constructed close to the center of the community of that day and make a tie with the steamship traffic of the Klamath River which docked at the mouth of Link River. The railroad promoters did not know that the citizens would pass them by, build their own hotel and seek to make a name for themselves on local level. The Baldwin Hotel had a flash of fame but met its fate by fire in its jerry-built construction. The railroad promoters, though they lost their "bonus" had the last laugh for the growth of Klamath Falls was turned eastward and away from Link River.

So on Nov. 16, 1961, the Klamath Historical Society will seek to turn the clock backward to November, 1906, at the Baldwin Hotel with this open house party and invites everyone in the Klamath community to attend this historical event. Refreshments will be served and the music which will be played during the open house will be that which was popular at the turn of the century. The ladies are invited to wear their centennial gowns to lend color to the occasion. A number of historical exhibits will be displayed on the mezzanine floor, among which will be a collection of photographs and paintings by Matt Baldwin. Other exhibits will be of antique furniture and articles of the 1900 decade. A guided tour of the hotel will show sleeping rooms as they were during the exciting year of 1906. The dining room will be set with an exhibit of rare old china.

No charge will be made for the open house events but a free will offering will be accepted, the money to be collected to be used for the coming Linkville centennial.

Boy Queried About Theft

A 13-year-old Klamath Falls youth was questioned Monday by juvenile officers in connection with the theft of two rings worth $100.

Juvenile officers said the youth admitted stealing the rings Oct. 15 from a house where he was visiting. The woman who was visiting discovered the theft the following day. The rings belonged to her.

Officers said the youth had apparently made attempts to sell the rings at several local jewelry stores. There were conflicting reports as to whether or not he was successful.

The youth was released pending juvenile court disposition.

Youth Arrested With Weapon

Larry Lee Guy, Klamath Falls youth just turned 18, was arrested by city police Monday night on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

Police were driving into town on South Sixth Street after investigating a drunk report. They first spotted Guy in the vicinity of South Sixth Street and Shasta Way and the youth ran. Police gave chase and caught him behind the local roller skating rink.

Police said Guy had been drinking but the youth refused to tell where he got liquor. It was also discovered that Guy had a knife with a five-inch blade concealed on his person. Guy was given his address as 2133 Ogden Street, was held in the city jail.

Susan Moss Group Leader

Susan Moss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Moss, 3840 S. Sumner Lane, Klamath Falls, participated in the Associated Women Students' Community Week as a group leader at Lewis and Clark College in Portland recently.

Her group was one of 11 doing volunteer work at social service agencies in the community.

Is Your Family Worth $30?

For $30 and a little hard work, America's foremost authority on radiation and fallout, the Nobel prize winning scientist, Prof. Willard F. Libby, built himself a personal shelter from fallout.

Do you want to invest that much on behalf of your family and your country?

See Professor Libby's articles on "You Can Survive Atomic Attack," appearing in this newspaper daily, and write for his complete 30-cent booklet on the subject.

Evatt Assault Charge Referred To Grand Jury

An assault with a dangerous weapon charge against James W. Evatt, 35, 806 Oak Street, was referred to the grand jury Tuesday after a district court preliminary hearing.

District Judge Hal F. Coe decided there was enough evidence to bind Evatt over to the grand jury, which is meeting this week to consider a full slate of cases. Evatt, an unemployed ironworker, is charged with assault on a peace officer. He was arrested by police and police said Evatt remained with Schortgen after the shooting and tried to help.

Evatt left the lodge and Schortgen followed a few minutes later, witnesses said. City police said Evatt got a 270 deer rifle from his car and warned Schortgen to consider a full slate of cases. Evatt, an unemployed ironworker, is charged with assault on a peace officer. He was arrested by police and police said Evatt remained with Schortgen after the shooting and tried to help.

School Bus Stops Easy

Many drivers are not taking advantage of Oregon's new school bus stop law which requires them to stop only when red lights at the front and rear of the bus are flashing.

The old law required motorists to stop whenever a bus was stopped to load or unload children. Now the law gives school bus drivers the responsibility of alerting motorists by flashing the red lights whenever they drivers stop for the bus.

The department said the new law allows for a better flow of traffic while still providing for the children's safety.

Tax Court Jobs Taken

Judge Peter M. Gunnar of the newly created Oregon Tax Court announced in Salem recently that the following persons in the Klamath Falls area have accepted appointment to a statewide committee on rules for the small claims division of the court: R. L. Walker, Klamath County judge; O. R. Caldwell, Klamath County assessor; Dale Crabtree, Klamath County district attorney; Walter H. Fleet, Klamath Falls accountant; David E. Card, William Gunnung, Jr., and Glenn D. Ramirez, Klamath Falls attorneys.

Coast Guard Exams Set

Sen. Wayne Morse said recently that the competitive examination for appointments to the U.S. Coast Guard Academy will be held on Feb. 19 and 20, 1962, and that young Oregon men wishing to take it should apply to the Commandant, Coast Guard Headquarters, Washington 25, D.C., before Jan. 10.

Applicants must be high school graduates and must be 17 but not yet 22. Morse urged young Oregonians who may be interested to contact the Coast Guard Commandant promptly.
