Cuban Subversion Top Problem, Says Kennedy

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Kennedy has set the task of lessening Communist subversion from Cuba and other parts of Latin America as "our primary mission for the hemisphere this winter." The President told his news conference Thursday that Cuba has been shipping men and perhaps money to other Latin American countries for subversive purposes. Kennedy said that 1,200 students from Latin America went to Cuba last year. He added, "I am sure a good many of them were politically indoctrinated; some of them obviously were given training in more direct forms of political action."

Scout Picked For Report To Hatfield

Explorer Scout Ken Galloway, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne K. Galloway, 1334 Johnson Avenue, has been chosen to make a special report today, Feb. 15, to Gov. Mark Hatfield on the highlights of Oregon's 1962 scout activities. Galloway, a member of Post 43, Klamath Lutheran Church, will represent the five Oregon scout councils in Salem. Explorer Jack Hutchins of Post 21, First Methodist Church, Bend, will give the Modoc Area Council report. The Modoc Area Council was top council in Oregon in the Henry Gellert Award "500" Club competition. Modoc scored 365 points in the competition based on membership gains, scouting gains and gains in Boys Life subscriptions. Dr. George D. Massey, Modoc Area Council president, was presented with an engraved silver plate at a ceremony in Portland in January for this achievement. Explorers Jack Thomas of Post 43 and Paul Kanitz of Post 44, T3 Tulelake, will also travel in Salem today to take part in an Order of Arrow state conference. The Rev. Irm Hawley of the First Congregational Church will travel as adviser for the group.

Ray Hunsaker Attends Meet

Ray Hunsaker, superintendent of schools in Klamath Falls and president of the Oregon Association of School Administrators, will travel to Atlantic City tonight, Feb. 15, to attend the annual American Association of School Administrators convention Feb. 16 to 20. As president of the Oregon association, Hunsaker will be one of two voting state delegates at the national convention. The theme of this year's convention is "School Administration Keeps Pace with Space." The more than 10,000 convention delegates will discuss issues of national importance and listen to such speakers as nationally known news commentator Drew Pearson.

Scheduled for discussion are the following subjects: The potato plant and how it grows; Dr. John McLean, extension potato specialist, and potato fertility problems in Tulelake, including minor element studies, sprays, etc.; Dr. Herman Timm, Department of Vegetable Crops, and discussion of potato diseases and effects; Dr. Dennis Hall, extension plant pathologist. All speakers are from the University of California, Davis.

Dies In South

MERRILL - Mrs. Marjorie Luster has returned from San Diego to make her home following the death of her son, Gerald Frank Luster, 18, who was killed in a traffic accident as he was en route to Merrill on leave from the Navy. Young Luster was changing a tire on the highway when struck by a passing truck. He attended Merrill High School before going into the service.

Trouble Predicted For Budget Cut As House Yields To Local Pressure

SALEM (UPI) - The Ways and Means Committee today lost a vote of confidence in the Oregon House to local pressure. It boded troubles ahead for the committee's budget slashing attempts. The House voted 32-27 to send the state engineer's budget back to committee so that farmers and other groups can request restoration of money for soil and watershed planning. The committee, which is charged with passing judgment on Gov. Mark Hatfield's $405 million budget, had lopped $105,000 from the proposed $1,097,000 budget for the state engineer. Most of the cut came in planning money. Rep. Cornelius Bateson, D - Salem, a farmer, said he received heavy protests from constituents who should be given the "courtesy" of being heard. Rep. Clinton Haight, D - Baker, agreed, and said if the bill comes back again with the cut still in it he will "reluctantly" support it. Rep. Ross Morgan, D - Gresham, co-chairman of Ways and Means, explained sending the bill back and noted the House was setting a precedent. "There will be budgets one right after another with this kind of cut," he said. Rep. Stafford Hansell, R - Hermiston, a member of Ways and Means, said the committee had explained the budget and determined the money could better be spent elsewhere. He urged the House to pass the bill instead of sending it back. "We know we will have many people on our backs," he said. But "in view of the financial condition of our state," Ways and Means must make some hard cuts. The vote did not follow party lines. Rather, it indicated Ways

Jones Tells Of Fear During Shooting Fray

"I was afraid she was going to kill me with the ice pick," Royal Jones, 37, told a jury in circuit court Thursday as he related the events of the pistol shooting in which he wounded his wife, Johnnie Mae, 28, twice in the shoulder and once in the head in their home at 300 1/2 Broad Street, last Dec. 18. Jones, on trial for assault with a dangerous weapon, told a story substantially different from that of his wife, who testified during the opening day of the trial last Monday. The defendant gave testimony that the shooting occurred seconds after Johnnie Mae struck him on the head and then on the shoulder with an ice pick in the living room of their home. Johnnie Mae related earlier in the trial that Jones had used a pistol to batter a window in front of the house and then discharged the gun at her through the broken window. The shooting developed as Jones returned home after being away for several hours and was refused admittance to the home by Johnnie Mae, according to testimony of the defendant and his wife. From that point the stories vary with Jones maintaining that Johnnie Mae let him into the house and attacked him with an ice pick while Mrs. Jones accused the defendant of being the aggressor in the shooting which allegedly developed on the front porch of the Broad Street house. Fear of "being killed" by Johnnie Mae with either an ice pick or a gun was the substance of testimony by Jones late yesterday.

Man Caught Inside Home

A 19-year-old Klamath Falls man who was placed on probation Thursday, Feb. 14, in Circuit Judge Donald A. W. Piper's court for burglaries at a curio shop and market on Jan. 3, was arrested last night on charges of burglary after he was found at the Erven Savio residence, 5359 Shasta Way. Savio came home about 10:30 p.m. to find Robert Leon Checktoot in the house with two of Savio's watches and a pearl ring in his pockets. When police arrived at the scene they found a guitar and camera outside the house that were apparently taken from the nearby Rosetta Crain residence, 1650 Homedale Road. Checktoot is lodged in the city jail awaiting transfer to the county jail. State police commented that Checktoot made a general mess at both of the homes as he apparently rummaged around looking for valuables. On the night of Jan. 3 he took a purse and picture from Ralph's Curio Shop, 1030 Main Street and broke into the Unique Market, 129 South Ninth Street. A neighbor heard Checktoot crashing into bottles and shelves at the market and called police. Police discovered Checktoot hiding in a back room at the store.

Jefferson Named PPL Line Chief

Dale Jefferson, formerly of Medford, has been appointed district line superintendent for Pacific Power & Light Company's Klamath Falls district, according to Sam Rütche, Klamath Falls district manager. The former Medford assistant line superintendent succeeds Roy Rols, who was advanced to a post of increased responsibility in the Portland division system of PPL&L. Jefferson began his career with Pacific Power in 1936 in the former California-Oregon Power Company. He served as line foreman in both the Yreka and Roseburg districts prior to being promoted to assistant line superintendent in the Medford district. Jefferson served in the U.S. Navy Seabees for two and one-half years during World War II. Jefferson has been in the Eagles since 1936 and active in the Elks and Lions clubs since 1946. He is married and has two daughters and two sons, one at Southern Oregon College. The three younger children are now in Klamath Falls schools.

London's Fire

The Great Fire of London started early on the morning of Sept. 2, 1666, in Pudding Lane at the home of John Farynor, the King's baker, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica. The comment of the other gun came in that part of the testimony in which Jones admitted he shot the victim and then pursued her to the rear of the house. Jones said the other weapon was kept in the children's bedroom. "I followed her back to the bedroom because I thought she was getting that gun to kill me
