Wall Street

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks closed with a fairly sharp gain today.

Stocks outside of the averages fared the best. Bowlings, Drugs, electronics and stores scored sharply, but motor, steel and chemical shares saw many of their earlier gains halved and in some instances converted into losses.

Financial Federation gained 8 on top of 9 points Thursday. Korvette jumped more than 4 in the stores, Aldens rose more than 3, Xerox around 4, U.S. Gypsum more than 2, Polaroid around 3, National Cash more than 4 and Barber Oil around 2.

Western Pacific President Warns Merger Hearing Of Troubles Ahead

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Fred B. Whitman, president of Western Pacific, warned Thursday that the railroad will face trouble if the Interstate Commerce Commission decides that it must remain independent.

He testified at ICC hearings on the struggle between Southern Pacific and Santa Fe for control of the smaller line.

"Some other railroad will attempt to control Western Pacific if we come out of this case independent," Whitman said, adding that SP might try again.

"They don't quit until they reach their objective," he said. "There isn't any way the ICC can build a fence around us."

Whitman, who favors Santa Fe's petition for control, said he was not sure Santa Fe would be "with us on the next round."

He said that during the present dispute, Western Pacific has had a real problem keeping up morale among its employees.

"You can imagine our trouble recruiting young men," the president said. "We have a problem keeping fully competitive with a cloud hanging over us."

Whitman denied charges by Southern Pacific that WP officials were influenced in their support of Santa Fe by possible profits from a stock option plan.

He agreed that WP officials would make personal profits from the Santa Fe proposals—but that stockholders would make healthy gains.

Whitman insisted the Western Pacific backed Santa Fe because a Southern Pacific victory would mean "there wouldn't be any Western Pacific."

Both SP and Santa Fe have promised to operate WP independently.

STALLS — The Klamath County United Fund drive was apparently stalled today, with less than one percent of the goal of $135,309 collected in the past week. The campaign will continue on through next week, UF officials said.

Civil Service Accents Positive, Says Director

SALEM (AP) — Oregon's Civil Service Commission accents the positive, getting the good man into government, instead of the negative, keeping out the rascal, director Melvin Cleveland says.

Cleveland said this is because Oregon's civil service law—and he says it's a good one—was born in surroundings of good, clean government and not scandal.

The Oregon State Employees Association, aiming at career principles, and the League of Women Voters pressed for it, Cleveland said. It was passed in 1945.

He said the law is better than most because it did not result from political pulling and tugging.

Oregon's law, he said, was based on a model law drafted by the National Civil Service League, a nonprofit citizens action group.

The law specifically says that a state employee shall not be dismissed on grounds of politics, race, religion or solely because of age.

A dismissed employee, under the law, can appeal to the commission, which can order the person to be put back to work if the firing was illegal.

A recent study showed that from 1954 through 1961 there were 1,279 employees dismissed and 39 appeals to the commission.

The civil service law is silent on whether a commission ruling can be appealed to the courts. Nobody ever has challenged a commission ruling in the courts.

Oregon has three civil service commissioners with overlapping three-year terms. Members are chairman Philip A. Joss, Portland; V. B. Kenworthy, The Dalles; and Harris Ellsworth, Roseburg.

Civil service commissioners, as a matter of principle, do not offer resignations when a new governor is elected as members of some other commissions do.

Twenty-seven states now have civil service laws, but Cleveland said of the Oregon law: "It is as intensive and extensive as any except Colorado, which is more complete with even department heads mostly under civil service."

Oregon's civil service director is the only agency head classified under civil service. The post is filled by the commission through a competitive examination.

Pair Taken As Vagrants

A young Klamath Falls man and an 18-year-old housewife were arrested for vagrancy by city police Wednesday night after police saw their car parked in some weeds near the Pelican Marina on Front Street.

Charged with vagrancy were Ruben O. Tena, 20, of 1919 Wantland Street, and Mrs. Patricia G. Nolen, 18, of 2129 Oak Street. Tena pleaded not guilty Thursday morning in municipal court while Mrs. Nolen asked for time to consult an attorney.

