

MARKETS and FINANCE

Stocks Wall Street NEW YORK (AP)—Motors and some electronics advanced as the stock market rose on balance early this afternoon. Trading was fairly active. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .60 at 259.10 with industrials up 1.00, rails up .10 and utilities up .20. Gains of fractions to a point or so among pivotal issues outnumbered losers. Some of the electronics showed gains running to 3 points or so. Others took wide losses. Big Three Motors all showed plus signs. November auto assemblies were scheduled at the highest figure in 21 months, barring a Chrysler strike. Selected chemicals, utilities and tobacco helped boost the average higher but the over-all list was only irregularly higher. Coppers were irregularly lower. Coppering materials were off. Oils tended to ease. The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.66 at 705.50. Prices advanced in active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

EMERGENCY KIT — This kit, prepared by members of the local Seventh-day Adventist Church, is equipped with first aid supplies for emergencies and disasters. Here, Kenneth H. McVay, right, church pastor, shows the kit's contents to E. M. (Joe) Searles, county-city civil defense director. Searles has endorsed the emergency kits, which are designed to sell for $10, their wholesale cost. Interested citizens are asked to contact the church on Tuesday.

Church Readies Civil Defense First Aid Kits

An emergency civil defense first aid kit is being made available to interested citizens through the cooperation of the local Seventh-day Adventist Church and the Klamath County Civil Defense Office. Kits have been prepared by the church members as a non-profit public service. They contain items recommended by the federal Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization. "We wanted to do something for civil defense," Kenneth H. McVay, pastor of the church, said Wednesday. "In the event a disaster should strike our area, a family having one of these kits in its possession will be better prepared to meet the crisis." E. M. (Joe) Searles, city-county civil defense director, added a hearty endorsement to the project. He said civil defense first aid kits are not for sale on the open market. "This kit will not take the place of a regular family first aid kit," Searles said. "Rather the purpose is to provide for emergencies and disasters. A kit would be an ideal addition to a family fallout shelter."

'Floating' Zone Plan Set For Log Truckers

SALEM—Public Utility Commissioner Janet C. Hill Wednesday said a system of "floating" zones had been worked out for motor carrier permits which must be issued next year to log truckers when the "certificate of necessity" bill passed by the 1961 legislature goes into effect. Hill and James E. Singleton, director of transportation for the PUC, completed a statewide series of 14 meetings with the log truckers Monday. They explained how the bill would work and polled the operators for ideas of how to cut up the state into practical workable zones that would carry out the intention of the bill's sponsors, to prevent out-of-state truckers from competing with Oregon haulers and to prevent truckers from "gypping" around the state. Hill said the operating area would consist of a county or counties where logs were hauled plus counties contiguous there to both the origin and destination will be taken into consideration. Hill said as an example, if a trucker hauled logs from a point in Lane County to a point in Douglas County he would not only have these two counties as his territory, but those touching these counties as well. These would be Coos, Curry, Jackson, Josephine, Klamath, Benton, Deschutes, Lincoln and Linn counties. If a trucker hauled logs only in Lane County he would only get Lane, Douglas, Lincoln, Benton, Linn, Deschutes and Klamath. Singleton said the department was sending out applications to all 3,000 or more of the operators in the state now known to be hauling or have been hauling logs, poles or piling. He said "only carriers who actually transported logs, poles, or piling in a for-hire basis over public roads within Oregon between Feb. 1, 1960, and Feb. 1, 1961, are eligible to apply for a 'grandfather' permit, but the application must be filed with the commissioner on or before April 1, 1962." "Gyp" loggers on a fall, buck or haul contract, if actually doing the hauling themselves, are also eligible to apply, he pointed out. "Those truckers who operated over public roads during this one-year period are entitled to apply for a 'grandfather' permit even though their permit is or was suspended," he declared, adding, "applications should be filed with the Salem office just as soon as possible after they are received."

