

"DENNIS THE MENACE"

HOW DOES IT FEEL TO BUST STUFF AND NOT HAVE NOBODY YELL AT YA?

Bequest Spells Ruin For Innocent Woman

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is 68 years old. He is a respected business man with a fine reputation for community service and church work.

The doctor told him last week he must have an operation. It's nothing serious but something that should be done soon.

Ann, I almost sank through the floor. This young woman doesn't know my old goat exists. The last time he saw her was four years ago at a chamber of commerce dinner.

Ann, I almost sank through the floor. This young woman doesn't know my old goat exists. The last time he saw her was four years ago at a chamber of commerce dinner.

Ann, I almost sank through the floor. This young woman doesn't know my old goat exists. The last time he saw her was four years ago at a chamber of commerce dinner.

Ann, I almost sank through the floor. This young woman doesn't know my old goat exists. The last time he saw her was four years ago at a chamber of commerce dinner.

Ann, I almost sank through the floor. This young woman doesn't know my old goat exists. The last time he saw her was four years ago at a chamber of commerce dinner.

Ann, I almost sank through the floor. This young woman doesn't know my old goat exists. The last time he saw her was four years ago at a chamber of commerce dinner.

Ann, I almost sank through the floor. This young woman doesn't know my old goat exists. The last time he saw her was four years ago at a chamber of commerce dinner.

Ann, I almost sank through the floor. This young woman doesn't know my old goat exists. The last time he saw her was four years ago at a chamber of commerce dinner.

Ann, I almost sank through the floor. This young woman doesn't know my old goat exists. The last time he saw her was four years ago at a chamber of commerce dinner.

Ann, I almost sank through the floor. This young woman doesn't know my old goat exists. The last time he saw her was four years ago at a chamber of commerce dinner.

Ann, I almost sank through the floor. This young woman doesn't know my old goat exists. The last time he saw her was four years ago at a chamber of commerce dinner.

Ann, I almost sank through the floor. This young woman doesn't know my old goat exists. The last time he saw her was four years ago at a chamber of commerce dinner.

Ann, I almost sank through the floor. This young woman doesn't know my old goat exists. The last time he saw her was four years ago at a chamber of commerce dinner.

Ann, I almost sank through the floor. This young woman doesn't know my old goat exists. The last time he saw her was four years ago at a chamber of commerce dinner.

Ann, I almost sank through the floor. This young woman doesn't know my old goat exists. The last time he saw her was four years ago at a chamber of commerce dinner.

Ann, I almost sank through the floor. This young woman doesn't know my old goat exists. The last time he saw her was four years ago at a chamber of commerce dinner.

Community Calendar

WEDNESDAY

GREAT BOOKS DISCUSSION GROUP, 7:30 p.m., Ira Kostenbader, 1874 Melrose. "Of Civil Government" by Locke. Leader, Robert Kennedy.

HENLEY FARM BUREAU regular meeting will be held at the Henley Farm Bureau hall, Mt. Laki, 8 p.m. "Flying V Waterfowl Farm—What It Is and Will Be" talk by Richard Baldwin.

TOPS CLUB, 7:30 p.m., Meeting, Community Lounge, 118 N. 7th. Group therapy for overweight women.

MANZANITA CHAPTER NO. 172, OES 8 p.m., Meeting, Scottish Rite Temple, Honoring Master Masons.

LADIES AUXILIARY, Canton Crafer No. 7 8 p.m., Meeting, Oddfellows Hall.

RUMMAGE SALE, OSU Mothers Club, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Clyde's Towing.

FAIRVIEW PTA, 2:15 p.m., Founders Day program, School gym. Past presidents honored.

MERRY MIXERS, 8 p.m., Beginning round dance class, Merry Mixer Hall.

KLAMATH MINERAL CLUB, 7:30 p.m., Meeting, Rock auction, Klamath Auditorium.

WCS, 10 a.m. to 12 noon, Noon potluck, First Methodist Church.

Barn Destroyed

A barn filled with hay was destroyed by fire Saturday afternoon when a grass fire in a field nearby burned out of control and engulfed the structure.

The barn owned by James L. Ramsey, Route 1, Box 412, was a total loss.

Ramsey apparently was doing some burning in a field next to the barn when a wind came up and fanned the flames faster than Ramsey could beat them out.

