

CALLING HIS SHOTS — "Loudmouth" Cassius Clay backed up his prophecy with action last night in Pittsburgh when he kayoed big Charlie Powell in 2:04 of the third round. He had first predicted a five round knockout and later adjusted it to three because Powell was "lipping off," something which Clay feels is an exclusive privilege which he retains. At left, Clay starts his attack in the third round with a chopping right hand to the head as Powell attempts to defend himself. Center, Clay moves in for the kill as he lands a flurry of lefts and rights that sent Powell to the canvas for the full count. At far right, a victorious Clay waves his arms in background as Powell is counted out by referee Ernie Sesto. Powell attempted to get up but could not rise beyond hands and knees. Powell, a heavy puncher also, stalked Clay in the first two rounds, but was unable to land the "big" punch.—UPI Telephoto

'Louisville Lip' Clay Kayoes Powell Right On Schedule

Left Ends Fight In Third

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Cassius Clay, the undisputed "champ of prophecy," sailed home to Louisville on a cloud today with a promise to become the "champ of heavyweights" in 10 months. Clay, self-proclaimed "Louisville Lip," disposed of former professional football star Charlie Powell in 2:04 of the third round Thursday night to fulfill a predicted knockout victory for the 12th time in 14 kayo wins.

Immediately afterward, matchmaker Teddy Brennan of Madison Square Garden announced he will sign the third-ranked Clay to a fight with Doug Jones for March 13 in New York.

"I would like to fight Jones (ranked sixth) and Billy Daniels (ranked seventh) on the same night," Clay confidently asserted in his jubilant dressing room after extending his unbeaten string to 17 straight. "In this way," he added, "I can make greater progress."

Drew Heavy Boos
Clay's easy win over the 214-pound Powell drew heavy boos from a record local indoor crowd of 11,238 which paid a gross of $44,702 and a net of $47,360. Ten per cent of the net, $4,736, will go to a fund for families of 37 men killed in a mine explosion last month.

Clay said a "hard right hand" set up Powell for the kill. The punch which put him down was a left hook.

The 21-year-old Clay had little trouble with Powell, 29-year-old from San Diego, Calif. He danced around the ring through the first two rounds, landing stinging jabs and straight rights almost at will as Powell chose to stalk around the center of the canvas.

Powell said a "flurry of punches" near the end of the second round "got me woozy" and he went down under the barrage in the third. While referee Ernie Sesto tolled eight Powell, on his hands and knees, attempted to get to his feet but shook his head futilely and was counted out.

"I'm the prophet of the fight game," Clay said later in his dressing room.

"I'm making history. After all, I'm calling my rounds and making them stand up."

Working on Time Table
Clay added, "My schedule is to win the championship in 10 months. I am the Louisville Lip. My lips break records when I move them."

Powell blamed a flat-footed attempt to land "one big punch" with costing him the win.

"I fought the wrong type of fight," Powell said. "I stood still and tried to floor him with one punch. I should have jabbed more and kept the pressure on him."

Clay said Powell had hurt him with a left hook in the second round. "It shook me," Clay declared.

"Powell kept on talking to me. He kept on saying from the first round on, 'Come on big mouth, it's nearly round three.' I stayed cool. I didn't pay any attention. I noticed fear in his eyes in the third. Kill the head and you die," Clay said.

Clay, who weighed 204, said Powell was "the roughest fighter I met yet—for three rounds." Clay said he could vanquish champion Sonny Liston in eight. Powell, remarking on this said, "Clay will be okay, if he can stay away."

Prep Powers Face Action

By United Press International
Oregon prep basketball is getting down to the point where a loss from here on out could mean the difference between a participant's seat and a spectator's seat in the state tournaments.

The state's top two ranked teams are both in action tonight. No. 1 rated South Eugene journeys to Cottage Grove, while North Eugene plays host to Marshfield.

Third-ranked Marshall of Portland will attempt to get back into the win column after two straight losses in a game against Roosevelt.

Defending state A-1 champion Grants Pass plays Klamath Falls at home. Crater is at Ashland. Fifth-ranked Milwaukie meets David Douglas. Pendleton, the highest scoring team in the state, plays La Grande.

Church Cage Action Noted

Merrill Presbyterian and Mt. Laki both turned in victories in action in the YMCA Church League at Altamont Junior High gym Thursday night.

Merrill defeated First Christian Church 44 to 21 with Willard Felt and Dwayne Mattson each dropping in 10 points for the winners. Pete Benham, Bill Harlan and Roy Lundgren each scored four points for the loser's best efforts.

Phil Swisher hit for 16 to lead Mt. Laki to a 36 to 32 triumph over Immanuel Baptist. Jerry Renne had nine for Mt. Laki. Jack Dunn with 11 and Dennis Carlson with nine were top point getters for Immanuel Baptist.

Jim Johnson, athletic director at KUH, said Thursday that there are still a few reserved seats left for the Saturday night game at Pelican Court against Medford.

