'Nice' Bid When Made

By OSWALD JACOBY
 Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
 North's club opening was one of those third hand bids designed to show partner what to lead against an anticipated enemy contract.

South's one heart response was normal and when the bidding got back to North he decided to make another bid. Not that North expected to get to game, but he was afraid of the spade suit and felt certain that if he passed East would be able to back into the bidding.

South could not tell that his partner was defending against the East and West passes and, with 10 points including two aces, South jumped to game.

There is a moral to this story. The moral is that nothing succeeds like success. West opened a trump although he could have opened any card in his hand for South picked up East's king of trumps, drew the rest of the trumps and led the jack of clubs. West played low and South finessed. Another club led to the ten established dummy's last three clubs. South discarded two diamonds and a spade on them and conceded two spade tricks to make five odd.

"Pretty nice bidding wasn't it?" remarked North.

"It sure was, this time," replied South, "but let's not try it again."

Spoon-Fed Girl Sets Eyes On Peace Corps

By ANN LANDERS
 Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter will be graduating from college in February. She wrote us today that she wants to join the Peace Corps.

This comes as quite a shock to us. Brenda was never very athletic and certainly not the outdoor type. From what we hear about the Peace Corps' rigorous demands, it's no place for a girl who gets her hair set and her nails manicured every week.

My husband is quite upset over this. He says it serves us right for sending Brenda to that far-out college. He thinks "saving the world" should be left to the professionals and not to a bunch of young kids.

Frankly, I know very little about the Peace Corps so I am not saying anything either way. What do you think of it for a young girl who has been raised with a silver spoon?—Mrs. R.

Dear Mrs. R.: The Peace Corps is marvelous regardless of what kind of silverware the girl was born with.

Be proud of your daughter—even if she doesn't make the grade. It takes courage to trade a plush-lined existence for two years of missionary-type sacrifice.

The rewards are enormous for those who have the physical stamina and the dedication to undertake to serve in the Peace Corps. The satisfactions which come from giving of one's self and teaching the underprivileged cannot be measured. No person who has made the contribution can help but emerge fulfilled, more mature and vastly better for the experience.

Dear Ann Landers: Since your column embraces not only your own ideas but those of your readers I would like to offer a suggestion which might be useful.

I was once a shy violet who felt an obligation to answer every question put to me. I have since learned that the person who has the poor taste or the pure gall to ask questions which are clearly none of his business ought to be put in his place.

When a neighbor asks, "When are you going to have another baby?"—or "How much did your living room carpeting cost?" I stop her dead in her tracks with a one word question of my own: "Why?"

It works like a charm and never fails to squelch the nosiest and the noisiest. Try it.—THE NEW ME

Dear New You: Thanks in behalf of the meek. Although the Bible says they shall inherit the earth, it's nice to have a little protection until the inheritance comes through.

Dear Ann Landers: Last year my daughter had a child out of wedlock. I begged her to give the baby up for adoption but she said she would never forgive herself if she did such a thing.

When she came home with the

No Peace Signs Seen In NY Newspaper Strike

By BOWEN NORTH
 NEW YORK (UPI)—Negotiations in the month-old newspaper strike were in indefinite recess today with no sign of a break in the dispute that has shut down the city's nine major dailies.

After a fruitless 90-minute negotiating session Thursday, the Publishers Association of New York City asked federal mediators for an indefinite recess in parleys with striking printers.

Amory Bradford, chief negotiator for the publishers, said "further meetings (would) only raise false hopes" on the part of workers in the industry.

A spokesman for Local 6 of the International Typographers Union said, "the publishers made it clear that they do not desire to meet with the mediators and us until further notice," or until the

The ITU bulletin of Sept. 9, 1962, was excerpted as follows: "Short strikes have not materially changed the publishers' position... the union's members should be prepared for the possibility of a long struggle."

On Wednesday the publishers said the union "appears determined to make this strike a test of strength between itself and the newspapers of this city," and affirmed their "unanimous" determination to resist the "impossible" demands of the ITU.

The last reported offer made by the publishers was (for a package of $9.20 per man per week over a two-year period; the printers have asked a package of $38 per man per week for the same period.

The strike shut down the New York Times, Daily News, Herald Tribune, World Telegram, Journal-American, Post, Mirror, the Long Island Press and Long Island Star Journal. The nine newspapers have a combined daily circulation of 5.7 million. An estimated 20,000 workers have been idled as a result of the strike.

DIAMONDS ... A SAFE INVESTMENT

The fact that a much larger fortune in gems can be carried than in gold, and that in unexpected times of need they can be converted into the necessities of life, make diamonds as a liquid asset extraordinarily desirable. Diamonds pay important dividends in the pride and pleasure brought to their owners; if cared for, they do not deteriorate in general and do not fluctuate in value.

Rifle Study Completed

Another group of Klamath Falls youths completed the Klamath Falls Police Junior Rifle Course in hunter safety and basic marksmanship.

Safety certificates and marksmanship medals were presented to 100 boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 15. Classes will begin again on Jan. 13 for all youths between 10 and 15 who don't have hunter safety certificates.

All who wish to take the course should come to the police shooting range, 310 S. 4th Street, at 3:30 p.m. Jan. 10 to sign up. Each boy or girl must be accompanied by one of their parents.

Sign-up will be on a first come basis until all the classes are filled. The classes will be held Monday through Thursday for an eight week period. Each individual class will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. one night a week.

Rides Parade

A former Klamath Falls businessman, Keith Moon and his wife Patricia, Santa Barbara, rode New Year's Day in the Rose Festival Parade in Pasadena on Palomino horses. Both were attired in elaborate Spanish costumes.

Moon, longtime owner of the Town Shop here, frequently rode in local parades. He now resides with the Vaqueros of California.

The family home was on the Merrill Highway near Henley.

Klamath Basin FAMILIES ARE BUILDING SAVINGS AND SECURITY

Our substantial earnings paid savers twice-yearly help build their security safely... surely... rapidly. As funds are accumulated for future goals, they are also providing a ready cushion of cash for their families, assuring them of funds if an emergency arises.

While these proud savers are building a savings nestegg, still other families are moving into homes of their own... thanks to personally planned home financing from our association. As these new home owners progress steadily toward debt-free ownership, they too are building a wonderful form of security for their families.

To help families in this area build a better future for themselves through savings and home ownership... is the sole function of our specialized financial institution. Let us help you build your family's security this year!
