MOSCOW (UPI) — The Russians pushed a propaganda campaign today against the spread of Western nuclear weapons, particularly to World War II enemies Germany and Japan.

Expressed fears that the new Franco-German treaty may open the way for nuclear arms for West Germany inspired tough Soviet protests, against the pact this week.

Similar worries appeared the basis for the Kremlin's objection to U.S. nuclear-powered submarines calling at Japanese ports. A Soviet statement delivered in Tokyo warned that Russia would take appropriate "defensive measures" against military preparations near its frontiers.

The official news agency Tass directed some of its propaganda fire at the Canadian crisis caused by the nuclear issue. Tass claimed the U.S. government worked for the fall of Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's government in Ottawa because of American desires to have Canadian armed forces equipped with nuclear weapons.

One of the most persistent fears expressed by Russia since World War II has been the rebirth of German militarism that has sent armies deep into Soviet territory twice in this century. Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev repeatedly has complained that NATO military preparations encourage the West Germans to seek revenge for their defeats.

Soviet notes to Bonn and Paris Tuesday stressed the military aspects of the historic Franco-German treaty signed Jan. 22.

Hanks Death Reported

LAKEVIEW—Wilson Hanks, 66, former resident of Lake County, died at Escalon, Calif., Feb. 5. He was born at Salem, Utah, April 17, 1896, came to Lakeview in 1938, and moved to California about ten years ago.

Survivors include his wife, Elsie M. Hanks of Escalon, Calif.; three sons, Alden Keele Hanks and Calvin K. Hanks of Lakeview, and Mylo K. Hanks of Medford; two daughters, Mrs. Carl Peay of Lakeview and Mrs. J. A. Blackburn of Vale; two stepsons, Kenneth Biggs of Lakeview and Harold Biggs of Escalon; and 14 grandchildren.

Crop Signup Date Noted

LAKEVIEW—Farmers are reminded that the signups for 1963 barley and wheat in spring wheat areas are now being taken and will end March 22, said Bill Moser, county extension agent.

Again, as in previous years, farmers may divert, on a voluntary basis, acres planted to wheat and feed grains. By voluntarily planting crops other than feed grains and wheat, farmers can qualify for price supports to help offset the income loss as a result of not planting these grains.

Farmers must divert all the acres they sign up for to be eligible for any price support this year. In other words, if a farmer signs up to take 40 acres out of production and only actually takes 35 acres out of production, he will not be eligible for any price supports or diversion payments.

Advance payments will be available at the time of signup. Final payments will only be made under the diversion program after it has been determined that the farmer has followed the program as outlined.

A voluntary program such as this can help to reduce abundant supplies of wheat and certain feed grains and at the same time stabilize the economy of farm communities where grain farmers do business.

Farmers are urged to get in touch with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service county office for additional details about the 1963 feed grain and wheat programs.

Beef Sale Raises Cash For Merrill Scoreboard

MERRILL—The junior class at Merrill High School is busy making "Don't Be a Cannibal, Eat Beef" signs in connection with the latest project to raise money for an electric scoreboard for the football field. Tickets are now on sale for half a beef, and the winning ticket will be drawn Friday, Feb. 15, at the Merrill-Bonanza basketball game at Merrill. Ticket holders do not have to be present to win.

The junior class has selected the scoreboard, which will cost from $1,200 to $1,400, as their gift to the school. They hope to have it up by next football season.

Another fund raising project the class is working on is selling cakes at ball games. Future projects include selling Husky key chains, ear washes this summer and trap shoots. The junior-senior prom is also expected to show a profit for the junior class.

Limit On Class Size Talked In California

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A powerful group of state senators was preparing legislation today that would set a limit on the number of students in a public school class.

A spokesman for the group, who declined to be identified, said that the men had not yet settled on a limit, but that they were consulting various studies and suggestions.

The legislation was certain to cause a furor in public schools, where many administrators are already angry at a legislative attempt to cut class sizes by requiring the schools to spend more money for teachers.

The legislature made its attempt two years ago when it passed a bill requiring elementary districts to spend 50 per cent of their income on teachers' salaries. High school districts were required to spend 30 per cent and unified districts 35 per cent.

The bill's author, Assemblyman Charles B. Garrigus, D-Redwood, said that he believed the schools were underfunded for teachers, not because of a fund shortage but because they were spending too much on administrators and other non-teaching employees.

This is the same opinion held by the senators who are preparing the new legislation. However, they believe that their approach will clamp down on administrative costs even harder than the old Garrigus bill, which they supported.

Actually, according to Garrigus, his bill has not been in effect a full year because of technical delays in the start of its operation. However, legislation has been introduced in the current session to repeal it.

Sen. Donald Grunsky, R-Watsonville, author of the repeal, said that because of the Garrigus bill many school districts were being forced to cut expenditures for instructional supplies, books and "enrichment" materials, postpone maintenance, and curtail or reduce the number of librarians.

Sullivan is scheduled to begin his prison term Feb. 25.

Trips Bend Man

PORTLAND (UPI)—Bend accountant Richard J. Sullivan, 36, was sentenced to 60 days in prison and fined $1,000 by Federal Judge John F. Kilkenny Wednesday for failing to file tax returns in 1958 and 1959 on $37,323 gross income.

"What points up the seriousness of this case is the position the defendant held in Bend as one of its outstanding citizens and accountants," the judge said. He said he took Sullivan's "fine service record and his record in the community" into consideration in determining the sentence.

Sullivan is scheduled to begin his prison term Feb. 25.

Screening Of Nursing Home Patients Urged

SALEM (UPI)—State Welfare Administrator Andrew F. Juras called Wednesday for careful screening of welfare nursing home patients in order to assure fair treatment while staying within the welfare budget.

He also urged local administrators to work with doctors to prevent welfare recipients from making "more trips to the doctor's office than may be necessary."

Juras spoke at the opening of a two-day meeting with county administrators from throughout the state.

He commended the county departments for prompt processing of medical care for the aged.

cases, good casework, efficient handling of funds, and good cooperation with local governments on work relief.

Juras stressed rehabilitation in his talk.

He emphasized preventive services to get families back to self-support as quickly as possible.

Juras said "case classification," which began a pilot program in Jackson and Multnomah counties, shows promise. It involves a system of determining problems in individual family cases in an attempt to lead to quicker rehabilitation.

Juras said the program will be extended to other counties in the near future if the legislature approves the agency's budget requests.