Police checked out the young couple's car after they saw it parked in the weeds. They found a pool cue on the floor which had been saved off to form a club. Tena said he was going to use the club as a weapon "if other cars stopped," according to police. Mrs. Nolen, who was wearing shorts, said she had just returned from California three days ago.

Man Trapped By Lumber

A young Weyerhaeuser employee suffered a fractured pelvis Wednesday night when he was trapped between some lumber that was being moved and a wall.

Severt Hudson, 19, 1222 Adams Street, was taken to Klamath Valley Hospital, where his condition was reported as "satisfactory" Thursday morning.

Ambulance attendants said they got the call at 8 p.m. Wednesday. No further details of the accident were available Thursday morning as Bob Elliott, Weyerhaeuser safety engineer, and other company officials were in a meeting.

Kennedy Wows Jersey Demos By GOP Needle

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — President Kennedy wowed New Jersey Democrats Thursday night with a Republican-needling stump speech aimed at helping underdog Richard J. Hughes in the state's race for governor.

Kennedy obviously enjoyed a two-hour respite from the burdens of the presidency as he put on the cap of party political leadership in an outdoor speech in the brisk November air to a rally of about 10,000 of the party faithful. This fell far short of the 50,000 through that Hughes' supporters had hoped to assemble.

The President flew to Trenton from New York City, where he gave a boost to Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner in the latter's race for reelection. Kennedy flew back to Washington after a brief reception with New Jersey Democratic leaders and a 10-minute speech for Hughes.

Kennedy's endorsement of Wagner in New York was:

"I want to take this opportunity to state with the utmost conviction my wholehearted support for the reelection of Mayor Robert F. Wagner. His experience in coping with the problems of this great city cannot be matched."

The endorsement was in a statement in the President's name, issued as his plane touched down at La Guardia Field.

The President's motorcade was deliberately routed through such important political areas as Harlem and the upper West Side of Manhattan as thousands watched from sidewalks.

Wagner — handicapped by a Democratic party split his fight for a third four-year term — denied that Kennedy's visit to the city five days before election day was a political rescue mission.

Wagner's Republican opponent, State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz, said Wagner "pushed the panic button" in getting Kennedy to go to New York to boost a sagging Democratic campaign.

In Trenton, Kennedy was in old campaign form as he told the cheering crowd that Hughes, opposed by Republican James P. Mitchell, had had "a long and uphill campaign." Mitchell generally is credited with leading in a contest that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower has said will have a direct bearing on Republican comeback efforts in Congress next year.

With a note of sarcasm in his voice, the bare-headed President, wearing a business suit and no topcoat, told the chilled crowd that Hughes had been downgraded too much.

"He has been written off on more front pages of more papers supporting other candidates than any candidate I know, with the possible exception of myself about 18 months ago," Kennedy said.

SATURDAY CONCERT — Leon Fleisher, youthful pianist who has already given concerts around the globe, will open the Klamath Community Concert Association 1961-1962 season at 8 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 4, in Mills Auditorium.

Concert Program Shows Fleisher's Piano Ability

Saturday night's scheduled repertoire for the Klamath Community Concert Association will provide plenty of opportunities for Leon Fleisher's keyboard ability and interpretation.

Ludwig van Beethoven comes to the front for the second number, with Fleisher playing Sonata, Opus 79, a short, intimate sonata with a chamber music feeling.

Fleisher, who has been praised by critics for his "artistry in skill and interpretation," will then move on to the sublime music of Franz Liszt's Sonata in B minor.

Second half of the program will open with Isaac Albeniz music from the composer's fascination with Spanish folk music. Scheduled for the closing will be the Maurice Ravel's waltz, "Valses nobles et sentimentales" and the Spanish provincial influenced "Albarrada del Gracioso."

Admission to the concert will be by season membership only. Since there are no reserved seats, doors will be opened at 7:15 p.m. An attendant will be on duty in the Mills parking lot.

For the 8 p.m. performance at Mills Auditorium, young Fleisher will open with Bach's "Jesu, Joy of Man's Esiring," a chorale arranged for piano by Myra Hess, pre-eminent London pianist and arranger. This particular chorale is one of Bach's very early numbers expressing religious aspiration.

U.S. Dist. Judge William B. Herlands told Soblen, who has been sentenced to life imprisonment, that a new trial is not required on the asserted grounds of newly discovered evidence.

