WALL STREET

NEW YORK (UPI)—Selective profit taking sent the stock market slightly lower today.

Only Du Pont, up a point in view of its record 1962 earnings, was a wide mover among the blue chips. Steels were soft in spots, most motors slipped small fractions, chemicals were firm and international oils narrowly mixed. Rails and utilities marked time.

Few issues moved as much as a point. The few that did were Armco Steel down 1 on lower earnings, IBM off 2, Xerox a point and Polaroid 2. U.S. Smelting fell 1/2 but Union Oil of California and Motorola countered with gains of roughly 1 1/2 apiece.

KEEPS PLANS SECRET

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—Negro James Meredith attended a meeting of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People here Sunday night but refused to disclose whether he planned to return to the University of Mississippi.

Work Change Rumor Said Ridiculous

The County Planning Commission, which has been blamed for a variety of conditions from the weather to the state of the nation during recent weeks, has been the subject of another misguided rumor, the Herald and News learned Tuesday.

Rumors are that the commission recommended to the County Court that the work schedule of employees in the County Road Department be cut back from 45 to 40 hours per week. The proposal is currently under study by the County Court, but the assertion that the County Planning Commission made the recommendation is "ridiculous," County Commissioner Frank Ganong said about noon Tuesday.

"The commission is not concerned with the pay schedules of county employees, never has been, and probably never will be," Ganong said.

Whether the proposed change in the work-day schedule of the Road Department employees is approved or disapproved is the responsibility of the County Court and no other group or commission, Ganong added.

The County Planning Commission has endorsed the proposed Zoning Ordinance for the suburban area which has been the subject of considerable controversy in recent months.

Five local winners in the 1963 Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow have been announced, making them eligible for one of the 102 scholarships totaling $110,000.

Ranking first in their school in the knowledge and attitude test given senior girls Dec. 4 are Lila J. Ritter, Henley High School; Catherine A. Ross, Sacred Heart Academy; Ethel Louise Freeman, Gilchrist High School; Terrie L. Glider, Klamath Union High School; and Fern M. Westcott, Bonanza High School. Each girl's paper has been entered in competition with those of other Oregon high school winners for state-wide honors.

The State Homemaker of Tomorrow, who will be named in the spring, will receive a $1,500 scholarship from General Mills, sponsor of the program. A $500 award will be made to the second highest ranking contestant. The school of each state winner will receive a set of Encyclopedia Britannica.

Later, the State Homemaker of Tomorrow, with their advisers, will receive an expense-paid educational tour of New York City, Washington, D.C., and Colonial Williamsburg, Va., which will culminate with the naming of the 1963 All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow and a $5,000 scholarship.

Second through fourth place winners will also receive scholarships.

Prepared and scored by Science Research Associates, Chicago, the knowledge and attitude test is the basis for naming local and state winners, while personal observation and interviews are factors in the national judging. Participating are 410,466 girls in 12,964 schools.

Awards Won By Fifteen

National Junior Honor Society emblems were awarded to 15 Fremont Junior High School students at a recent school assembly.

President of the honor society, Sandra Buchanan, presided with Vice President Jack Crabtree and Secretary Judy Nicholson assisting in the presentation of the awards.

The following students earned their emblems by achieving at least a 1.50 grade average for the second term:

Negro Gets Orientation

CLEMSON, S.C. (UPI)—Barney Gantt, an easy-going young Negro who received both handshakes and razzing when he crossed South Carolina's public school color barrier Monday, goes through an orientation program today at Clemson College.

The 20-year-old architecture student, who maintained a "B" average at Iowa State, and other transfer students were to learn the traditions of this old southern school in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains.

The majority of Clemson's 4,250 students arrive Wednesday and Thursday for second semester registration. Classes start Friday.

More than 100 students and an equal number of newsmen and photographers were on hand Monday to see Gantt's court-ordered enrollment at the college.

About 100 state troopers had been stationed in the area but they just little to do.

State Police Captain Quits

MEDFORD (UPI)—Oregon State Police Capt. Paul Morgan, who has been with the state police for more than 21 years—the last four as commander of district 2 with headquarters here—will retire Feb. 1.

