

China Commies Insist On Summit Conference

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China insisted Saturday that a Communist summit conference is essential if ideological differences between Peking and Moscow are to be ironed out.

The Chinese underscored their position by giving front-page headlines to the speech made in Berlin by Wu Hsiu-chuan, the Peking regime's delegate to the East German Communist party congress.

Wu caused an uproar of boos and catcalls at the congress Friday by attacking Russia and Yugoslavia, and rejecting Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's call for a truce in the ideological quarrel that has divided the Communist world.

The New China News Agency, in a broadcast monitored here, said all of Peking's newspapers printed Wu's speech on their front pages Saturday. The text also was carried by the news agency. It was not published in Berlin, and virtually all Western newsmen were barred from the congress.

Sources of Support

The statement by Wu made it clear that China calculated it would find supporters at such a conference from Asia, Africa and Latin America to outvote Russia and its East European satellites.

Wu, who is regarded as one of Red China's principal experts on Russian affairs, stressed that "national and democratic revolutionary movements are engulfing Asia, Africa and Latin America."

His speech deliberately passed over Russia's achievements in nuclear armament, rocketry and

Reservists Scheduled In Pay Hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's military pay raise proposals, to be submitted to Congress this week, will exclude more than two-thirds of the nation's one million civilian reservists.

Defense officials said Saturday that about 100,000 officers and more than 165,000 enlisted men in the National Guard and other reserve outfits are scheduled to get the increased pay, because they are rated as volunteers.

But another 33,000 officers and 628,000 enlisted men now on the civilian military payroll, will be omitted, because they have a compulsory legal obligation for service in the reserves.

The exclusion plan was first disclosed in President Kennedy's budget message to Congress earlier last week. But the step had been recommended earlier by McNamara and a Defense Department panel which studied military compensation.

The mammoth pay raise—first in five years for the armed forces—would average 14.4 per cent and cost $1.7 billion a year. Chief beneficiaries would be the 2,700,000 regular servicemen where the payroll has already climbed to $6.7 billion a year.

The civilian military payroll is $75 million annually. This would be increased between $28 and $32 million by the partial raises the department is recommending. An across-the-board inclusion of the reserves in the new pay schedules would cost probably $40 million more.

Most of the civilians on drill-pay status at present draw pay at the going rate for about 60 days a year. They are credited with one each day for 48 weekend drills annually, and usually attend summer camps for two weeks of additional drill.

Under the new plan, setting up a dual pay standard, men with reserve obligations will continue to be paid under schedules established in 1950. The proposed increases have not been announced in detail, but the Air Force Times said they will amount to about a dollar a day for enlisted men in the reserves.

The increase for a corporal, for example, would be from $3.66 to $4.66 a day.

Union Shop Vote Slated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Boeing Co.'s union workers will vote next Wednesday on the company's latest offer to end a six-month dispute over the union shop. It is likely to be rejected.

A week of intensive discussions between the company and the International Association of Machinists on a new contract for 30,000 union members ended without apparent progress.

The IAM agreed to submit Boeing's latest offer to a vote of the full membership, and deferred a strike deadline of midnight Friday night until after the secret balloting is held.

But P. L. Siemler, IAM vice president, called the offer "completely unsatisfactory." He suggested referring all unresolved issues to final and binding arbitration, but he said Boeing refused to do this.

Lowell P. Mickelwait, a Boeing vice president, said the aircraft and missile manufacturer had not replied to the IAM suggestion, but indicated it would be rejected.

The IAM has asked for a union shop, which would make union membership mandatory for all employees. Boeing employees voted 3-1 last month for the union shop in balloting sponsored by the National Labor Relations Board.

A company spokesman said Boeing was holding out for an agreement which would give an employee 30 days to decide whether to join the union. Once in the union, he would be required to remain for the duration of the contract.

Judge Halts MD Hearing

PECOS, Tex. (UPI) — Dr. John P. Dunn succeeded Friday night in getting a district judge to block a hearing of the Reeves County Hospital Board, which met to decide whether to reinstate the controversial 35-year-old John Birch Society member.

Dunn, who asked the FBI to investigate Billie Sol Estes, wanted the hearing halted on the grounds the board is prejudiced against him.

District Judge Russell Austin of the 10th District Court in Andrews, Tex., set a hearing on Dunn's motion for an injunction against the hospital board for 10 a.m. Jan. 28 in Pecos. Dunn's lawyers, Fred Benner of Dallas and Mark Smith of Lubbock, went to Judge Austin because Judge J. H. Starley of Pecos was en route in the Rio Grande Valley on another case.

The board fired Dunn without a hearing Jan. 2, charging him with harassment of the hospital staff. Dunn said the Estes case did not enter into the situation and insisted he was dismissed because of politics.

Red China Atom Bomb Test Talked

TOKYO (UPI) — American defense officials believe Communist China has built two atomic bombs and will test them sometime before the end of the year, the major Tokyo newspaper Mainichi reported Saturday.

The Mainichi Shimbun said U.S. officials made the disclosure to the Japanese government at a meeting of the joint U.S.-Japan Security Consultative Committee in Tokyo.

The Japan self defense agency denied the Mainichi report after it was published but the newspaper's editors said their information was correct and refused to withdraw the story.

