

Morgan Backs Thornton In Governor Campaign

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Federal Power Commissioner Howard Morgan has endorsed Atty. Gen. Robert Y. Thornton's candidacy for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in Oregon.

Morgan said his own entrance in the race would only create problems for Thornton and give State Sen. Walter J. Pearson of Portland a chance to win the nomination.

Car, Body Discovered In River

CHEHALIS, Wash. (AP) — A car containing a body believed to be that of a missing East Wenatchee woman was found in the Cowlitz River near the community of Riffe Thursday.

The body was jammed under one of the car seats. Officers said relatives believed it was that of Miss Marian DeBoer, 47.

Divers identified the car by its license plates. Relatives said the color of the clothing, reported by the divers, was the same as the clothing Miss DeBoer wore when she and Mrs. Lea Sowers, 48, left last Friday to drive to Longview.

Darkness prevented recovery of the body and a check to see if the body of Mrs. Sowers also was in the submerged wreck.

The vehicle plunged from State Highway 5 off a wall or rock and down about 40 feet into the river. The top was visible under about five feet of water.

The car went off the inside of a sharp curve which led onto a bridge across the Cowlitz three miles east of Riffe. The vehicle hit about 50 feet from the face of the cliff, faced upstream. The windshield was broken.

Relatives and friends of the two women found the car. In the group were Mrs. Sowers' husband, Robert, and Miss DeBoer, brother of Miss DeBoer.

Fresh Groceryman Needs Comedown

By ANN LANDERS
Dear Ann Landers: I'm a young matron, 27, with a fine husband and two small children. I shop at a neighborhood supermarket and the store is a great convenience, so please don't tell me to shop elsewhere.

A young fellow who works at the market (I'd guess him to be about 19) is overly friendly.

Whenever I come in he drops everything to give me "personal attention." He once offered, half jokingly, to deliver my groceries during his lunch hour if I'd fix him a sandwich.

Yesterday he came up behind me and put his hands around my waist. I was so shocked I didn't know what to say.

I don't want to report him because he may lose his job. What can I do?—MRS. DON'T KNOW

Dear Mrs.: This fresh punk should be put in his place and don't hesitate for one minute to do it. The next time he puts his hands on you let him have it right in the corn-meal mush department.

Make it clear if he doesn't stay over on his own side of the cash-register you'll report him to the manager. Then do it.

Dear Ann Landers: Next month our son is getting engaged to a nice girl. We've never met her parents, which is embarrassing because people are asking us questions about them and we don't know what to say.

Last week I asked Natalie to tell her folks we'd like to have them to dinner soon. The next evening she told me her folks would love to meet us but a dinner isn't necessary. They want to drop over just for a visit "at our convenience."

I am burned up about this. I think they want to look us over first and then decide if we're good enough to eat with.

What is your opinion of all this? And please tell me what is the proper next step.—INSULTED

Dear Insulted: Some invented a terrific gadget. It is called a telephone. Pick one up and call your son's future mother-in-law and introduce yourself. You should have done this when he told you he was going to marry the girl.

It's proper for the parents of the boy to contact the girl's parents and issue a get-together invitation if they have never met.

And please take that chip off your shoulder, Madame, it's always the sign of wood—higher up.

Dear Ann Landers: I work for a trucking outfit and was recently transferred to this city. I'm no prude and I've been around some pretty tough guys all my life, but the language I hear on this job is pretty hard to take.

One guy in particular tells one rotten joke after another. Sometimes the girls from the office come out to check on a load number and I'm scared they'll hear some of this filthy talk.

I've made it plain where I stand but it doesn't do any good. Quitting is out of the question. I have too much seniority. What do you suggest?—L.A.D.

Dear L.A.D.: Whistle while you work and pretend to be stone deaf. Your irritation probably encourages them.

To learn the booby-traps of teenage drinking, write for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teenage Drinking," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Williamson Acquitted In Armed Robbery Case

Six men and six women deliberated only 20 minutes Thursday afternoon before acquitting Johnnie Lee Williamson, 18-year-old Klamath Falls youth, of the charge of armed robbery.

The fast verdict ended a four-day trial in the circuit courtroom of Judge David R. Vandenberg. Jury foreman William F. McKibbin of Klamath Falls handed the unanimous verdict to the judge.

