Margaret lost both eyes in operations last year because of cancer. Mrs. Ramsay, wife of a retired Reno, Nev., financier, paid for the operations. When the baby suffered pain recently, Mrs. Ramsay also paid for the trip to the Mayo Clinic. A checkup showed mild anemia, but no cancer. — UPI Telephoto

Korean Dance Tour Scheduled Here

Following an engagement in San Francisco, 10 ambassadors of Korean culture will arrive Wednesday afternoon to spend three days of a four-month U.S. tour in Klamath Falls. Operating from headquarters in the Cascade Hotel, the Korean Classical Dance Troupe will make local radio and television appearances and give one performance in Mills Auditorium at 8 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 9.

The six women and four men, accompanied by a band of 12 musicians, will be competing with other leading artists to qualify to represent their county and are considered Korea's most outstanding dancers and musicians. Performing many native dances originated over 2,000 years ago, the troupe presents only authentic and traditional Korean art and culture in music, dance, and costume.

Korean dances are classified into four main groups, and several dances from each classification will be included in the program. Ritual dances and royal dances are known as classical dances and are inseparably connected with Korean royal or ritual music. They require noble costumes and a rather slow tempo, giving a feeling of piety.

Most of the other Korean dances belong to the common people's native dance category. Characterized by quick tempo and a variety of actions, these allow the dancers to express in detail emotions and feelings peculiar to the Korean people, without the restrictions of ornate costumes.

Modernized dances are a mixture of these three and modern ideas, showing novel ideas and new tastes of the people.

Sponsored by the May 16 National Scholarship Fund, the troupe is touring the United States to raise funds to provide college educations for top-ranking Korean students in need of financial assistance. It was invited to this country by Brigham Young University in an attempt to better acquaint Americans with Asian customs and culture, and is sponsored locally by the First Ward, LDS Church.

Prejudice Affidavits Overruled

Two affidavits filed by the district attorney which charge that Circuit Court Judge David R. Vandenberg is prejudiced in the cases of the State of Oregon vs. Leon Pearson and Arlin Lee Rich, both indicted on charges of burglary, were overruled by the judge during brief and somewhat tranquil proceedings in circuit court Monday.

The setting was considerably subdued Monday as Judge Vandenberg announced the circuit court in session and read his ruling before district attorney Dale Crabtree and the attorney representing the defendants.

"The court feels it has no prejudice against Dale Crabtree, as it has stated in the past," the judge declared. "Neither is the court prejudiced against the State of Oregon, of which it is a part, as this court has also previously stated," the judge said further.

He then set 10 a.m., Friday, Feb. 8 as the time he would hear arguments on demurrers filed by the attorney for Pearson and Rich.

The tranquility of the proceedings in which Judge Vandenberg announced his ruling was in contrast to a stormy scene in circuit court Friday when the judge heard arguments on the affidavits from Bob Thomas, representing the district attorney, and the attorney defending Rich and Pearson.

The defense attorney had argued that the charges of prejudice were "sham, frivolous, and represented an attack upon the court," a charge denied by the deputy district attorney.

The two defendants were indicted by the Klamath County grand jury Jan. 9 on two unrelated cases of burglary in a dwelling.

Rich is charged with the alleged theft of a pistol, rifle, and a tub of meat from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Leach, 4035 Bryant Street, while Pearson is accused of the burglary of the Cleo Williams residence, 710 North Third Street, last Dec. 22.

'DENNIS THE MENACE' Tempers Flare At Hearing On Bill To Limit Horse, Dog Race Tracks

"SURE, I'LL GO WITH YA. WHERE'S FLORIDA?"

Dog Racing Track Application Denied

PORTLAND (UPI)—The Oregon Racing Commission Monday denied a controversial application for a dog racing track near Wilsonville on the grounds that there was no public demand for it.

Approval for the proposed $22-million all-weather greyhound racing plant and convention center had been sought by Western Racing Circuit Co., headed by former Portland Meadows Racetrack operator David K. Funk.

The commission emphasized that its denial was not a personal reflection on Funk.

