

JERRY SOTOLA

Armour Man Speaks Here

Jerry Sotola, associate director of Armour's Livestock Bureau, has a wide and intensive background of livestock research.

He will speak Saturday night, Nov. 11, at a ranch buffet supper in the Winema Hotel sponsored by the Klamath County Farm Bureau. Dinner will be served at 7 p.m.

Purpose of the dinner and wool style show to follow is to promote and encourage consumption of Klamath County products, pork, beef, lamb, potatoes and milk.

From 1919 to 1943, Sotola was professor of animal husbandry at Washington State College where he was in charge of research and teaching courses in animal nutrition, livestock feeding and meats. He taught students in agriculture, home economics and veterinary science.

He has served as secretary of the Washington Cattlemen's Association, as president of the western section of the American Society of Animal Production and as a director of research for a large feed company in Los Angeles.

Sotola has written numerous bulletins and scientific articles dealing with livestock feeding and nutrition research. He has a nationwide acquaintance with livestock men and is familiar with problems of livestock production.

The public is invited to the dinner. Tickets will be sold at the door.

Radioactivity Count Drops

PORTLAND (AP)—The radiation count in Portland — after climbing for two straight days — dropped off Saturday.

The state Board of Health said its reading was 9.6.

Friday it was 15.9, and on Thursday the count was 8.2 micro-microcuries.

The counts have fluctuated considerably since the Russian nuclear tests began.