When suburban fire department volunteers arrived at 3:30 p.m. the flames had reached the barn and were out of control.

Defense Agency Says SAC Given Cuba Reconnaissance Job

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department said today that responsibility for aerial reconnaissance of Cuba was shifted from the Central Intelligence Agency to the Strategic Air Command a day or two before last October's missile crisis.

A historic photograph of Oct. 14, showing Russian midrange ballistic missiles in Cuba, was made by an SAC reconnaissance plane ordered on the job "Oct. 12 or 13," a Pentagon spokesman said.

The spokesman insisted that "there was no conflict at any time" between the CIA and the Defense Department as to how reconnaissance should be handled over Cuba.

In the background, however, was continuing public curiosity over how the Russian missile build-up escaped detection so long.

The Pentagon spokesman refused to explain why the reconnaissance mission was shifted from the CIA to SAC.

He noted that an inquiry into the Cuban crisis was now being conducted by the Senate preparedness subcommittee headed by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss. "Let them do the investigating," the spokesman said.

He said that all during September of last year, reconnaissance flights were the responsibility of the CIA.

Questions arose from a report today in a magazine (Newsweek) that there was a deadlock between CIA and SAC over conduct of U2 observation flights over Cuba.

The magazine said that according to an account it had heard, President Kennedy's national security assistant, McGeorge Bundy, settled the deadlock by arranging for SAC to handle U2 flights.

"The very first flight thereafter produced the evidence that triggered the face-down crisis," the magazine said.

"The magazine said it was the alleged CIA-SAC dispute — "not bad weather" — that created a gap of two weeks in U.S. over-

flights and "almost enabled" the Russians to complete their missile installations undetected.

The Pentagon spokesman characterized the magazine account as "completely without foundation."

He said there was "no conflict at any time" with CIA. But he said there was a "change of authority" for over flights one or two days before the Oct. 14 picture of Russian missiles was made.

President Kennedy's national security assistant, McGeorge Bundy, settled the deadlock by arranging for SAC to handle U2 flights.

"The very first flight thereafter produced the evidence that triggered the face-down crisis," the magazine said.

"The magazine said it was the alleged CIA-SAC dispute — "not bad weather" — that created a gap of two weeks in U.S. over-

flights and "almost enabled" the Russians to complete their missile installations undetected.

The Pentagon spokesman characterized the magazine account as "completely without foundation."

He said there was "no conflict at any time" with CIA. But he said there was a "change of authority" for over flights one or two days before the Oct. 14 picture of Russian missiles was made.

President Kennedy's national security assistant, McGeorge Bundy, settled the deadlock by arranging for SAC to handle U2 flights.

"The very first flight thereafter produced the evidence that triggered the face-down crisis," the magazine said.

"The magazine said it was the alleged CIA-SAC dispute — "not bad weather" — that created a gap of two weeks in U.S. over-

flights and "almost enabled" the Russians to complete their missile installations undetected.

The Pentagon spokesman characterized the magazine account as "completely without foundation."

He said there was "no conflict at any time" with CIA. But he said there was a "change of authority" for over flights one or two days before the Oct. 14 picture of Russian missiles was made.

President Kennedy's national security assistant, McGeorge Bundy, settled the deadlock by arranging for SAC to handle U2 flights.

"The very first flight thereafter produced the evidence that triggered the face-down crisis," the magazine said.

"The magazine said it was the alleged CIA-SAC dispute — "not bad weather" — that created a gap of two weeks in U.S. over-

flights and "almost enabled" the Russians to complete their missile installations undetected.

The Pentagon spokesman characterized the magazine account as "completely without foundation."

He said there was "no conflict at any time" with CIA. But he said there was a "change of authority" for over flights one or two days before the Oct. 14 picture of Russian missiles was made.

President Kennedy's national security assistant, McGeorge Bundy, settled the deadlock by arranging for SAC to handle U2 flights.

"The very first flight thereafter produced the evidence that triggered the face-down crisis," the magazine said.

"The magazine said it was the alleged CIA-SAC dispute — "not bad weather" — that created a gap of two weeks in U.S. over-

flights and "almost enabled" the Russians to complete their missile installations undetected.

The Pentagon spokesman characterized the magazine account as "completely without foundation."

He said there was "no conflict at any time" with CIA. But he said there was a "change of authority" for over flights one or two days before the Oct. 14 picture of Russian missiles was made.

