

JANNY BURK

Woman Safe After Fall Into Well

SANGER, Calif. (UPI) — Mrs. Inez Hiscock, a 50-year-old housewife, walked out into her backyard Tuesday morning to turn off a leaking pump. Suddenly the earth collapsed under her.

Speechless with surprise, she tumbled 20 feet into a dank, slimy well. She had the presence of mind to reach out and grab a projecting board at that level. Armpit-deep in mud, she found her voice and yelled.

But her husband was away on a business trip and no neighbors were within earshot. For 32 hours, she clung to the slippery board in the backyard well, half immersed in mud.

Help came when her employers became concerned; she had missed two days of work. As constable Val Vallez and others approached the house, they saw Mrs. Hiscock's three Siamese cats sitting around the crude hole in the earth.

"I'm fine, I'm okay," the plucky housewife calmly told her rescuers as she was lifted from the well with a rope. A physician at Sanger Hospital, where she was treated for shock and exposure, said she was in "surprisingly good condition."

Vallez found her survival "simply amazing."

Janny Burk Named Queen

BONANZA — Janny Burk, a junior at Bonanza High School, was crowned basketball queen during the half-time ceremonies of the Bonanza-Malin game Feb. 22. She was escorted in to the gym by Eddie Simmons, captain of the basketball team, and crowned by last year's queen, Judy Terpening.

Other attendants and their escorts were Glenda Albert with Wayne LaHoda, Virginia Harris with Fred Dearborn, Linda McFall with Billy Newton, and Kathy Angel with Tommy Seater.

Participating in many school activities, Janny is presently a varsity cheerleader, junior leader of the 4-H Sheep Club, and chairman of the junior-senior banquet. Past positions she has held include class vice president, news reporter, and junior varsity cheerleader.

Book Given To Schools

The American Legion's education and scholarship handbook, "Need A Lift?" containing information about hundreds of college and vocational school scholarships for qualified high school students of this area, has been presented to high school libraries in the city and county by Klamath Falls Post No. 8, American Legion.

This annually revised publication for the 1962-1963 school year is recognized as one of the most complete and up-to-date sources of career and scholarship information in the United States.

Charles Poteet, post commander, stated that thousands of young people have not taken advantage of the generous educational aids which are available due to failure to plan early for their future education.

He mentioned in particular the Junior GI Bill which provides up to $110 per month for four years of educational help for sons and daughters of veterans who lost their lives as the result of military service. Over half the young people eligible for this help have failed to apply.

Parents and students are urged to make use of the copies of "Need A Lift?" provided as a service to the community.

ALFRED A. MONNER

Photographic works by Alfred A. Monner will be displayed at the March exhibit of the Klamath Art Association which opens Sunday, March 3, at the Maple Park Gallery.

Entitled "Images from the Earth," the show will be open to the public without charge from 2 to 5 p.m. and will continue at the same time each Sunday through March 31.

Alfred Monner was born in Portland in 1909 and spent his early years on a homestead and cattle ranch in Central Oregon near South Junction. He returned to Portland with his family in 1923, and after graduation from Washington High School in 1927, he worked at the Portland Public Library. In 1930 he enrolled at Linfield College and the following three years he attended University of Oregon night classes, beginning the serious study of photography.

Monner has been a staff photographer for the Oregon Journal since 1939. In addition to his newspaper work, his photographs have appeared in numerous national and professional magazines including National Geographic, Time, Look, Life, Sunset, and Aperture.

Exhibiting in many juried and invitational exhibitions, Monner has had entries in the United States Information Exhibition, 1957, shown in Europe and Asia; "Photography at Mid-Century," the 10th anniversary at George Eastman House, 1959; Boston Art Festival, 1961; national invitational photography exhibition, Lincoln, Mass., 1962; and in several Oregon photography exhibitions as well as a one man show.

Open Court Bill Rapped By Justices

SALEM (UPI) — Former Oregon Supreme Court Justice James T. Brand said Wednesday a bill to open courtrooms to telecast and broadcasts would violate the constitution as well as disrupt courtroom procedure.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Kessler Cannon, R-Bend, would permit television cameras and microphones in courtrooms subject to rules and regulations issued by the presiding judge.

Cannon, a radio station executive, said such coverage now is permitted in Colorado and Texas.

He said modern-day equipment would make coverage scarcely noticeable. He said telecasting and broadcasting would be at the discretion of the judge, giving ample protection to the dignity of the courtroom and to witnesses or jurors unwilling to be photographed.

Brand said coverage in Texas and Colorado was permitted by judicial regulation, not legislative act. He said the proposed Oregon law would amount to "the legislative department trying to control the conditions of the judicial" in clear violation of the spirit, if not the letter, of constitutional separation of powers.

Brand told the House Judiciary Committee the American Bar Association has reaffirmed Canon 33, which opposes cameras in courtrooms and which is respected in 40 states.

Brand denied the Cannon bill as now written would leave coverage up to a judge.

The former justice also said courtroom coverage would "tend to dramatize" the behavior of judges, jurors, witnesses and attorneys.

