All-State Band Picks Trio From Lakeview High School

LAKEVIEW—Three members of the Lakeview High School Band have been accepted into membership in the All-State Band, according to word received by John Jordan, instructor of instrumental music. The students are Janet Paris, senior, who will play first saxophone; Karen Anderson, junior, second oboe; and Marie Deming, junior, third clarinet. The group will meet in Portland March 20-22, during spring vacation. It is composed of outstanding band members from all over Oregon.

The LHS variety show will be held this year on Feb. 15, with tryouts scheduled three weeks before the show. The officers of the chorus class will serve as a committee for the tryouts. This is an all-school affair and profits will be used to finance music activities.

Lakeview High School is now one of three high schools in Oregon which has installed new desks and geometric models for aid in study of mathematics. The desks are built on two levels. The higher level includes tables of natural functions, trigonometry functions, and common logarithms of trigonometry functions, with proportional parts printed on the desk. The lower level, flat and rectangular, has tables of the Greek alphabet, common symbols, square roots and cube roots, and 11 area and volume formulas. Beneath this are three shelves for books and other storage.

These desks are of the latest design. Other new mathematical equipment is being added to the department.

Worker Falls Four Stories

PORTLAND (UPI) — Leland A. Jeffs, 29, Portland, was killed when he fell four stories down an air shaft Thursday.

Jeffs, an employee of Morehouse Glass Co., fell from a 10-foot ladder through a cover on the air shaft while working on the roof of the Paul G. Gross Building. He was installing windows in a neighboring building.

Hunter Safety Class Slated

The Klamath Falls YMCA is sponsoring Oregon Hunter Safety Classes to certify youngsters over 11 years of age for hunting licenses.

Instruction, under the direction of Earl Sweet, OTI gunsmith department chairman, will begin at 7 p.m. Jan. 23 at the rifle range in the "Y" basement.

Fees for the five-week courses are $2 for "Y" members and $2.50 for non-members. Klamath Falls youths can register at the YMCA anytime and they must pick up cards for their parents to sign.

Forest Jobs Completed

YREKA—Work projects authorized under the Accelerated Public Works Program on the Ukonom District of the Klamath Forest were completed on Dec. 31, according to District Ranger George Coombes. Included in the accomplishments were the rehabilitation of eight miles of grounded telephone line from Dillon Creek to Stanshaw Creek, replacement of 110 poles on the Salmon River line between Grant Creek and Fern Flat, complete brushing of five and one-half miles of line from Grant Creek to Murderer's Bar, and brushing of one mile of road right-of-way near Ukonom Lookout. Employees of the Siskiyou Telephone Company hung two and one-half miles of line where poles were replaced.

Astronomy Study Set

EUGENE (UPI)—The first research observations in astronomy ever tried in Oregon will be conducted somewhere in the high Cascades this summer by University of Oregon physics professor E. G. Ebbighausen.

Dr. Ebbighausen has received a $5,300 grant from the National Science Foundation for the project.

The exact location of the observatory has not been determined. The university's 15-inch telescope which normally rests atop the science building has been removed and is being renovated for the project.

Astronomical observations have been made in Oregon for many years, but this will be the first time fundamental research has been attempted, Dr. Ebbighausen said. His chief interest will be in studying the brightness of certain stars.

Dr. Ebbighausen said he also hopes to demonstrate that research in astronomy is feasible in Oregon, especially at high altitudes during the summer months when the air is clear and visibility good.

Integration Suits Filed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Justice Department Saturday filed suits seeking desegregation of "impacted area" schools near four major military installations in Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana.

"Impacted" schools are those which receive federal aid because they are overcrowded by students whose parents are employed by military or other federal installations nearby.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said the schools involved in Saturday's suit educate large numbers of children of servicemen and civilians working at defense installations.

They are:
—Redstone Arsenal at Huntsville, Ala.
—Brookley Air Force Base at Mobile, Ala.
—Keesler Air Force Base at Biloxi-Gulport, Miss.
—Barksdale Air Force Base in Bossier Parrish, Ala.

Kennedy said all four suits contended that racial segregation of service children in the schools of these counties violated the 14th Amendment to the Constitution. The government said it also damages the morale of servicemen and federal civilian workers.

A department spokesman said the four counties were chosen for the suits because "it was found that voluntary compliance was impossible." He said all the bases were large and involved a considerable number of children.

The spokesman also said negotiations looking toward desegregation were under way in "more than a dozen other areas where it might be possible to reach voluntary agreement with local officials."
