Ex-Father Bemoans Children's Fish-eye

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: After 23 years of marriage I had to admit my wife was a bore. She was a fine mother, excellent housekeeper and cook, but plain dull.

I met a younger woman who was exciting, attractive, informed and made me feel alive. When I asked my wife for a divorce she took it like a lady and we parted friends.

Now that I have remarried the real problem is my children. They are 17, 19 and 22 years of age—old enough to understand that a man commits no crime when he terminates a sterile relationship in favor of a stimulating one.

At least my ex-wife is polite and civil to me in public but my children treat me as if I were a stranger. This is extremely humiliating. Everyone in town is aware that my children flee from me as if I had some loathsome disease. I'd like your opinion.—TEXAS DAD

Dear Dad: I guess everything comes bigger in Texas—even the heels.

Some letters require reading between the lines but your sordid story comes through loud and clear.

Your children resent bitterly what you did to their mother and they are letting you know it. Go cry on somebody else's shoulder, Tex. I'm too busy for the likes of you.

Dear Ann Landers: Last evening I became involved in a discussion with a man I've been dating for several months.

I told him something about a mutual friend in the strictest of confidence. He was astonished and exclaimed, "I can't believe it." I repeated the story and again he insisted it could not be true. Finally he said, "Go get the family Bible and swear on it." I considered this insulting and refused. He snorted, "Well, that proves your story is a lie."

I was furious and asked him to leave. This morning he telephoned but refused to apologize. He contends that a person who tells the truth would have no hesitancy about taking an oath on the Bible. How do you feel?—CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTOR

Dear Objector: I feel fine, thank you, and I hope you do, too. This kind of an oath-taking demand is a naked attack on your integrity.

The world's biggest liars are forever swearing on their mothers' graves, their children's lives and whatever they feel will be convincing. A person of good character doesn't swear on anything.

Dear Ann Landers: Our first child, a little girl, was born two weeks ago. She has a dark red birthmark on her back about the size of a half dollar.

An aunt told my wife the baby was marked in this way because my wife stole apples from the neighbor's tree when she was a little girl.

My wife is not an ignorant person, Ann, she is intelligent, but she actually believes this wild story. She says she remembers the incident vividly and that it was probably the most shameful thing she ever did in her life.

Will you please print this in the column with a comment?—LARCHMONT

Dear Larchmont: Does that witch doctor aunt have a license to practice? Please tell your wife that birthmarks appear for no reason that medical science has been able to figure out.

Confidential to Needing Advice: I can't help anyone who says, "Please don't advise me to do this and so because I can't," and then lists the three most sensible courses of action.

If alcohol is robbing you of someone you love of health and dignity, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 29 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Careful Bids Show Hearts

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The bidding in the box is exactly what would take place in the ordinary American bridge game.

South would open with a game forcing two spade bid and eventually wind up at four hearts. If the opponents cashed their ace right away they would get them, but if West continued clubs after the first trick South could set up his spades, discard both of dummy's diamonds and make a slam.

This also is what took place when Bobby Nail and my son, Jim, held the hand. Bobby opened with an ACOL two spade bid which is merely a one round force. Jim responded two no trump to show a bust. After Bobby rebid to three hearts Jim was able to raise to four with full confidence that game would be made.

The hand is shown in the column because while the average American player would open the South hand with a game forcing two spade bid the average American expert would open with one spade only and wind up playing one spade and making three odd.

You see, the South hand is an ACOL two bid. It is not a standard American two bid and the American experts lean backwards not to open doubtful two bids. In fact they lean backwards so far that they are likely to topple over as they would with this hand.

Q—The bidding has been: South West North East
1 A Pass 1 N.T. Pass
2 Pass 2 N.T. Pass

ANSWER: South holds:
A Q T 8 7 6 4 3 A K J 5 2
What do you do?
A—Bid three no-trump. Your partner has a good hand, but there should not be any play for a slam.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Instead of bidding two no-trump your partner bids three clubs over your one heart. What do you do now?

Receives Commendation Medal

— Col. Edwin J. Witznburger, commanding officer of Kingsley Field, pins the U.S. Air Force Commendation Medal on the lapel of Lt. Col. Lucius Theus during a brief ceremony at the air field. Colonel Theus was cited for his service as Chief of the Management Analysis Office during his last tour of duty at the Spokane Air Defense Sector, Larson Air Force Base, Wash. The medal winner was recently assigned to Kingsley Field as comptroller.

