Moral Code Is Constant No Matter Size Of Town

Ruth Millett
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"I have lived the life of a bachelor girl living in New York City. It has been neither a straight-laced one nor one of abstention. Living alone in a large city away from the town of my birth, and being a young and attractive woman, I have had my own moral code as to my relations with the opposite sex."

The bachelor girl quoted above probably feels her attitude is one of sophisticated worldliness. But actually, it is about as naive a way of thinking as any girl could manage. In the first place, a moral code isn't something you change with a change of address, or a change of social environment, or a change of friends.

A moral code is what keeps you from changing on moral issues—whether the eyes of Mrs. Grundy are on you in a little town, or whether you're on your own in a big city.

In the second place, it is foolish for a girl to assume that big-city morals are different from small-town morals. A girl who isn't "straight" in moral matters (and let's not call it straight-laced, either) is a tramp no matter where she lives, or whether her surroundings are glamorous or shoddy.

Living alone in a big city may make it easier for a girl to kid herself that she is living by her "own moral code," instead of admitting that what she is really doing is living without a moral code.

But she will be judged just as harshly by others in a big city as in a small town.

The world never says of a young woman, "She lives by her own moral code." The words the world uses aren't nearly that pretty. And they are the same words—whether the girl lives in the big city or the small town.

Officer Slate Is Installed

CHILQUIN — Autumn Fantasy was the theme of the recent installation of Barbara Nicholson as worthy adviser of the Chiloquin Assembly of Rainbow for Girls. Bright colored leaves in profusion decorated the walls and stations of the rooms and the same colors were used in the programs and on the refreshment table.

Installing officers for the evening were Cherry Wolff, officer; Judy Stanley, marshal; Janet Hall, chaplain; Jimmy Doak, recorder, and Mrs. Gerald Wolf, musician. Diane Haas was presiding officer for part of the ceremony. The crowning ceremony was conducted by the Lost River Chapter, Order of DeMolay.

Line officers include Donna Kircher, worthy associate adviser; Donna Robinson, charity; Sherry Lough, hope, and Micki Wolf, faith.

Other officers are Kathy Peters and Marjorie Kirkpatrick, recorder and treasurer; Phyllis Bickers, chaplain; Candace Freid, drill leader; Lavene Martin, Karen Zamudio, Sandra Taylor, Elizabeth Shultz, Bobbie Winston, Vicki Sherrier, and Rita Kirkpatrick, color stations; Sharon Zamudio and Cynthia Martinez, observers; Cherry Wolff, musician and Judy Adamo, choir director.

Choir members are Sandra Sortwell, Judy Stanley, Janet Hall, Diane Haas, Jimmy Doak, Valerie Hall, Mary Brattain and Faith Wright.

Following the crowning, a short program was given, refreshments served, and the girls and their guests enjoyed an evening of dancing.

Judy Huffman Past Officers Conduct Meet

Past madam presidents conducted the Oct. 27 meeting of the Eagles Auxiliary which was preceded by a potluck dinner at the Eagles Hall. Those participating were Sarah Kirby, Hildreth Burris, Sadie Wallace, Blanche Slaughter, Betty Kelsdever, Peggy Long, Lola Truax, Lorna Groves and Stella Persell.

Three candidates were initiated during the business session. A 25-year pin was given to Stella Montgomery and a 30-year pin to Lorna Groves. The presentation was made by Peggy Long.

TOURISTS TOOK TRAIN
DURANGO, Colo. (AP) — The nation's only narrow-gauge passenger railroad, running from Durango to Silverton through the Animas River Canyon, had its most successful summer operation in history this past summer.

More than 38,000 persons made the trip, compared with a little more than 37,000 in 1960.

Judy Huffman and Maralee Lyon, outgoing adviser, presented addendas for one another, assisted by Susie Williams, Cathy Kenyon, Lois Owens and Gwen Kirkpatrick.

Other officers installed are Susie Williams, associate worthy adviser; Cathy Kenyon, charity; Lois Owens, hope; Gwen Kirkpatrick, faith; Loudean Lyon, recorder; Linda Reber, treasurer; Peggy Long, chaplain; Maralee Lyon, drill leader; Shirley Zeiders, love; Kristi Ottoman, religion; Darla Micka, nature; Nondis McFall, immortality; Cheryl McCurdy, fidelity; Linda McFall, patriotism; Kathy Brooks, service; Andy Oliver, confidential observer; Connie Whitman, outer observer; Connie Unis, musician.

Members of the advisory board are Barbara Victorin, Mildred and Kenneth Huffman, Virginia Blohm, Frances Kalina, Jean Evans and Pat Ottoman.

Introduced were past mother advisers Emma Wilde, Virginia Blohm and Agnes Schreiner; Frances Kalina, past mother adviser and past worthy matron of Malin OES, and Barbara Victorin, worthy matron of Eastern Star.

The dining room was decorated in the new adviser's colors of pink and white. Tables in the form of a horseshoe held a decorated cake, candles and rainbow centerpiece.

EASY LANGUAGE

HOBART, Okla. (AP)—Six men are translating the Bible into the Kiowa Indian Language.

Kiowa is described as a guttural language.

Mose Poolaw, one of the translators, says it is easy to learn. He says one student learned it in seven days.
