

Bell Seeks Authority In Foreign Aid Effort

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Foreign aid chief David E. Bell said today a lack of clear-cut authority was hampering the foreign aid program when he took over recently. He said he is acting to correct the situation.

Bell, President Kennedy's former budget director, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that field personnel were not clear about their responsibilities and those of their superiors in Washington. This "led to unnecessary delays," he said.

Bell also painted an encouraging picture of Korea's improved economic prospects, and said the outlook in strife-torn South Vietnam is more encouraging.

"The battle has just started" in South Vietnam and will be a long struggle, Bell said, "but most competent observers believe we may have turned the tide."

Meantime, Christian A. Herter, Kennedy's new trade negotiator, said it might take some time to work out better relations with Common Market nations regarding tariffs on American agricultural products. But "I am hopeful something can be done," the former secretary of state said. "We are negotiating that matter at the moment."

Bell, Herter and the latter's deputy, William Gossett, former Ford Motor Co. executive, were questioned at a public hearing on their recent nominations.

Herter said the United States is particularly interested in the United Kingdom joining the European Common Market because "it would be in the interests of the whole Free World."

Like Ireland, Newfoundland is free of snakes.

"I'll bet if Pop had seen you like this BEFORE you were married, I wouldn't be here TODAY!"

Tourist Office Proposed In California

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A state-operated tourist development office to bring foreign and out-of-state money to California was proposed in the Legislature today.

Assemblyman Robert W. Crown, the bill's author, described the state's present tourist promotion system as a "jigsaw puzzle."

"California is the only state in our nation which does not directly aid a state tourist program," said Crown. "All promotion currently is handled by local and regional organizations."

In a year-long study of tourists in California, Crown's subcommittee on tourist trade discovered that the visitor represents a major source of income in the state.

"Unfortunately, there are no sources of reliable figures on the numbers of visitors or their expenditures," said Crown's committee report.

From available information, the subcommittee estimated that visitors spend a little more than $1 billion annually in California of which more than $300 million is in room sales by hotels and motels.

"We have learned that tourism is very big business in California," Crown said. "But we have also discovered that no one in our state knows just how big or how important this business really is."

Under the present arrangement, all information on the number of tourists and their expenditures is collected by the Bureau of Plant Quarantine of the Department of Agriculture, which makes its information available to local and regional tourist promotion organizations.

Crown said that during subcommittee hearings leaders in transportation, hotel, motel and related industries repeatedly asked the state to assume its "proper function" in tourist promotion.

"We have been asked to meet the increasing competition from the other 49 states," said Crown. "The bill which I have introduced will help meet this competition and will provide the vital billion dollar tourist business with the facts and figures they need to plan for orderly growth."

The office would be administered by a director and get advice from a 15-member advisory commission comprised of representatives of industries affected by tourism.

Its major functions would be research, development of material to promote California for use abroad and in other states, planning for establishment of border stations to welcome visitors, encourage preservation of natural tourist attractions and roadside rests, and encourage private development of improved tourist and visitor facilities where needed.

Other developments in the Legislature:

Death penalty — Assemblyman Lester M. McMillan, D-Los Angeles, postponed for at least a week introduction of his bill to establish a limited four-year moratorium on the death penalty. He did so at the request of Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

Poll tax — The Senate approved by a vote of 32-0 a resolution ratifying a proposed constitutional amendment to forbid a poll tax in national elections. The measure now goes to the Assembly, where similar resolutions already have been introduced.

Demos Seek GOP Support In Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Democratic congressional leaders said after meeting with President Kennedy today that they hoped Republicans would join Democrats in supporting the administration's tax cut program as a means of strengthening the economy.

Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., told newsmen following the White House session:

"This should be a bipartisan matter because everyone is interested in developing, within the spirit of individual initiative, an expanding economy."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., chimed in:

"What we are trying to do in effect is to forestall further depression."

Mansfield and McCormack said the President's proposal for a net tax reduction of $19 billion over three years was the main topic of discussion at Kennedy's weekly breakfast meeting with his party's leaders of the House and Senate.

Indonesia Action Urged

MANILA (UPI)—Political and military leaders, concerned over the build up of Soviet arms in Indonesia, today urged action to bolster the defenses of the southern Philippines.

Sen. Eulogio Balao, chairman of the upper house's Defense Committee, asked military authorities to give Congress detailed plans for the establishment of modern air and naval bases in the southern islands.

"From the looks of it, Russia is out to build another Cuba," Balao said.

Philippine concern over the situation was deepened by the agitation of Communists in Indonesia for "a greater role in the government."

Retired Navy Capt. Carlos Albert, former Philippine military intelligence chief, said the Russians are pouring military equipment into Indonesia, including jet fighters and bombers and modern destroyers.

Albert said a Communist seizure of power in Indonesia would endanger the Philippines, Thailand and Malaya.