Soblen, 61, suffering from cancer, rested his head on his hands as Herlands read the decision. Soblen has been free in $100,000 bail. Medical authorities said he has no more than a year to live.

Soblen contended the government should have produced at the original trial a West German identified as Dr. Hans Hirschfeld, who worked for the Office of Strategic Services during World War II.

A government witness had testified at the trial that Hirschfeld had supplied Soblen with classified material.

Soviet Spy Loses Plea

NEW YORK (AP) — Convicted Soviet spy Dr. Robert A. Soblen, today lost a bid for a new trial.

U.S. Dist. Judge William B. Herlands told Soblen, who has been sentenced to life imprisonment, that a new trial is not required on the asserted grounds of newly discovered evidence.

Soblen, 61, suffering from cancer, rested his head on his hands as Herlands read the decision. Soblen has been free in $100,000 bail. Medical authorities said he has no more than a year to live.

Woman Tells Of Attack

A 23-year-old Klamath Falls woman arrested early Wednesday morning for being drunk in public told police she had been attacked by two men.

Julia Ann Pruitt, 23, of 210 East Main Street, was arrested after she ran in Fluhrer's Holsum Bakery, 419 Broad Street, at 4 a.m. Wednesday. Police said she was in a disheveled condition and was hysterical.

Miss Pruitt told police that she had been grabbed by two men as she walked past the Greyhound Bus Depot, 1200 Klamath Avenue. She said she was pulled into a nearby house and forced to commit an unnatural sex act. Police said Miss Pruitt was "very drunk" and said they would continue their investigation later in the day.

Donald M. Barkley Jr., 18-year-old Klamath Falls youth, a frequent companion of Miss Pruitt's, was also arrested early Wednesday morning. He was booked on charges of drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Police said Barkley was fighting on Main Street between Sixth and Seventh streets with Harvey LeFever, Route 2, Box 558.

Miss Pruitt pleaded not guilty Wednesday morning in municipal court while Barkley asked for additional time to consult an attorney.

Housewife Held On Check Count

Mrs. Mary Ann Frost, 28-year-old Midland housewife, was arrested by state police Wednesday on a warrant charging her with obtaining money and property by false pretenses.

Mrs. Frost is accused of passing a worthless $10 check on Oct. 12 to Mary Ward of the Anita Shops, 707 Main Street. The district attorney's office said Mrs. Frost is under suspicion for some other bad checks. Mrs. Frost is the mother of four small children.

Police Search For 'Exposer'

Police searched for a shabbily dressed man Wednesday afternoon after the man exposed himself to a 17-year-old girl who was walking home from school.

The girl told police she was walking on Main Street near Spring Street when she saw a man walking toward her with a newspaper in front of him. He suddenly removed the paper, the girl said, and exposed himself.

The man was described as being between 30 and 35 years old, about 5 feet 9 inches tall and weighing 160 pounds. He was wearing "Levi" pants and jacket and had a scratch on the right side of his nose.

Police searched for the man without success.

Trial Dates Set On Indian's Trusteeship

Trial dates have been set starting Nov. 28 in federal court in Portland for four members of the Klamath Indian Tribe who are protesting determination of the secretary of the interior that they are incompetent and in need of a trustee under the Klamath Termination Proclamation.

The four who were among 80 Klamaths originally placed under the guardianship of F. Darold Windsor in Multnomah County Probate Court, are Pauline Norwest, Calvin Barney, Nettie Cross and Marcia Lee Tobey.

Withdrawing tribal members have already received more than $40,000 each as their share of the assets of the Klamath Reservation, terminated under government order.

The remaining members who elected to receive their shares over an indefinite period, have received payments from trustee banks.

Some guardianships had previously been set up under Oregon banks to protect the welfare of some Indians declared to be incompetent, spendthrifts or minors.

Some of the remaining 80, however have since been declared competent by the Multnomah County Probate Court.

Defending the secretary of the interior's determination that the Indians were in need of assistance will be Acting U.S. Attorney Sidney I. Lezak and Assistant U.S. Attorney Victor E. Harr.

Krause Rite Set Nov. 4
