

Girl Friend Refuses To Be Piano Mover

By ANN LANDERS
Dear Ann Landers: My boy friend was over last night and we were sitting on the sofa watching TV. He accidentally brushed his head with his arm and my earring fell off. It rolled under the piano which was a few feet away.

I asked him to please move the piano and get my earring. He said, "It's less dangerous, physically, for a woman to move a piano than for a man." He refused to budge.

For your information, Ann, he is a 160-pound construction worker and I happen to know he handles a sledge-hammer that weighs almost as much as my piano. I told him I didn't think his attitude was very gentlemanly. He claims any doctor will tell you that women have stronger constitutions than men and they live longer. He said I should move the piano myself.

What do you have to say about this, Ann Landers?—MYRTLE
Dear Myrtle: HAVE YOU EVER seen a lady piano-mover?

Dear Ann Landers: I'm in the Navy, aboard the USS Enterprise. I've never asked for advice through the mails before and I'm surprised that I'm doing it now, but I need help.

My girl is driving me crazy. She wants to get married when I get my next shore leave. I'm 21 and have one year and eight months of service ahead of me. I want to wait until I can assume the financial responsibilities of a husband.

The girl's parents are in favor of a wedding now. They say the separations wouldn't be so hard on her if we were married. I say they'd be worse. My parents think I should wait, but they are willing to go along with anything I decide.

I love this girl and I don't want to lose her. Her last letter said "Now or never." Help me, please.—NO COMPASS
Dear No Compass: STICK TO your battle station, Sailor. If the girl really loves you she'll wait. If she doesn't want to wait then you haven't lost a great deal.

Your reasoning is mature and sound. Hers is juvenile.

Dear Ann Landers: We were married in 1933. Times were tough and we had to scratch every penny. We weathered the storm, had four nice children and things got better. Then the war came and my husband's business boomed.

Three of our children are through college and doing nicely. Our youngest son will graduate in June. My husband refuses to build me a nice home or even

UN Science Meet Opens In Geneva

GENEVA (UPI) — Delegates from 87 United Nations countries opened a 16-day meeting Monday on ways of increasing and streamlining aid to underdeveloped nations.

The meeting, which was the largest of its kind ever held, began in the hall of the U. N.'s European headquarters here. More than 2,000 delegates were on hand for the opening plenary session.

U. N. Secretary General Thant, scheduled to open the conference, canceled his regrets that illness had forced him to postpone his trip. But in an opening address read for him by Philippe de Seynes, U. N. undersecretary for economic and social affairs, he called for "a spirit of humility" in the work of the conference.

"We suspect that science and its applications may be the major instrument of change in the contemporary world," Thant said. "We know at least that it is one of the principal agents of modern history. Yet we have not given sufficient thought to the relationship between science and society."

President Kennedy, in a message to the conference read by U. S. delegation head Dr. Walsh McDermott, said the United States had come to Geneva "to learn, to share experiences and to probe jointly with the other delegations the great opportunity which we all share to seize on the technological achievements of the industrialized world and reshape them for the benefit of the newly developing nations."

A message from Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said "I hope that this conference will mark an important event in the historic process of pooling all efforts of mankind to speed up the economic and social progress of nations which have liberated themselves from imperialist oppression."

Khrushchev said "the final liquidation of colonialism, the ending of the 'cold war,' general and complete disarmament and the strengthening of peace among nations will be a gigantic boost to the development of mankind."

The curb on tax deductions is the big revenue-producing feature of Kennedy's tax cut and reform bill. The proposal would cut $2.3 billion from the nearly $11 billion in individual tax rate reductions.

Public hearings on the bill by the House Ways & Means Committee are scheduled to begin Wednesday with Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon as the first witness.

Deduction Cut Faces Tough Row

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Strong congressional opposition was developing today to President Kennedy's proposed cut in tax deduction for such items as church contributions and medical bills.

The curb on tax deductions is the big revenue-producing feature of Kennedy's tax cut and reform bill. The proposal would cut $2.3 billion from the nearly $11 billion in individual tax rate reductions.

Public hearings on the bill by the House Ways & Means Committee are scheduled to begin Wednesday with Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon as the first witness.

Brown Asks California Legislature For Moratorium On Death Penalty

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown today asked the Legislature for just over $100 million during fiscal 1963-64 for the state department of corrections and youth authority.

Due to a big reduction in capital outlay in the corrections department, the request was some $10.5 million below last year's.

The governor requested a shade under $81 million to operate the Department of Corrections — an increase of $5.1 million from the million to operate the Youth Authority, up $1.3 million.

The number of inmates in adult correctional institutions, meanwhile, was expected to increase to 27,505 next year, up from the 25,500 estimated for the end of this fiscal year. This inmate gain of 7.9 per cent was compared to an increase of 9.1 per cent in the operating budgetary request for the corrections department.

just under $3 million, the lowest amount in several years and well below the $20.5 million expended last year.

However, the youth authority was allotted $10.7 million for capital outlay up about $600,000 from last year.

The Klamath Valley Art Association will sell Valentine party favors, center pieces, and boutonnieres on Saturday, Feb. 9, at the downtown Safeway Store, Eighth and High streets. The sale of articles made by the group will run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Proceeds will be used to finance educational field trips this summer.

Ask a Stickleback how he likes the water

Who knows water better than a fish?

The fish we employ as water experts are tiny Sticklebacks. They pay them liberally in brine-shrimp, no salary deductions.

It's all because we use millions of gallons of water daily in our refineries. After use, it is treated with algae, bacteria, chemicals, sunshine and oxygen, to make sure the water is clean and pure when we return it to stream or sea.

As an ultimate safeguard, we let our Sticklebacks test the water, before it is released. If they like it, we know it will be happy water for any fish.

The object is to keep our streams and coastal waters pollution-free with abundant fish to nibble your hooks, and clean playgrounds for your water sports.

Many other industries which depend upon water are equally careful. Our common concern is to protect a priceless heritage.

Planning ahead to serve you better