Milk Floor Cut 7 Cents In Klamath

The State Department of Agriculture, in an order filed today, reduced the price of class I milk in the Klamath Falls market area by seven cents per hundred pounds, or from $6.16 to $6.09. The new price became effective on Nov. 1, announced Kenneth W. Sawyer, producer milk stabilization administrator. The price is on a four per cent butterfat basis for Grade A and Grade B milk used in the bottle and can trade. Actually, the price producers receive is a lesser amount as their payout is a blend of the state-established class I price and the lower price they receive for fluid milk used as surplus for manufacturing purposes. The order on producer price in this area, which includes also Lake and Harney counties, follows a hearing held at Klamath Falls on Sept. 14. At this hearing, dealers and producers alike, Sawyer says, expressed the view that their main problem arises from California milk coming into the Klamath market at a lower producer price than is paid for Oregon milk. The new price announced from Salem is the same as the California producer price. Sawyer said the department held up decision on the Klamath price in order to confer with California milk officials in the hope of working out some reciprocal agreement for the pricing of milk between the border areas which bear on the Klamath situation. Sawyer and the department's legal counsel, Don Parker, met earlier in October with California officials. They are in the process of working out arrangements which should erase the pricing situation which has been the fly in the ointment of Klamath producers and distributors.

Youth Home Job Starts

Work began this week on the new Klamath County Juvenile Home, which is expected to be completed next summer. Brosterhus Construction Co. of Klamath Falls started digging trenches Tuesday on the 38-acre tract on the hill above Alameda Street between Eberlein Street and Johnson Road. Brosterhus was awarded the contract on a low bid of $144,339. The new home, designed to house 22 youngsters, will also have some office space for the county juvenile department. It will replace the present "temporary" home on Main Street. Originally a hospital, the present juvenile home was supposed to be an interim measure when it was activated eight years ago.

'World Day' To Be Held

Churches of the Lower Klamath Basin will observe World Community Day at the Mt. Laki Community Presbyterian Church Friday, Nov. 3. The all day meeting will open at 10:30 a.m. Women of the Mt. Laki Church will serve the noon luncheon to be followed by a program. Anyone attending who has not yet turned in the packets being prepared for school children of South America is asked to bring them to the meeting. Participating churches will be from Merrill, Malin, Tulelake, Newell, Dorris and Mt. Laki.

Five Injured In Collision

Five transient farm laborers were injured Thursday morning when the truck in which they were riding collided with a car at the intersection of South Sixth Street and Altamont Drive. Taken to Klamath Valley Hospital were Jesus E. Martinez, 42; Arturo Santollo, 38; Harley Garrett; Melton Goff, and George J. Johnson. Ambulance attendants said none of the men appeared to be seriously injured. The accident occurred shortly after 8 a.m. Thursday. No further details were available at press time. State police had not completed their investigation.

Mrs. Krause, Long-Time Klamath Resident, Dies

Mrs. Nancy Merrill Krause, well known Klamath Falls matron, died Wednesday about 7 p.m. at Hillside Hospital following a brief illness. She was the wife of Gus A. Krause, retired president and manager of the former Klamath Lumber and Box Company. She was 78. Mrs. Krause had suffered with a cold for several days and was preparing to leave with Mr. Krause for Pasadena to spend the winter when she became seriously ill. The family home has been for many years at 229 High Street. Mr. and Mrs. Krause spent their winters in California. She was born April 1, 1883, in Beloit, Wis. Mr. Krause, who came to Klamath Falls in 1909 returned to Wisconsin in 1913 when they were married. They returned here immediately where they have since lived. Mrs. Krause was best known for her generous contributions to others through her great interest in horticulture and flower arranging. She introduced the first iris to Klamath Falls before present varieties were developed and in later years was noted for her growing of fine specimens of iris and chrysanthemums which she propagated. She traveled widely with her husband and following a trip around the world she returned to Japan and to Bali where she became interested in the art of flower arranging to study under Japanese masters. Upon her return to this country, she taught many courses and classes in arranging at her home, before library clubs and garden clubs without remuneration. She joined the Klamath Falls Library Club when the present garden club was a branch of the Library Club. She served as president of the Library Club for two terms, was a charter member of Klamath Branch of the American Association of University Women, St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Klamath Falls Garden Club, Women's Auxiliary of Reames Golf and Country Club, City Women's Club and College Garden Club of Pasadena. She was a graduate of Beloit College in Wisconsin. Funeral services will be held Saturday, Nov. 4, from O'Hair's Memorial Chapel. Final rites and interment will be in Klamath Memorial Gardens.