Lakeview Couple Tells Of Afghanistan Life

LAKEVIEW — Tom Crawford, former manager of the Lakeview Water Users, and his wife, Beulah, are now located in Afghanistan where he is an adviser to the people on irrigation techniques and methods, under a U.S. Government program. A recent letter to friends, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Hill of the Westside, is full of interesting anecdotes on the new life of the Crawfordes. He states: "We are getting settled in the land of the Afghans, this place of vast deserts, barren mountains and camels. Although the land is inhospitable, the people are not. They are friendly, courteous, and will drink hot water so that you may have tea. They are as proud and stubborn as Westsiders, and we American technicians are here to help them, through the auspices of the Royal Government, to try to lift themselves into the 20th Century.

"Their camels carry their freight, they live in mud huts, and they farm with wooden plows and have oxen for power; many animals and people die in late winter when forage and fuel are short. New schools, new housing, new buildings, new roads, and trees are signs of the attempt to improve their lot. Although the job seems insurmountable, I have seen the impossible accomplished by just working at it. I am sure that our presence here, not only in self interest, but as representatives of the compassionate and helpful America, will eventually bear some fruit in their standard of living.

"The house assigned to us is made of mud brick; the outside walls are one meter thick, the inside about half that. The roof is made of a single layer of mud brick (laid in place on a flat arch without support) and covered with six to eight inches of mud. It is periodically replaced as the rain washes it off.

"The first frost came last night; it stopped the tomatoes and lettuce, but we still get radishes, beets, carrots, broccoli, etc. from the garden we inherited. We also got a gardener ($5 a month) with the deal."

Civic Group Elects Smith

DUNSMUIR—A. A. Smith was reelected president of the Dunsmuir Key Club, a civic promotion group, at the first meeting of 1963 at the Dunsmuir City Hall last week.

Others elected included N. W. Carlisle, first vice president; Collier Lockhart, second vice president; F. A. Murphy, third vice president; Edward Benson, treasurer; Dorothy Nelson, secretary; and H. D. Johnson, member of the board.

Charles Taylor was appointed to audit the books and N. W. Carlisle was asked to draft a civic beautification project for consideration of the club. The bylaws were amended to provide meetings as necessary rather than bi-monthly.

Data recently sent to the Key Club membership show the television translation project sponsored by the club cost $15,782.17 for installation, equipment, and maintenance during the last year of operation. Major expenditures were for road building, equipment and power.

Club income, including the payment of pledges for translator service, amounted to $15,780.63. Unpaid pledges total $2,100 and efforts to collect this remainder of the pledge notes will be made by the club during the next three months, it was announced at the meeting.

The second of four weekly civic defense adult education classes, offered in Klamath Falls by the State Department of Education, will be held Thursday evening, starting at 7 o'clock at Klamath Union High School, in the Little Theater. There will be no registration fee.

Check Passer's Sentencing Set

Owen McKinley Hodge, 59, entered a plea of guilty to obtaining money by false pretense in circuit court before noon Monday and was remanded to the sheriff until the time for the passing of sentence.

Judge Vandenberg set 10 a.m. Friday, Jan. 18, as the time he would pronounce sentence. Hodge has admitted to publishing a fraudulent check in the amount of $20 to the Payless Drug Store, Nov. 28.

Utility Companies Offer To Build Intertie Lines

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—California's four major electric utility companies have offered to construct extra-high-voltage transmission lines between their systems and the Pacific Northwest for power interchange.

Charles F. Luce, Bonneville Power Administration administrator, had invited suggestions for the interchange which would assure "the most feasible and economical plan for construction and use of intertie facilities."

The California firms—Pacific Gas & Electric, Southern California Edison, California Electric and San Diego Gas & Electric—made their joint proposal in a letter to Luce Sunday.

Additionally, they said the move would make available "virtually the entire California market for surplus Bonneville energy."

The initial line, a 500,000-volt transmission facility, would run from Oregon to Los Angeles and would cost about $100 million, according to the four firms.

PG&E Executive Vice President Robert H. Gerdes, in commenting on the offer, said that "most importantly, the proposal will eliminate a major federal expense at a time when it is urgent that nonessential government spending be reduced in order to make a tax reduction possible."