Mainichi said American military men did not appear greatly alarmed over the Chinese acquisition of elementary atomic explosives.

"Japan and the United States agreed that even if the weapons were tested it would not affect the military situation in the Far East," Mainichi said. "No hasty change of military deployment in the area is necessary."

However, the Americans were reported to have expressed concern over the effects on the Japanese public of a Chinese atomic test because of the emotional and deeply rooted Japanese fear of atomic weapons.

American officials were not immediately available for comment.

Another Tokyo newspaper, the Tokyo Shimbun, last week predicted Chinese atomic tests during 1963 and quoted sources in the Japan defense agency.

Speculation over the emergence of Red China as a nuclear power comes at a time when Japan's role as supporter of the non-Communist world is undergoing a thorough restudy, both in Tokyo and in Washington.

During the last year there have been repeated hints from highly placed Japanese officials that Japan's defense policies would have to be revised if China built atomic weapons.

Mainichi said the security committee also discussed in detail reports on Red China's nuclear arms capabilities.

It said the committee discussed a report from the Japanese defense agency that Red China has built four nuclear reactors, one of them near Peking and another in Chungking in Western China.

It said U.S. officials stressed that the two atomic bombs were experimental and that it would be at least 10 years before Peking could develop nuclear bombs as a practical weapon.

The symbol of the 1964 World's Fair in New York's Flushing Meadows is to be a huge open-work globe of stainless steel, called a Unisphere.

Negro Leader Raps Dirksen Move To Shelve Anti-Filibuster Drive

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Negro leader said Saturday that a move by Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen to shelve a liberal anti-filibuster drive would be a disservice to the cause of civil rights.

Roy Wilkins, chairman of the "leadership conference on civil rights," urged "all supporters of meaningful civil rights in the Senate" to oppose Dirksen's effort to table—and thus kill—a motion to consider a modified debating rule.

Dirksen has served notice that he will offer a tabling motion next week in hopes of ending the Senate's current deadlock over the rules change.

Wilkins, who also is executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), said in a statement that if Dirksen makes his motion, "he will be doing a disservice not only to the cause of civil rights but to those members of his own party who have sincerely joined in the anti-filibuster move."

He said the Illinois Republican "will have earned for his party a pro-segregationist, pro-discrimination label" because a vote to shut off the rules fight "is a vote to bury civil rights" in the current Congress.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., who favors changing the rule, said the drive would not be tied to civil rights or any other single issue.

"Such association tends to cloud the real issue and reflects on the integrity of the Senate," McCarthy said. "It implies that procedural rights are not important and may be used for temporary advantage by shifting majorities or minorities."

Sen. John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., a member of the southern bloc fighting the rules change, said in a radio broadcast for southern stations that the present rule "is a good rule and it lends protection to the minorities."

The rule requires a two-thirds majority of those present and voting to curb debate. The first showdown is expected on a motion to consider allowing three-fifths of those voting to halt a filibuster. A bipartisan group of liberals favors allowing a simple majority—51—of the Senate's entire membership to end debate.

Sparkman pointed out that under the Senate's present party division the Democrats, if they wanted, could prevent the Republicans from debating if the rule were changed.

"Now certainly, we never would want that to happen but it just illustrates that sometimes there might be a minority which has a just cause," Sparkman said.

Lie Detector Test Slated

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Lie detector tests were proposed Friday to solve a paternity suit involving Terry Lynn Huntington, former Miss U.S.A.

Attorney Sidney Williams for the 22-year-old beauty said he would let the case "rise or fall" on the result of the tests, proposed for both Miss Huntington and Arthur J. Crowley, who was named in the suit.

Crowley, also an attorney, labeled the move a "grandstand play" and said, "I've got your client (Miss Huntington) cold in perjury and I'm going to take you to the grand jury."

Williams then threatened to take Crowley to the grand jury for allegedly making love to Miss Huntington before she was 21 years old.

Miss Huntington was chosen Miss U.S.A. in 1959. Last May 14 she gave birth to a daughter, Elizabeth Paige, whom she claimed Crowley fathered. Crowley, 38, has denied the paternity charges.

Venezuela Art Theft Leader Held

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI) — Police Saturday arrested Communist Jose Hilario Monterrey as the presumed leader of the band of armed robbers which stole $660,000 worth of French paintings from the National Museum of Fine Arts last Wednesday.

None of the paintings, which were on loan from the Louvre and the Museum of Modern Art in Paris, has been recovered.

Police have blamed the robbery on actionists of the Communist National Liberation Front.

They said the gun-slitting woman who drove the get-away car for the three robbers has been identified as Aura Reyes Chacin, and that one of the robbers was identified as Ruben Borges. Both are still at large, as is the third and unidentified accomplice.

Monterrey was arrested hiding in a peasant's shack about five miles west of Caracas.

Lloyds of London, which had insured the paintings for $1 million, has offered a $10,000 reward for information leading to their recovery.

Borges, one of the identified robbers, was recently discharged from the technical judicial police for his affiliation with the Communist Party. The woman allegedly shot a youth before the bandits sped away from the museum with the paintings.

An anonymous telephone call to the museum said the paintings were being well cared for but will not be returned until "the present state of (police) terror" is lifted.

The museum was closed until further notice at the request of investigators.