The decision apparently killed all plans for any additional tracks in the Portland metropolitan area. Funk's plan had been opposed by religious groups, some legislators and county officials and the operators of Portland Meadows and Multnomah Kennel Club, who contended there wasn't enough betting money for another track in the area.

Shortly after the commission acted, Funk released a statement accepting the verdict, but adding, "Clackamas County has lost a fine facility and we have lost an opportunity to risk an investment of $22 million in Oregon."

The commission's decision came after it reviewed testimony at an eight-hour public hearing in Portland Friday.

Referring to Funk, the commission said: "His operation of Portland Meadows was licensed by this commission in 1961 and for a number of prior years and he has always conducted himself and his

Tempers Flare At Hearing On Bill To Limit Horse, Dog Race Tracks

SALEM (UPI)—A hearing on a racing bill that generated shouting and gavel-pounding Monday will continue next week despite elimination of its chief target, Rep. Edward Whelan, D-Portland, said today.

The chairman of the House Planning and Development Committee spoke shortly after the State Racing Commission denied David Funk's application to build a dog track at Wilsonville in Clackamas County.

The committee is holding hearings on a bill to limit horse and dog racing tracks in Oregon. The bill had been directed specifically at stopping the Wilsonville plan.

Six of the committee members are among 35 sponsors of the bill. "I am convinced the committee still wants to push this bill through to bar any future efforts like this," Whelan said.

The shouts and accusations broke out Monday while Archie Weinstein of Eugene was testifying before the committee.

Weinstein at first identified himself as "just a citizen," but later admitted he was associated with Funk.

Weinstein said the bill was aimed at "perpetuating a monopoly" on horse and dog racing in Multnomah County.

He scoffed at the fact the bill had 35 sponsors, saying it was easy to get legislators to put their names on a bill.

"I protest this type of testimony in a manner consistent with commission standards. The fact that he is currently a licensee of the Arizona and Florida commissions, plus the fact that he has the support of many qualified persons, including the governor of Arizona, should be ample evidence of his moral stature and personal integrity."

FBI Grabs Third Man In Shooting

WEST NEW YORK, N.J. (UPI)—The FBI Monday night arrested the third man wanted in connection with the fatal shootings of a woman and child in Boston Saturday during a gunbattle with police.

R. W. Boehman, head of the Newark FBI office, said Salvatore Balliro, 26, of Rosindale, Mass., was arrested without a struggle in an apartment here at 15 64th St. He was accompanied by a cousin, Joseph Balliro, a Boston attorney.

Balliro was to be arraigned today before U.S. Commissioner M. Lester Lynch in Jersey City, N.J., on a charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for murder. The FBI said the murder warrant was obtained by Boston police.

Balliro, his brother, Rocco, a 27-year-old escaped convict, and Albert Ciocco, 33, fought a gunbattle with police when they burst into the apartment of Mrs. Toby Z. Wagner, 21, in Boston's Roxbury section late Saturday.

Mrs. Wagner and her son, Mark, 2, were wounded fatally in the gun fight. Police were assigned to guard the woman after she reported Rocco Balliro had threatened her life.

The three gunmen fled after the shooting but Ciocco was captured by police when they crashed in Boston's Back Bay district. Rocco Balliro surrendered Sunday in Everett, Mass. He also was accompanied at the time by his lawyer cousin, Joseph Balliro.

Mrs. Mary Adams, Mrs. Wagner's sister-in-law, told police she saw Rocco Balliro shoot down Mrs. Wagner and her son. The shooting took place in Mrs. Adams' apartment.

Rocco Balliro, who escaped last month from Bristol County Jail in New Bedford, Mass., told police he was living with Mrs. Wagner in Chelsea while her husband, Bernard, was in Concord Reformatory for a narcotics law violation.

Rocco Balliro and Ciocco appeared Monday in Boston before District Court Judge Elwood S. McKenney, who ordered innocent pleas entered for them on double murder charges. They were held without bail for a hearing Feb. 11.

Crash Laid To Altimeter

OCALA, Fla. (UPI)—Authorities said Monday a faulty altimeter may have caused the crash of a private plane in which a socialite artist, Mrs. Patricia Widener, and her personal pilot were killed.