After Judge Vandenberg read the "not guilty" decision, Williamson pulled a gun on Mrs. Lorelei Haynes, clerk at the Falcon Heights Store, 3204 Midland Road, the night of Aug. 29 and stealing about $55 at gunpoint.

Williamson was first arrested on Aug. 31 and charged with carrying an unlicensed concealed weapon. State police had checked his car on the Hill Road near the Flagg Ranch and had found a pistol hidden under the dashboard. Williamson pleaded guilty to that charge and was sentenced on Sept. 1 to pay a $50 fine and spend 15 days in jail.

The armed robbery charge was filed against the youth after Mrs. Haynes picked Williamson out of a lineup at the state police office on Aug. 31. Williamson's attorney objected strongly to police tactics in conducting the lineup and alleged that the youth was not advised of his rights and was placed in the lineup despite his refusal. Evidence that Mrs. Haynes made positive identification of Williamson by sight and by voice was admitted after a day-long courtroom battle.

Williamson's defense was that he couldn't have committed the robbery because he was in Lucky Lanes Bowling Alley from 7 p.m. (PST) on Aug. 29 until at least 10 p.m. Mrs. Haynes had said the robbery occurred between 8 and 8:20 p.m. (PST).

Don Hamilton, John Grems, Pete LaPiere and Kenneth Blair, all friends of Williamson, testified that the accused youth was at the bowling alley. Mrs. Veda Samples, bowling alley employee, and Mrs. Georgia Hamilton, Tulelake, testified that Williamson was at the bowling alley. Williamson's mother also took the witness stand in her son's behalf. She said he didn't own clothes of the description that the alleged robber had been wearing. Mrs. Haynes had said the robber's hair was short and Mrs. Williamson said her son had his hair long on Aug. 29.

In addition to foreman McKibbin, other jurors included Wilma Wiley, Patricia L. Larson, Verne E. Phillips, Dorothy L. Teater, Blanche R. Franklin, Louis Spence, Gladys J. Bridges, Willard F. Nelson and Sylvester Unruh, all of Klamath Falls, and Doris A. Butts, Dairy, and Franklin Womack, Bly.

Funeral services for S. V. (Pickett) Pickett, who died in the Portland Veterans Hospital, will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 4, from the Larkin Mortuary in Ogden, Utah. Final rites and interment will be in the Veterans Plot in Ogden City Cemetery.

Mrs. Pickett, well-known in Klamath Falls and a resident for many years, is survived by a son, William Pickett, Salem; daughters, Mrs. Margaret Burnside, Costa Mesa, Calif.; Mrs. Beverly Sevin, Orange, Calif.; mother, Mrs. Margaret Pickett, several brothers and sisters in Ogden, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Guy, 2133 Ogden Street, was carrying a knife with a five-inch blade when he was stopped for questioning Monday night by city police officers. He was said Guy, who just turned 18, had an extensive juvenile crime record.

Judge Coe ordered the youth to obey all laws and make regular reports to the State Department of Parole and Probation. Guy was also told to stop drinking and to either get a job or go to school.

OTI Alumni Come Home

Homecoming begins Friday for an expected record turnout of Oregon Technical Institute alumni.

During the rally, upperclassmen will tangle with lowerclassmen in a tug of war and cheerleaders will do their stuff for the crowd.

Immediately after the rally, an alumni committee will begin judging of living-group decorations; result of the judging will be announced at intermission of the rally dance which is slated to begin at 9 p.m. Music for the Friday evening dance will be by the Dennis Coffee Combo, admission by Homecoming Button.

Saturday's Homecoming schedule: Alumni registration 8 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. at Alumni Headquarters, the Winema Hotel.

Noise Parade, 11 a.m., east on Main Street to Modoc Field.

Football game, OTI vs. Oregon College, 2 p.m. Homecoming queen crowned at halftime.

Alumni business meeting, 6:30 p.m., Winema Hotel; free buffet and social hour following.

Homecoming Ball, for alumni and students, 8 p.m. to 12 midnight in the Oregon Tech gymnasium, $1.50 per couple, $1 stag.

Larry Lee Guy, 18-year-old Klamath Falls youth, was placed on 13 months probation Thursday morning by District Judge Hal F. Coe after the youth pleaded guilty to a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

Guy, 2133 Ogden Street, was carrying a knife with a five-inch blade when he was stopped for questioning Monday night by city police officers. He was said Guy, who just turned 18, had an extensive juvenile crime record.