The announcement was made today by H. G. Mason, Salem, superintendent of the state police.

He will be replaced by Lt. Earl W. Tichenor, assistant commander here since Sept. 1, 1958. Tichenor will be promoted to captain Feb. 1.

Morgan is one of three remaining men who started with the state police when it was organized in 1931.

ROBERTS
Homer Roberts, 79, died at his home in Bonanza on Jan. 28. The unexpected death was apparently caused by a heart attack.

Born in Missouri in 1883, Roberts moved with his parents, Hiram and Betty Roberts, to Klamath County in 1894. The family settled in Poe Valley. On Dec. 24, 1918, he was married in Klamath Falls to Sylvia Eva Wahn of Henley, and he and his family made their home in Langell Valley in 1939.

One of the last remaining great horsemen of the early pioneer days, Roberts won the grand championship saddle at the first Klamath County rodeo. At 15, he and his father worked on the Adams horse ranch in Merrill, and he later was the first person to ever run a dredge in Klamath County. He went with J. Frank Adams, who carried $5,000 in gold, to buy the dredge in 1902, and using the machinery he initiated construction work in the county.

EXHIBIT SHOWN — This view shows several of the paintings of Roland Clark, 2838 Patterson Street, which were shown at the Sherwin-Williams Paint Store, 1229 East Main Street, last week. The exhibit included wildlife, rodeo scene, human portrait, parashutist, and others. His work reflects an excellent eye for shadows and depth of observation. Clark has had a few lessons in art taken by mail. He is a member of the Klamath Art Association.

Wolves Seek Sheep Kill

LONDON (UPI)—Europe's cold wave today drove herds of sheep-hunting wolves into the Hungarian plains.

As in Hungary, the freezing weather remained in Switzerland, Austria, Italy and elsewhere. But Britain's snow thaw continued.

The cold had killed at least five persons in the past 24 hours, with another seven missing and feared dead.

Budapest Radio said the remains of 130 sheep were found on the plains near Theiss River in Eastern Hungary. The wolves apparently were driven from the Carpathian Mountains by the extreme cold and snow. So far, hunters on their trail have been unable to get close enough to destroy any of them.

In below zero East Berlin, more than 70 pipes burst over the weekend.

Road conditions throughout Britain were better than at any time in the past 34 days of the "big freeze," but the thaw flooded hundreds of homes when burst water pipes defrosted.

Snow, Cold Deaths Total 300 In East

By United Press International

Temperatures dropped far below zero in the Ohio Valley and snow-clogged Northeast again today. Light snow drifted east from the Rockies.

The death toll from the 11-day siege of bitter cold and heavy snow edged above the 300 mark.

Furnaces resumed operation and life returned to near normal at Sedalia, Mo., today with restoration of gas service. The town's 23,000 residents had shivered through ten temperatures since Sunday without heat.

Mississippi River traffic from St. Louis to Cairo, Ill., was at a standstill as the ice jam, described as the worst in 15 years, choked off industrial shipments. The ice jam is nearly 50 miles long north from Cairo.

The mercury fell to 10 below today at Pittsburgh, Pa., shattering a 36-year-old record low for Jan. 29. Other low temperature records of this date were set at Philadelphia, with 12 below; Columbus, Ohio, with 12 below; and Fort Wayne, Ind., with 10 below.

The lowest temperatures reported today were 25 below at Philadelphia, Pa., and 22 below at Cut Bank, Mont., Grand Forks, N.D., and Glens Falls, N.Y.

St. Cloud, Minn., reported 2 inches of snow in six hours today.

Ohio, staggered by more than 20 temperature readings Monday, recorded more sub-zero readings today. The Ohio River was almost covered by ice 1 to 4 inches thick. Peach and cherry crops in the southwestern portion of the Buckeye State have been severely damaged.

Elmira, N.Y., recorded a low of 18 below early today. Snow-

Civil Defense Budget Plea Cooled By Failure During October Storm

SALEM (UPI)—"We probably are fighting for our life," Oregon's civil defense director said Monday as legislators accused the agency of mulling during the Columbus Day storm and coming up with questions but no answers.