"Is there anyone who makes the same talk to 12 men as 100,000?" he asked.

He said newsmen would cover only the "racy" cases, jurors would be "conscious of the fact all the folks back home" were watching, judges would handle the gavel with an extra flourish, and attorneys would lean toward oratory.

Benefit Lunch Set At Store

A benefit spaghetti luncheon with the proceeds to go to the American Cancer Society will be held at the new Oregon Food Store on Shasta Way, during the hours of 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday, according to Dorothy Dickerson, publicity chairman of the Klamath County chapter of the cancer society.

In addition to spaghetti, the bill of fare will include garlic bread, cottage cheese salad, coffee and soft drinks and will be sold for 25 cents per plate. Salesmen of the various products will cook and serve the luncheon.

Visits Teacher

Mrs. May Sullivan of Spring Lake Road is spending a few days in Red Bluff with daughter Maureen (Sister Mary Terence) a teacher at Mercy Academy, where she graduated some time ago.

The young teacher graduated from Sacred Heart High School.

Taylor Wins Essay Prize

LAKEVIEW—Jim Taylor, Lakeview High School senior, was the winner of first place in the Americanism essay contest sponsored by the American Legion and will receive a prize of $5. His essay will also be entered in state competition which offers $35 for first place and $20 for second.

Jim is the ward of Mr. and Mrs. Burt Amos of Lakeview, and is a brother of Mrs. Amos. He has made his home with the family since the death of his parents when he was a small child.

A second place prize of $3 went to Nancy Lantz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lantz, Route 1, Lakeview. Lonnie Schadler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schadler of Adel, was the third place winner, with a prize of $2.

The title of the essay was "Americanism TNT - Today Not Tomorrow" and was open to both senior and junior divisions of the high school. There were no entries in the junior division here, and 26 papers were judged in finals of the senior section, all of whom were from members of the senior class.

Talks Dated On Security

Information on Social Security status will be given to the public at four meetings to be held in Klamath County during March, by Wilbur Womer, manager of the local Social Security District.

The talks will be of especial interest to those eligible for retirement, survivors and disability benefits, with emphasis on farm families.

Meetings are scheduled for March 5 in the Bonanza High School Gymnasium, March 7 and 11, Klamath County Fairgrounds and March 14 at the Gilchrist First Methodist Church. The same subject will be presented at each meeting. Time is 8 p.m.

All present Social Security laws are two years old. The last changes were in 1961.

The meetings are sponsored by the Oregon State Extension Service.

Womer began his work with Social Security in the accounting office in 1939 in Baltimore, transferred to Olympia, Wash., in 1941, to Seattle in 1945 and to Klamath Falls.

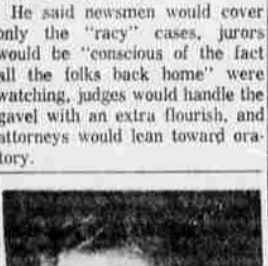

Social Security is now serving 4,050 persons in Klamath County with a total of $287,000 per month.

Gifts Okayed By Society

High Sugar Price Blamed On Kennedy Control Program By Democrat Leader

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Democratic congressional farm leader said today the American housewife could blame the Kennedy administration for the recent boost in sugar prices.

Chairman Harold D. Cooley, D-N.C., of the House Agriculture Committee said the United States faces a long period of high sugar prices unless Congress revamps the sugar control program pushed through Congress by the administration last summer.

He said the prices American refiners must pay for raw sugar had risen one-half cent a pound since the program was adopted, reaching a 24-year high of 6.9 cents on the New York market Tuesday.

Cooley said he and his committee were subjected to "a barrage of propaganda, criticism, slanted newspaper articles, cartoons and pressure" because they fought against passage of the administration bill.

Therefore, he said, he would sponsor legislation to junk the administration's program and protect the American consumer "only when those who got us into this mess indicate clearly that they now see the error of their ways."

Under the administration-sponsored program, the U.S. Treasury benefits when world sugar prices are below U.S. prices. The new program permits the government to take advantage of the lower price in the purchase of a part of the foreign sugar this country needs. The Treasury pockets the price differential.

Under the old system, which Cooley favors and to which he wants to return, U.S. sugar purchases were parceled out among foreign suppliers through a system of marketing quotas. Under this system, the foreign producer enjoyed a "price premium" when the U.S. price was higher than the world market price.

However, and this was Cooley's central point, the old system provided that when world market prices were higher than the U.S. market price the foreign supplier was required to deliver sugar at the lower U.S. price or else suffer loss of part or all of his usually lucrative marketing quota.

When the administration-sponsored law was enacted last July, the price of sugar on the world market was 2.5 cents a pound below the U.S. price. Since then, the world price has skyrocketed, largely because of poor harvests in Europe, Cuba and elsewhere. The world price now is slightly higher than the U.S. price.

Cooley said the new law already has cost American consumers $17 million in higher sugar prices. He said the cost will amount to $110 million if prices remain at current levels for the rest of the year. The price differential which the Treasury collected before the world price soared above the U.S. price totaled $9.5 million.