President Kennedy's national security assistant, McGeorge Bundy, settled the deadlock by arranging for SAC to handle U2 flights.

"The very first flight thereafter produced the evidence that triggered the face-down crisis," the magazine said.

"The magazine said it was the alleged CIA-SAC dispute — "not bad weather" — that created a gap of two weeks in U.S. over-

flights and "almost enabled" the Russians to complete their missile installations undetected.

The Pentagon spokesman characterized the magazine account as "completely without foundation."

He said there was "no conflict at any time" with CIA. But he said there was a "change of authority" for over flights one or two days before the Oct. 14 picture of Russian missiles was made.

President Kennedy's national security assistant, McGeorge Bundy, settled the deadlock by arranging for SAC to handle U2 flights.

"The very first flight thereafter produced the evidence that triggered the face-down crisis," the magazine said.

"The magazine said it was the alleged CIA-SAC dispute — "not bad weather" — that created a gap of two weeks in U.S. over-

flights and "almost enabled" the Russians to complete their missile installations undetected.

The Pentagon spokesman characterized the magazine account as "completely without foundation."

He said there was "no conflict at any time" with CIA. But he said there was a "change of authority" for over flights one or two days before the Oct. 14 picture of Russian missiles was made.

President Kennedy's national security assistant, McGeorge Bundy, settled the deadlock by arranging for SAC to handle U2 flights.

"The very first flight thereafter produced the evidence that triggered the face-down crisis," the magazine said.

"The magazine said it was the alleged CIA-SAC dispute — "not bad weather" — that created a gap of two weeks in U.S. over-

flights and "almost enabled" the Russians to complete their missile installations undetected.

The Pentagon spokesman characterized the magazine account as "completely without foundation."

He said there was "no conflict at any time" with CIA. But he said there was a "change of authority" for over flights one or two days before the Oct. 14 picture of Russian missiles was made.

President Kennedy's national security assistant, McGeorge Bundy, settled the deadlock by arranging for SAC to handle U2 flights.

"The very first flight thereafter produced the evidence that triggered the face-down crisis," the magazine said.

"The magazine said it was the alleged CIA-SAC dispute — "not bad weather" — that created a gap of two weeks in U.S. over-

flights and "almost enabled" the Russians to complete their missile installations undetected.

The Pentagon spokesman characterized the magazine account as "completely without foundation."

He said there was "no conflict at any time" with CIA. But he said there was a "change of authority" for over flights one or two days before the Oct. 14 picture of Russian missiles was made.

President Kennedy's national security assistant, McGeorge Bundy, settled the deadlock by arranging for SAC to handle U2 flights.

"The very first flight thereafter produced the evidence that triggered the face-down crisis," the magazine said.

"The magazine said it was the alleged CIA-SAC dispute — "not bad weather" — that created a gap of two weeks in U.S. over-

flights and "almost enabled" the Russians to complete their missile installations undetected.

The Pentagon spokesman characterized the magazine account as "completely without foundation."

He said there was "no conflict at any time" with CIA. But he said there was a "change of authority" for over flights one or two days before the Oct. 14 picture of Russian missiles was made.

President Kennedy's national security assistant, McGeorge Bundy, settled the deadlock by arranging for SAC to handle U2 flights.

"The very first flight thereafter produced the evidence that triggered the face-down crisis," the magazine said.

"The magazine said it was the alleged CIA-SAC dispute — "not bad weather" — that created a gap of two weeks in U.S. over-

flights and "almost enabled" the Russians to complete their missile installations undetected.

The Pentagon spokesman characterized the magazine account as "completely without foundation."

He said there was "no conflict at any time" with CIA. But he said there was a "change of authority" for over flights one or two days before the Oct. 14 picture of Russian missiles was made.

President Kennedy's national security assistant, McGeorge Bundy, settled the deadlock by arranging for SAC to handle U2 flights.

"The very first flight thereafter produced the evidence that triggered the face-down crisis," the magazine said.

"The magazine said it was the alleged CIA-SAC dispute — "not bad weather" — that created a gap of two weeks in U.S. over-

flights and "almost enabled" the Russians to complete their missile installations undetected.

The Pentagon spokesman characterized the magazine account as "completely without foundation."