'Lineup' Reversed

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Frederick Taylor, 22, was being questioned about another case when he told detectives he had robbed a city bus driver of $34 in September.

But bus driver Norman W. Runyon, who had complained of a holdup, failed to identify Taylor in a lineup. Police then arranged a lineup of bus drivers and Taylor promptly picked Runyon as his victim.

Williamson was first arrested on Aug. 31 and charged with carrying an unlicensed concealed weapon. State police had checked his car on the Hill Road near the Flagg Ranch and had found a pistol hidden under the dashboard. Williamson pleaded guilty to that charge and was sentenced on Sept. 1 to pay a $50 fine and spend 15 days in jail.

Oregon's Weatherman Expands Farm Service

PORTLAND (AP) — Oregon's weather forecasting service is being expanded to meet farmers' seasonal requirements for weather information.

Lynn Means of the Weather Bureau's Washington headquarters outlined plans Thursday to add two forecasters and a teletype operator to the Portland office; assign a meteorologist to the Oregon State University experiment station; set up a statewide teletype network to carry 24-hour forecasts to every mass media outlet that requests them; and collect daily reports from 30 to 40 new stations. The government will pay the wire cost, he said.

Means told a luncheon meeting that the expanded service, to cost about $140,000 a year, may be in operation March 1. Oregon is one of only eight areas where the service is to be offered, he said.

Col. Eckley S. Ellison, in charge of the Portland office, said the program would provide services such as warnings to potato areas when humidity reaches a level at which potato blight spreads rapidly. This would be in addition to local frost, wind, rain and snow advisories.

Ellison said satellites are expected to be helpful in the new farm forecasting service.

Instructors from city police departments and the Federal Bureau of Investigation will present courses ranging from public relations to arrest procedures. FBI agents will instruct classes in laws of evidence, identification and preservation of evidence and crime scene investigation.

Final examinations will be given and certificates will be awarded to graduates. The Oregon State Sheriff's Association is co-sponsoring the course. Other cooperating agencies are the FBI, Oregon State Police, Bureau of Municipal Research and Service of the University of Oregon and the League of Oregon Cities.

Rail Worker Sentenced

Cecil A. Low Jr., 29-year-old Klamath Falls railroad worker, was placed on probation for six months when he was sentenced Thursday morning for assault and battery.

Low was convicted of the crime last week after a district court jury trial. He had been accused of punching Charlie Schuss, owner of the Chuck Wagon, 630 Main Street, in the mouth on the night of Sept. 15. Eight stitches were required to close a cut on Schuss' mouth.

District Judge Hal F. Coe said the sentence was relatively light because Low had no prior criminal record, had never been in trouble and has a steady job and a family to support.

Korean Orphans Start U.S. Tour

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — They shun beds and don't like candy. They're bright-eyed, immaculately scrubbed and behave themselves. They sing with the voices of angels.

They're orphans, here to win your hearts.

Six little boys and 26 girls, all between the ages of 8 and 12, are here from South Korea on a 40-city good-will tour of the United States and Canada.

The children are members of the World Vision Korean Orphan Choir. They represent 13,000 orphans in South Korea and sing songs of gratitude and love.

Wide eyes grow wider as the youngsters travel America by bus, happily fulfilling a twin mission.

Thanking Americans and Canadians who have contributed to 151 Korean institutions, and hoping for contributions to help construction of a 200-bed children's hospital near Seoul where free medical care will be given any orphan or needy child.

Traveling with them are a nurse, dietician, tutor, and American and Korean chaperones.

The youngsters are all dressed alike—the girls in coral brocade, the boys in forest green eton suits.

When their chaperones let them they run and romp and wrestle like youngsters everywhere.

But when their tutor claps her hands—silence and attention, absolute and a little awesome.

The aversion to candy and beds is reasonable. The children simply aren't familiar with such luxuries. For a treat, they enjoy pickled vegetables. For sleeping, each has brought his own sleeping bag.

They sing hymns and folk songs in four languages—Korean, English, German and Latin, and they sing with a zest that shows they love it.

The whole trip is a wonder and delight to these kids but they're looking forward to two appearances with special anticipation—the United Nations in New York, and the White House, where they will sing for
