Closet Order Gives Space

"I don't have enough room in my linen closet."

That cry is heard in many modern homes across the country. Compact homes have compact linen closets and considerable ingenuity is called for in making the most of this and other linen closet space.

You can solve this storage problem, and help your daughter help you, by making a chart that shows on which shelves your linen closet items are to go. It will help you organize your closet better and show your children how to help keep it organized.

Here are some ideas for getting maximum convenience from your linen closet:

Bottom Shelf—Here is a good place for disposable paper products like facial tissues, paper towels and bathroom tissue.

Second Shelf—Fresh bath towels and washcloths are frequently used and should be placed on this shelf. Stack with the folded edges out so even the youngest member of the family can select one at a time without upsetting the whole arrangement.

Third Shelf—Here is the best spot for sheets, pillow cases and mattress covers. As they are folded, the hems should be exposed so a hasty glance shows their size.

Top Shelf—Good for bath mats, blankets and small rugs. You may want to keep a sickroom kit here also with a hot water bottle, first aid kit and an ice bag.

Now that you have a master plan you can begin to reorganize your closet. Begin by emptying all the shelves and lining them with adhesive coverings. They will make cleaning the shelves easier, and they come in many designs and colors to complement any bathroom decor.

You can see that the easiest way to make the most of your linen closet is to think about what you want to put in first, then fit everything in with the organization and care you give to packing a suitcase.

Good luck!

The long T-shirt, practically a uniform on the Riviera last summer, is big in American resort wear for 1963. One manufacturer (Jantzen) shows a long-sleeved knit shirt in multicolor stripe to cover the briefest of shorts in the same fabric.

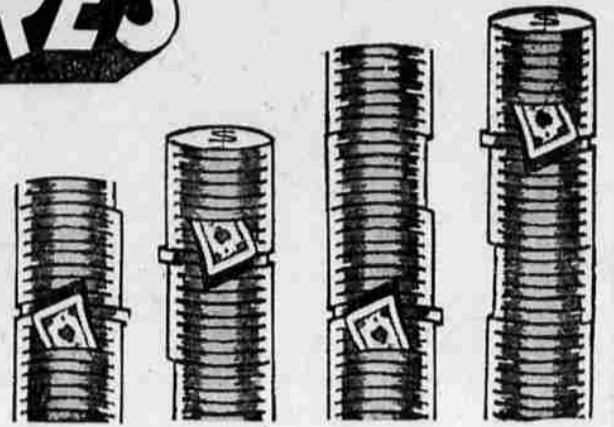

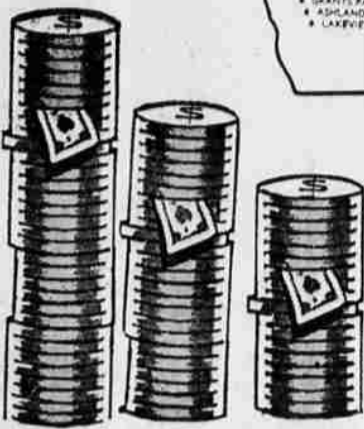

Leather, rubber, nylon and metal all have been tested to cover the ends of lethal spike heels. Now one manufacturer claims it has a new composition material that wears as long as metal, does not spread and snag, and cushions the sound of the spikes.