The tickets may be purchased for $1.50 in Room 241, just outside the gymnasium, before the game. General admission tickets will be sold at the door before the game.

Oregon Invitation Meet Features Top Athletes

PORTLAND (UPI) — The first West Coast indoor track meet since Gen. Douglas MacArthur waded ashore through the stormy waters of the AAU-NCAA feud will draw a strong field here Saturday night for the Oregon Invitational Meet.

The entry list includes such AAU-supervised stars as shot-putter Parry O'Brien, Finnish middle distance runner Olavi Salonen and Bert Ohlander, miler Jim Grelle and Olympic broad jump champion Ralph Boston.

Pel Boosters Meet Monday

The Pelican Booster Club will hold its weekly meeting this week on Monday night at the Brailer Restaurant.

The date was changed from Wednesday to Monday because of the big attraction at Pelican Court Wednesday night between the Klamath wrestling team and the Japanese All-Stars.

There will be a film of the Medford-KU basketball game and Coach Al Keck will talk about his basketball team, past and future games. Coach De-laney Duncan will give a full report on the Japanese wrestling meet Wednesday night.

Strange Names Among Leaders In $50,000 Lucky Golf Tourney

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—There were some strange names among the leaders in the $50,000 Lucky International golf tournament as the second round of play got under way today.

Art Wall, the 39-year-old former Masters king, and Jacky Cupit, 23-year-old 1961 "rookie of the year" were leading the race with four-under-par 67s. Their names are well known.

But did you ever hear of Terry Dill? Jack Biesecker? Bob Harrison or Bill Eggers?

They are right up there close, ready to take over if the leaders show any signs of faltering on the over-played Harding Park public golf course.

The greens are so bumpy the leading professionals refuse to even comment on them. But Wall and Cupit, and 21 others who broke par are not complaining. They had no trouble mastering the fairways and solving the greens.

Dill was tied at 68 with Dick Mayer, the former National Open and World champion; Charley Sifford, the Negro golfing king; long-hitting Bobby Nichols, and Phil Rodgers, a 23-year-old rookie from University of Texas who shows signs of greatness

Biesecker who had a 69, is a Canadian with promise. Harrison with 70 has played the winter tour several years from Palm Desert, Calif., and Eggers is playing out of Las Vegas, Nev.

But such men as Arnold Palmer, 73, Gary Player, 74, and National Open champion Jack Nicklaus, 76, found the going a bit too rough.

Meanwhile, defending champion Gene Littler stayed up close with a 70, and Bill Casper, winner of the Bing Crosby last week, had a 69.

Welu, Abel Top Bowlers In All-Star Tournament

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Billy Welu of St. Louis and Joy Abel of Chicago today headed America's finest bowlers in the pin fight for $100,000 in cash prizes in the 22nd annual All-Star bowling tournament.

Welu fired an 844 four-game series Thursday night to cap a big day which saw him win 8% of a possible 12 games. Right behind him in this 22nd annual Bowling Proprietors Association of America (BPAA) classic were three other St. Louis keepers, Ray Bluth, defending champion, Dick Weber, and four-time past champ Don Carter.

In the 32 championship round games rolled so far in the men's division, Welu has scattered 7,117 pins for an average of 223 per game.

Bluth has 7,147 pins, but the championship rounds are being scored under the Petersen point system, which gives one point for every 50 points and one point for every game won.

Miss Abel has racked up 3,291 pins in 16 games for an average of 205. Bobbie Shaler of Chicago, who had Thursday's high two-game series of 505—third highest in All-Star history—moved up to second with 3,289 pins.

Owls Host OCE Wolves; Sam, Willie Set To Go

The Oregon Tech Owls defend their undefeated conference record tonight and Saturday here at home when they host the Month-mouth Wolves from Oregon College of Education.

Rolling along in high gear since the addition of "Sweet Sammy" Smith, the Owls have won all six of their conference clashes to date and plan to keep that record clean in their two games this weekend.

Conference statistics show that Smith is clipping along with a 20.7 points per game. Just a shade behind and pushing hard is Willie Anderson who boasts a 20.2 per game scoring average. After a slow start, these two spark plugs provided the extra jump that has swung the Owls into a championship repeater. Game time is 8 p.m. at the OTI gym.

Dave Hughes of Southern Oregon College leads the individual scoring parade of the Oregon Collegiate Conference but has played two more games than Oregon Tech's Willie Anderson and Sam Smith who are breathing down his neck.

The statistics listed below include all six of Oregon Tech's league games but all the other teams and players have one more game to add to the totals. The Oregon Tech totals were added to the league statistics which were mailed to the Herald and News by the league statistician, better averages in six games.

Smith and Anderson both have Smith has taken over the scoring and rebounding leadership of the team and could go on to another conference championship in both categories. He has scored 63 points in his last two games for a total of 124 points and an average of 20.7. He has 101 rebounds to lead the league for an average of 17 per game.
