Underground Lines Slated

PORTLAND (UPI) — Portland General Electric Co. plans to increase the size of its Portland area with underground electric wires.

The firm said it planned a 10-year, multi-million dollar program that would more than double the size of the present underground wiring area in downtown Portland.

Budget Battle Opens In California Legislature

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The annual battle of the budget opened Tuesday in California's legislature.

Right away, an opening shot was propelled at plans for a state withholding tax backed by Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown. "It is the least desirable of the proposals he has made," said A. Alan Post, legislative analyst, the legislature's watchdog on state spending.

But he hastened to say that in his annual review of the governor's $3.2 spending program Post had taken no formal recommendation one way or the other on withholding.

Post made his comments before the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, which met to organize for its annual review of the budget. Chairman Robert W. Crown announced plans for subcommittee meetings to make an item-by-item review of the huge spending plan.

A second potshot was taken at the administration by Assemblyman Charles Conrad, R-Sherman Oaks, the lower chamber's minority floor leader.

"The thing that bothers me is that a tax increase is inevitable in this program and the administration is covering up the fact that they're getting by for two years on windfalls," said Conrad.

He backed this allegation by pointing to a statement by Post in his 1,010-page budget analysis that the pay-as-you-go income tax would give the state a "one-time" pickup of about $151 million in fiscal 1964-65 and that increased state revenue could be expected from Long Beach oil fields.

But Hale Champion, state finance director, staunchly defended the money program, which Post recommended be trimmed by $98.1 million for fiscal 1963-64. Of Post, Champion said: "He would agree... that there is no difference between us in the desire to conserve the state's fiscal resources or to administer the budget economically."

He mentioned in particular the field of education, where Post's recommendation was that the administration's proposed $30 million increase in state spending for education be chopped off entirely. "The details are important," Champion told the Ways and Means Committee, "but it is the philosophy which you adopt which will govern the final difference in dollars."

Other legislative developments: Land-State Sen. Virgil O'Sullivan, D-Williams, said his proposal to eliminate the state school land fund would activate a relatively dormant fund and provide $20 million for the general fund.

Arrests—The Assembly Criminal Procedure Committee set a hearing late Tuesday on a measure requiring arrested persons to be brought before a magistrate within 48 hours.

Schools — Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, proposed legislation to permit kindergarten pupils to enroll in the first grade when school administrators believe they are ready to do so.

Tax apaiser — Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, introduced a bill to transfer jurisdiction over inheritance tax apraisers from the state control.

er's office to county assessors' office. He said it would eliminate "the last vestige of political patronage in California."