CD Director Robert W. Sandstrom found a cool reception as he began to defend the agency's request for $193,125 in general funds for the 1963-65 biennium—$10,000 more than at present.

He faced four members of the Ways and Means subcommittee. Two other lawmakers sat in on the nearly two hours of quizzing.

Subcommittee Chairman Rep. Beulah Land, D-Milwaukie, put Sandstrom on notice right at the start that the civil defense budget would have to be justified.

Sen. Alfred Corbett, D-Portland, said readiness in natural disasters has been a main justification for civil defense in the past.

"What happened," he said, when civil defense failed to warn Oregon after the Oct. 12 storm hit the southwest corner?

"No Answer"

"I have no answer for that... we are embarrassed every day by it," Sandstrom replied.

Sandstrom said his agency's main program at present is locating shelters in buildings in Oregon, marking them, stocking them with federal supplies, and training men to operate them in emergencies.

He said a majority of shelter spaces located so far are in the Portland area. At the same time, he conceded that with sufficient notice Portland residents probably would be dispersed to other areas.

He also said some building operators refuse to allow storage of supplies in potential shelter areas. He said he did not know how many.

No supplies have been stocked yet, Sandstrom said, but a federal shipment is stored at Troutdale for distribution.

"Our job is to draw up the plans to save 1,800,000 lives," Sandstrom said.

The legislators were unconvinced.

Worth It

"People are not very enthusiastic about all this," said Sen. L. W. Newberry, R-Ashtland. "I'm wondering if we're heading somewhere. If not, is it worth it pushing against the wall?"

Newberry termed evacuation-dispersal plans "ridiculous." "I'm surprised military people ever conceived such a plan," he said, adding it was difficult enough to get out of Portland at the end of the day.

"Where are they going to live and what are they going to eat?" Rep. Ross Morgan, D-Gresham, added.

"These are the questions we ask ourselves," Sandstrom replied. "We'll never know until we try it," he said.

Sandstrom said city, county and state departments functioned effectively during the storm.

Proposed by legislators, he said they probably would have functioned just as effectively without the civil defense agency.

"The truth of the matter," said Morgan, "is that civil defense had nothing to do with it before or after the storm."

Wiek Given Short Term For Larceny

Jack Wiek, 29, convicted of larceny by a circuit court jury last Wednesday, was sentenced by Circuit Judge Donald A. W. Piper to serve one month in the county jail, it developed in one of five criminal matters brought before the judge Monday.

Judge Piper sentenced Wiek to 12 months in jail but suspended 11 months of the sentence upon the condition that the defendant make restitution of $75 to the complaining witness, Elmer Ward of Lakeview. Wiek and Wanda McKnight, 31, were implicated in the robbery of $1,350 from Ward in a Klamath Falls cabin last November.

The attorney for Wiek requested Judge Piper to grant the defendant probation. When the jurist declined to do so, the attorney indicated he would appeal the case. Wiek was then released on $2,300 bail pending review of the appeal.

Judge Piper, who was handling the docket of Judge David H. Vandenberg during the latter's illness Monday, also deferred action on four other cases until later this week when the ailing jurist is expected to be back on the bench.

Judge Piper continued until Wednesday the hearing of arguments on demurrers for Arlin Leach, 31, accused of the theft of firearms and frozen meat from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Leach, 4035 Bryant Street, Jan. 1, and Leon Pearson, 37, charged with the burglary of the residence of Cleo Williams, 710 North Third Street, last Nov. 22.

Continued until the same day was the sentencing of Joan Wood, 34, convicted earlier this month of stealing her own child who had been in the legal custody of another Klamath Falls woman.

In the other case, Judge Piper received a plea of guilty from Robert Chocktoot, charged with the burglary of a curio shop and market Jan. 3, and set Thursday, Jan. 31, as the time for sentencing in Judge Vandenberg's court. Each of the four proceedings will begin at 10 a.m.
