

ARTHUR WHITTEMORE and JACK LOWE

Piano Team Scheduled By Community Concert

Arthur Whittemore and Jack Lowe, who will appear here Feb. 25 on the Community Concert series, have run up a record of achievement in every medium open to the duo-pianist's art. Now at the pinnacle of their prestige and popularity, the team is universally acknowledged as one of the best-known and best-liked two piano teams before the public today.

As recitalists, they are veterans of many highly successful New York appearances, and each year they cross the American continent filling solidly-booked itineraries of engagements. During the current season their tours take them from Miami to San Francisco.

Attendance is by membership ticket only at Mills School Auditorium.

Pinball Law Draws Slap

PORTLAND (UPI)—Multnomah County Sheriff Donald Clark said today the legislature should do something about pinball machine laws which he described as "unenforceable."

Clark, who disclosed his deputies raided two taverns during the weekend for allegedly paying off on free games, said obtaining evidence is a difficult and expensive job.

"If I put every man I had into this investigation with every dime we could muster, we still couldn't control the machines," he said.

He said he believed the present Oregon statute on pinballs was "hypocritical" and that the legislature "should either say the state will tolerate this device or label it contraband."

Pinball machines do not operate in Portland, but do in the county outside the city limits.

Tight, New Drug Rules Start Soon

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Starting April 1, drug manufacturers will be subject to new government regulations designed to give additional protection to the public.

The Food and Drug Administration announced the tighter new regulations Tuesday night. They stem in part from last year's thalidomide scare.

The new regulations would:

- Require manufacturers to prove a new drug is not only safe but effective before they could get FDA approval for its use.
- Forbid misleading or false labeling and advertising by drug makers.
- Require drug manufacturers, processors and packagers to register with the FDA each year and to undergo FDA inspection at least once every two years.

The new regulations were drawn up under amendments approved by Congress last year to the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act after deformed babies were born to mothers who took thalidomide.

A FDA spokesman explained that under the old law, only the safety of drugs had to be proved to win government approval.

The new regulations require "clinical data must be adequate to support a reasonable conclusion that the drug will be safe and that it will have its intended therapeutic effects," he said.

Some clinical testing also must take place in the United States unless the disease to be treated does not occur in this country.

After approval, manufacturers would be required to report to the FDA periodically on the actual effect of the drug on humans, including immediate reports of unexpected side effects or failures.

The final printed label must be submitted before the new drug is approved. All new advertisements and mailed promotional information on prescription drugs must be submitted to the FDA.

All labels must be worded as clearly as possible, the FDA said. The regulations crack down on "artificial word-smithing," fancy but meaningless names, mention of inactive ingredients and use of trade names whose spelling or pronunciation might lead to confusion with established trade names.

Psychiatric Care Awaits Cliff Girl

BOSTON (UPI)—Suzanne Clift, 21, niece of actor Montgomery Clift, awaiting the birth of the child of the man she admitted shooting to death, today began intensive, long-term psychiatric treatment.

Miss Clift, five months pregnant, escaped imprisonment Tuesday when she pleaded guilty to a manslaughter charge in the shooting death last Sept. 30 of Piero B. Brentani, 27, her Italian-Swiss boyfriend.

Superior Court Judge Lewis Goldberg placed her on probation for 10 years with the stipulation that she voluntarily commit herself to the Massachusetts Mental Health Center until doctors decide she is ready to take her place in society.

Miss Clift previously was charged with murder, Brentani's nude body, a .22 caliber bullet in the head, was found in her padlocked bedroom of the exclusive Beacon Hill townhouse she shared with her socialite grandmother.

Her lawyer, Claude B. Cross, said that Suzanne "wants to have the baby—it's all that's left of Piero."

Following the hearing, Suzanne said the ruling "will give me a chance to be with my baby after it comes."

"I expect the baby early in June and I'm living for the day it comes. It will be the first thing in my life that will be truly mine. It's the first thing I've ever cared for."

"The judge has given me the first chance I ever had for a real life," she said.

Mathews Heads Devil Pup Program

The Klamath County Marine Corps League recently elected John Mathews, city fire department captain, as chairman of the league's Devil Pup Screening Committee at the group's meeting last week.

Other committee members elected were Willys Solis, three-year term; Sid Allen, two-year term; Lawrence Mitchell, one-year term, and "Swede" L. W. Harroun, one-year term.

The committee will accept applications from the league members for boys between the ages of 15 and 17 and choose youths to be sent to Camp Pendleton to participate in a 10-day Devil Pup program. The program emphasizes character building and body building in a typical atmosphere of strict Marine discipline.

Six boys attended the camp last year and the local league will be able to send 10 this summer.