There was speculation the device, which measures altitude, possibly misled pilot Robert G. Staab, 40, into flying closer to the ground than he realized.

The twin-engine Aero Commander crashed about 15 miles south-east of here during a rainstorm Sunday night. It appeared to have snagged a high tree sticking out of dense scrub underbrush and slammed into the ground only eight miles from the airport where it was to land.

The bodies of Mrs. Widener, 33, some of whose paintings are in the collection of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, and Staab were found late Monday afternoon. Both had been thrown clear of the plane, which apparently burned after it crashed.

Mrs. Widener's husband, millionaire sportsman and politician Peter A. B. Widener III, learned at his 500-acre Live Oak plantation near here that his wife had been found dead. Earlier, he had taken part in a big air-land search.

Schick Wins By Landslide

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI)—Mounting returns from Sunday's presidential election indicated a landslide victory today for Rene Schick, President Luis A. Somoza's hand-picked successor.

With about 35 per cent of the vote counted, Liberal standard-bearer Schick was running 12-1 ahead of Diego M. Chamorro, candidate of the traditional Conservative party.

The new president will be inaugurated May 1.

Observers from the Organization of American States who served as poll watchers said the voting appeared to be orderly in most cases, although one observer said authorities appeared to be lax in enforcing regulations providing for a secret ballot.

Alturas High Prom Planned

ALTURAS—Students of the junior class of Modoc Union High School are now making plans for their senior prom to be held Feb. 11 in the social hall at the high school. Dancing from 9 p.m. to midnight will feature music by Earl Stull and the Rhythmers.

According to the dance chairman, Robert Hetherwick, the theme for this year's dance will be Three Coins in a Fountain and it is formal. The dance committee is made up of Hetherwick, Betty Clark, Lois Wickenden, David Starr and Mildred Lorimore.

Jackie Sees Top Comedy

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jacqueline Kennedy Monday night came, saw and conquered both the audience and the cast of a hit Broadway comedy about the zany antics of a Roman slave.

The first lady, in town for a three-day visit, at one point became directly involved with the activities on the other side of the footlights.

Comedian Zero Mostel, in the role of the slave, told one actor to flee to the ocean. He announced that he himself would head for the hills. Then pointing directly at Mrs. Kennedy, Mostel ad libbed with a grin.

"And you to the White House." The unexpected rib galvanized the audience into roars of delight and laughter and prolonged applause.

Mostel said afterward his White House reference was strictly a spur of the moment impulse.

"She's a marvelous audience—she applauds, she laughs, she's human," the actor enthused about the first lady.

Mrs. Kennedy's arrival at the Alvin Theater where the play, "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" is running, evoked the cheers and applause of other playgoers.

Outside only a handful of people waited in the freezing night air for a look at the President's wife who was clad in a glistening black dress and a dark, full-length fur coat.

She was accompanied by her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill of London, and her brother-in-law, Prince Stanislaus Radziwill.

Chairmen Selected

Chairmen to head nine committees for the Shasta View Grange were named during one of two regular meetings held by the grange during January, according to publicity chairman Marylou Lindsay.

Mattie Green was selected to head two committees, including Girl Scouts and youth. The seven other chairmen and their posts were Jack Reitmeyer, agriculture; Edith Ward, home economics; Fannie Gervair, relief; R. A. Brackman, legislation; Marylou Lindsay, publicity; Deola Wryn, hospitality; Jack Reitmeyer, drill captain.

At the Jan. 18 meeting, past master pins were presented to Clyde 'Hap' Caldwell, Ray Brackman and Jack Reitmeyer.

Bob Beach, representing the Planning Commission, answered questions and presented information in regard to the proposed zoning plans. The obligation was given to seven new members, including Mr. and Mrs. Homer Stiles, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lundsten, Rae Fowler, and Nettie Dalton and Earl King. Potluck dessert was served at the close of the meetings.

Refreshment committees will be named at the next meeting.

In other business, the grange decided to sponsor another scout loop (No. 29).

According to estimates, there are 700,000 mail boxes in the United States for the pickup of mail.