He said there was "no conflict at any time" with CIA. But he said there was a "change of authority" for over flights one or two days before the Oct. 14 picture of Russian missiles was made.

President Kennedy's national security assistant, McGeorge Bundy, settled the deadlock by arranging for SAC to handle U2 flights.

"The very first flight thereafter produced the evidence that triggered the face-down crisis," the magazine said.

"The magazine said it was the alleged CIA-SAC dispute — "not bad weather" — that created a gap of two weeks in U.S. over-

flights and "almost enabled" the Russians to complete their missile installations undetected.

The Pentagon spokesman characterized the magazine account as "completely without foundation."

He said there was "no conflict at any time" with CIA. But he said there was a "change of authority" for over flights one or two days before the Oct. 14 picture of Russian missiles was made.

President Kennedy's national security assistant, McGeorge Bundy, settled the deadlock by arranging for SAC to handle U2 flights.

"The very first flight thereafter produced the evidence that triggered the face-down crisis," the magazine said.

"The magazine said it was the alleged CIA-SAC dispute — "not bad weather" — that created a gap of two weeks in U.S. over-

flights and "almost enabled" the Russians to complete their missile installations undetected.

The Pentagon spokesman characterized the magazine account as "completely without foundation."

He said there was "no conflict at any time" with CIA. But he said there was a "change of authority" for over flights one or two days before the Oct. 14 picture of Russian missiles was made.

President Kennedy's national security assistant, McGeorge Bundy, settled the deadlock by arranging for SAC to handle U2 flights.

"The very first flight thereafter produced the evidence that triggered the face-down crisis," the magazine said.

"The magazine said it was the alleged CIA-SAC dispute — "not bad weather" — that created a gap of two weeks in U.S. over-

flights and "almost enabled" the Russians to complete their missile installations undetected.

The Pentagon spokesman characterized the magazine account as "completely without foundation."

He said there was "no conflict at any time" with CIA. But he said there was a "change of authority" for over flights one or two days before the Oct. 14 picture of Russian missiles was made.

President Kennedy's national security assistant, McGeorge Bundy, settled the deadlock by arranging for SAC to handle U2 flights.

"The very first flight thereafter produced the evidence that triggered the face-down crisis," the magazine said.

"The magazine said it was the alleged CIA-SAC dispute — "not bad weather" — that created a gap of two weeks in U.S. over-

flights and "almost enabled" the Russians to complete their missile installations undetected.

The Pentagon spokesman characterized the magazine account as "completely without foundation."

He said there was "no conflict at any time" with CIA. But he said there was a "change of authority" for over flights one or two days before the Oct. 14 picture of Russian missiles was made.

President Kennedy's national security assistant, McGeorge Bundy, settled the deadlock by arranging for SAC to handle U2 flights.

"The very first flight thereafter produced the evidence that triggered the face-down crisis," the magazine said.

"The magazine said it was the alleged CIA-SAC dispute — "not bad weather" — that created a gap of two weeks in U.S. over-

flights and "almost enabled" the Russians to complete their missile installations undetected.

The Pentagon spokesman characterized the magazine account as "completely without foundation."

He said there was "no conflict at any time" with CIA. But he said there was a "change of authority" for over flights one or two days before the Oct. 14 picture of Russian missiles was made.

President Kennedy's national security assistant, McGeorge Bundy, settled the deadlock by arranging for SAC to handle U2 flights.

"The very first flight thereafter produced the evidence that triggered the face-down crisis," the magazine said.

"The magazine said it was the alleged CIA-SAC dispute — "not bad weather" — that created a gap of two weeks in U.S. over-

flights and "almost enabled" the Russians to complete their missile installations undetected.

The Pentagon spokesman characterized the magazine account as "completely without foundation."

He said there was "no conflict at any time" with CIA. But he said there was a "change of authority" for over flights one or two days before the Oct. 14 picture of Russian missiles was made.

President Kennedy's national security assistant, McGeorge Bundy, settled the deadlock by arranging for SAC to handle U2 flights.

"The very first flight thereafter produced the evidence that triggered the face-down crisis," the magazine said.

"The magazine said it was the alleged CIA-SAC dispute — "not bad weather" — that created a gap of two weeks in U.S. over-

flights and "almost enabled" the Russians to complete their missile installations undetected.

The Pentagon spokesman characterized the magazine account as "completely without foundation."

