OBSERVE DAY — In St. Anthony's Parish Hall in Mount Shasta on Jan. 19, Mr. and Mrs. Olympia Vanni were the center of attraction as they received congratulations from over 100 friends on their golden wedding anniversary. Among the guests was his sister, Mrs. Rita Rosetto of Palo Alto, who was also present at the wedding in Northern Italy. Olympia Vanni came to this country alone in 1915 and later was joined by his wife, Louise and their two sons, Antonio and Danny. The Vannis also have four grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Doll Up That 'Stepchild' Hall

By KAY SHERWOOD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Hallways need not be the awkward stepchildren in home decorating plans. I have this observation not so much on personal progress in my own home as seeing how brightly some talented homemakers and interior designers are treating these connecting links. There is inspiration and guidance here for me.

The first point I note is to resist fiercely the inclination to let the hallway become an untidy collecting point for things belonging elsewhere. Remember, a hallway is a passageway leading from one point to another. If you persist in filling it with cartons of clothes for the rummage sale, the carpet sweeper and clothes basket and assorted toys, it soon becomes a non-passageway or stumble alley (do you read me, family?)

Our concern, secondly, is with wall and floor treatments, not old furniture which can be shoved out of sight in a hall. The old-time "hall runner" could be a pretty dismal excuse for carpeting. But you can find the 27-inch width carpeting today in good colors, textures and patterns suitable for use on stairs and hallways.

One idea which I like because it's high on color, easy to maintain and low on cost is the use of nonskid "scatter" rugs in one or more colors. The kind of rug I'm referring to (several companies make them) and am testing in a heavily used hallway between kitchen and dining room, has a urethane base permanently heat-laminated to the rug back.

This material holds the rug tight to the floor and has survived several washings and tumble dryings without deterioration. Colors are marvelous and the size range impressive. If you are yearning to splash a bit of bold color around, consider the Spanish dash in one setting of red, orange and gold rugs laid side by side in striped effect, repeating the colors of a magnificent Spanish manta (a woven wool rug or bedspread) hanging on the wall.

Hallways often offer the wall space necessary for hanging an old or modern tapestry, an arrangement of pictures or a collection of posters or prints. One homemaker I know lines her hall with family pictures—formal portraits, informal snapshots, sketches — all framed in light wood with bright red plaid mats.

If a hallway is slightly wider than the average, there may be room for bookshelves or enclosed storage. A row of storage cabinets (sliding doors) I saw recently stands about four feet high. On top of the cabinets is displayed a collection of plants in gay jardinières and botanic prints propped on easels.

Colors are marvelous and the size range impressive. If you are yearning to splash a bit of bold color around, consider the Spanish dash in one setting of red, orange and gold rugs laid side by side in striped effect, re-

Bethel 51

Newly installed Honored Queen Carole Ziegelmeyer opened her first meeting of the term for Bethel 51 International Order of Job's Daughters on Jan. 21. Substituting for absent members were Marlys Reppe, Peg Baldwin and Sue Kennon. Senior princess Linda Taylor, reported that the New Year's dance, Mardi Gras, 1963, sponsored jointly with Lost River DeMolays was very successful.

The girls were reminded they still had candy to sell and the winning sales girl would not be announced until all candy was sold.

Past Honored Queen Sue Kennon was presented with a silver dish by William Chyne on behalf of the Lost River Masonic Club.

A clever reading, "Little Boy's Pocket," was given by Pam DeLap, librarian.

APPRECIATION

Recently to show appreciation to our friends and customers we decided to give each family a set of four quality insulated mugs—something useful, rather than merely a Christmas card or calendar.

We had no way to predetermine how many mugs would be required so we set up the gifts on a "one a week" basis and placed several orders in advance, planning to have ample gifts at all times.

- Such was not the case for we ran into the following:
1. The acceptance of our gift was overwhelming—much more than we had anticipated.
 2. Upon calling the factory in Los Angeles we found they could not make extra shipments immediately.
 3. The factory did not use the carrier we requested, resulting in an extra two days for delivery on the next two shipments.
 4. Several persons were abusive to our staff when they found we were out of mugs, even though we signed their coupons allowing them to pick up their gifts at a later date.

To date we have given away nearly 8,000 mugs and we may possibly run out again this weekend, but we will still honor all initialed redemption coupons at a later date.

I sincerely apologize, on behalf of the entire crew, for any inconvenience we may have caused you, in attempting to show our appreciation to you.

P.S. The crew reports that many people have expressed appreciation, so I presume our gesture was worthwhile.

Nuptial Rites Read In Bend

SILVER LAKE—Mr. and Mrs. James E. Garrick have returned from a wedding trip to San Francisco and the California coast, and are at home at Silver Lake, where the bridegroom is employed by the forest service. The wedding was an event of Dec. 30 at First Baptist Church, Bend.

The bride, a 1962 graduate of Lakeview High School, is the former Linda Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Nelson, Silver Lake. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Garrick, Crescent. He attended Gilchrist High School.

The Rev. Ronald M. Lundy performed the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Lundy sang "Always" and "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Mrs. Morris Clark at the organ. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Joan Annette Perry, Fort Rock, was the bride's attendant and John Roseberry, Crescent, was best man.

The bride's floor-length gown was fashioned of white lace over satin. Pearl and crystal beads traced the sweetheart neckline and decorated the matching headpiece holding her fingertip veil. Her bouquet was of shattered carnations in white, accented with red. She wore a pearl necklace, gift of the bridegroom.

The maid of honor wore a ballerina-length frock of red satin, with a short white veil held by a red bow. She carried a bouquet of red and white carnations.

Debbie Hauptman, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. Her white satin dress, sashed in red, had small matching bows trimming the skirt. Her white basket held red and white carnation petals. Vallard Reed was ring bearer.

Ronald Wyatt and Robert Reed were ushers. Gary Wyatt and Fred Larson were candle lighters.

The bride's mother wore a beige sheath dress with brown accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a light brocade sheath accented with a blue velvet cummerbund and her accessories were beige. Both wore pink rosebud and carnation corsages.

At the reception in the fellowship hall of the church, Mrs. Robert Wyatt cut the wedding cake. Mrs. Lloyd Hauptman, La Grande, sister of the bridegroom, poured the coffee and Mrs. John Garrick, Crescent, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, served the punch.

Mrs. Robert Elston, Klamath Falls, sister of the bridegroom, was in charge of the guest book. Florence Martindale and Gloria Chandler, Lakeview, former classmates of the bride, presided at the gift table.

For going away the bride wore a beige walking suit with moss green accessories and a matching orchid corsage.
