Police Hunt Stolen Art At College

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI) Heavily armed troops and police sealed off the Communist-infested Central University Thursday and searched the campus for $600,000 worth of stolen art works. Aggressive students who used force to oppose the police search caused the officers to use their guns Wednesday night to disperse the angry mobs. Three rioters were wounded. The U.S. Embassy reported that UPI's news editor in the Caracas bureau, Anthony Valbuena, had been arrested "with a group of people" inside the university while covering the search. Police said the masked tommy gunners who stole five French uintings from the National Art Museum Wednesday, shooting and wounding a child in the process, had been positively identified as university students. A coed at the university had of the abo tipped Valbuena that the stolen paintings were hidden in the boical gardens on a hill overlook ing the campus where teen-aged terrorists often cache their arms. Judge Luis Billarte authorized solice to ignore the medieval tradition of "university autonomy" in their search. It was the second time in two years that police assigned to deal with Communist activities had raided the campus, but never before had putrolmen fired on student rioters in the university grounds.

The thieves entered the museum Wednesday, seized paintings by Paul Gauguin, Pablo Picasson, Georges Braque, Paul Cezanne and Vincent Van Gogh from an exhibit of French modernists, and the