He said there was "no conflict at any time" with CIA. But he said there was a "change of authority" for over flights one or two days before the Oct. 14 picture of Russian missiles was made.

President Kennedy's national security assistant, McGeorge Bundy, settled the deadlock by arranging for SAC to handle U2 flights.

"The very first flight thereafter produced the evidence that triggered the face-down crisis," the magazine said.

"The magazine said it was the alleged CIA-SAC dispute — "not bad weather" — that created a gap of two weeks in U.S. over-

flights and "almost enabled" the Russians to complete their missile installations undetected.

The Pentagon spokesman characterized the magazine account as "completely without foundation."

He said there was "no conflict at any time" with CIA. But he said there was a "change of authority" for over flights one or two days before the Oct. 14 picture of Russian missiles was made.

President Kennedy's national security assistant, McGeorge Bundy, settled the deadlock by arranging for SAC to handle U2 flights.

"The very first flight thereafter produced the evidence that triggered the face-down crisis," the magazine said.

"The magazine said it was the alleged CIA-SAC dispute — "not bad weather" — that created a gap of two weeks in U.S. over-

The Town Shop
5th and Main
Free Customer Parking 5th and Klamath Ave.
MORE STYLES ADDED!
DRESS SALE
1/3 to 1/2 Off
And Many Less Than 1/2 Price!

RAIN-OR-SHINE COAT SPECIAL!
another great 61st anniversary buy
944
MEN'S
All weather wonders in lustrous cotton sateen plaids 'n prints or solid cotton poplins. Full rayon lining. Wanted new Bal Roglan model. Sizes 34 to 46.
WOMEN'S
Faintly gleaming cotton 'n acetate really shines when it comes to value! Acetate 'n rayon lined. Black olive, tan. 8 to 18.
Charge It!

PENNEY'S ALWAYS FIRST QUALITY
Great 61st Anniversary
TOMORROW
INCLUDED... an exciting selection of the wanted new tapered models!

FOR A LIMITED TIME ONLY
Towncraft dress shirts reduced!

REGULAR 3.25, 2.98 NOW
Combed cotton oxfords, broadcloths... pima cotton broadcloths! All available in your pick of collar styles.
2 FOR $5

REGULAR 3.98... NOW
Luxury 2-ply pima cotton broadcloths. Oxfords... Dacron® polyester 'n cotton super broadcloths. Wanted fashion detailing!
3 FOR $10

NECKTIE SPECIAL $1
Stripes, underknotts, solids, allover patterns... popular fabrics, colors!

SPECIAL BUY! COTTON WALTZ GOWNS
S,M,L 1.99
A garden of pretty pastel prints. Lots of detailing in the ruffled, belted and loose shift styles. Machine washable.

WOMEN'S SUNRISE ROBE SPECIAL!
sizes $3
10 to 18 3
You'll rise to the occasion, no matter the hour, with this cheerful Dan River duster to toss on. Woven cotton loop-plaid.

SLIP SPECIAL... CRISP NYLON BOUFFANTS
4 to 14 1.66
Detailing you've seen for more! Nylon taffeta undershirts... ruffled 'n laced nylon 'n nylon sheer overshirts.

SPECIAL BUY GAY COTTON 'JAMAS!
4 to 14 1.88
Bright 'n girly Sanforized® cotton all dotted, checked or appliqued! Scoop 'em by the armful! Favorite colors!

EASY CARE GIRLS' COTTON 'N RAYON BUYS!
2 to 14 4 for $1
Quick-care panties machine wash 'n wear flannels and reverse twists... that need little or no ironing! Popular University Grad or Boulevard models in charcoal, grey, brown or olive.

58-Pc. "Stainless" Serves 8! New Iced-Drink Spoons!
Special 9.88
Penney's own "Nassau" stainless steel flatware by International Silver Co.! Needs no polishing! 8 each: serrated knives, forks, salad forks, soup spoons, new iced-drink spoons; 16 teaspoons; 2 tablespoons.

CHARGE IT... It's easier to Pick, easier to Plan, easier to Pay!

TRY IT AT THE LUCCA CAFE
World Famous-Delicious BROASTED CHICKEN
PIZZA PIE
Real Italian Style
Orders to Go, Too
LUCCA CAFE
PHONE TU 4-3276
2354 S. 6th