Seven Made By 'Unblock'

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The "Great Unblock" is strictly of modern origin among bridge classic hands. At least no one even heard of it until about 25 years ago.

It is definitely contract bridge and there is no reason why North and South should not bid seven hearts with their fine cards.

It is also a most unusual double dummy problem in that every play made by South on a double dummy basis should also be made if he actually ran into the hand in actual play.

Once dummy's ace of clubs holds the first trick, South can make seven hearts against any combination of adverse cards. He should note that the jack of clubs and queen of spades are just window dressing and that his whole problem is to find a way to unblock the diamond suit.

In order to do this he must discard a diamond on dummy's ace of clubs. Then he comes to his own hand with a trump and ruffs a low spade. This leaves dummy with only three trumps. Back to his own hand with another trump and a ruff of the queen of spades leaves South with only one trump while South retains two in his own hand.

He leads a trump to his hand and discards the ace of diamonds on his last trump. Then he discards the king of diamonds on his ace of spades and has completed the great unblock.

Radiation Study Set

A new radiation research center that will be the key facility in future high level radioactivity research in Oregon has been started at Oregon State University.

The $750,000 center also will be used to train advanced students in the fields of nuclear engineering, nuclear sciences, and radiation health. President James H. Jensen pointed out. A tremendous need exists for such highly-trained workers, he added.

Oregon State's efforts in radiation research date back 15 years when the chemistry department started work with radioisotope labeled compounds as tracers.

Now, there are about 50 research projects underway on campus involving radioactive materials or radiation effects. They include studies on sterilization by radiation of meat and seafood, insect resistance to chemicals, radiation resistant bacteria, effects of radiation on the nervous system, and use of radioisotopes as a research tool in biological sciences, agriculture, forestry, physical sciences, engineering, etc.

Pope Pius XIII Statue Ready

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Vatican sources said today a statue of Pope Pius XII will be placed in St. Peter's Basilica within a few weeks.

The late pope stated in his will that no monuments should be built for him. But Pope John XXIII has decided to go against his predecessor's request, the sources said.

A statue of Pope Pius has been completed. Workmen already have started installing the marble base in a chapel near the entrance to St. Peter's Basilica.

Seven Minor Leads Filled For 'Eliza' Show April 4-5

A shoe salesman who takes the part of an Indian squaw and the owner of a grocery who plays the role of a minister head a list of seven performers who have won minor leads in the musical stage production, "Eliza and the Lumberjack," scheduled for viewing on the evenings of April 4 and 5, at the OTI Little Theatre, according to Ellen Miller, show director.

Casting of the minor leads for the Intercommunity Hospital benefit musical follows the announcement of those selected for the lead roles, which occurred several weeks ago.

Liliwuan, an Indian squaw, will be played by Mrs. Al Brock, 4819 Clinton Avenue. Mrs. Brock, a saleswoman at Gene's Men's Store has had previous experience in the local Klamath Civic Theatre productions which include: "Lo and Behold," "Blithe Spirit," "Two Blind Mice" and "The Whole Town's Talking."

The Reverend Warner will be played by Mrs. Jean Coddington, 1343 McClellan Drive. Mrs. Coddington is a housewife who has a background of experience in high school productions.

The portrayal of Mrs. Berg will be assumed by Mrs. William Bradshaw, 1965 Portland Street. Mrs. Bradshaw is a housewife with four children. She has also been active in the Klamath Civic Theatre in such productions as: "Madam President," "Mousetrap," "Tender Trap," "He's All Right," and "Man in the Dog Suit."

Mrs. Lester Hinton, Ite, 3, Box 318, is to be Mrs. McVay. A native of Corvallis, Mont., Mrs. Hinton's stage experience has been in high school productions.

Lorraine Johnson, 1023 Eldorado Avenue, who originally turned out to help paint scenery, was channeled into the part of Mrs. Haworth. Although Mrs. Johnson has no acting background, she has extensive art experience. Her paintings have been exhibited locally and in San Francisco and Portland. A charter member of the Klamath Art Association, she has specialized in painting Crater Lake and the Lava Beds.

Combined bit parts of the logger and a Chinese cook went to Bob Davenport, 407 Main Street. Davenport was a four-year member of the capella choir under Andrew Loney and a two-year member of the Oregon State University Chorale. "The catchy tunes within the show give it the potential of another 'Brigadoon' or 'Oklahoma.'" Davenport stated.

The musical, written by Mrs. Helen C. Davis of South Bend, Wash., and based on the novel

Jean Coates, Yreka, received the den mother's training award and other den mothers present were given achievement awards.

Special appreciation certificates were presented to Bob Stever, Yreka, and Percy Lindt, Dunsuir, for work in finance; to Ralph Richards, Yreka, and Bob Stone, Fort Jones, commissioners; and to Verne Taylor, Yreka, and Martin Webb, Yreka, for leadership training.

Paul Raymond, president of the PTA in Etna, was master of ceremonies and Rev. Max Aiken, Yreka, dinner chairman.

Eagle Scouts introduced at the dinner were Tom Campbell and Albert Wilson, Dunsuir, and Dennis Lutra, Yreka.

Court Slated For Sex Cases

PORTLAND (UPI) — Dist. Atty. George Van Hoimissen said Wednesday that all sex offense cases in the county involving children under 16 would be prosecuted in circuit court.

He said he ordered the action, which was recommended by the Legislative Interim Committee on Social Problems, to avoid delays in prosecution and to protect child witnesses from having to testify in more than one court hearing.

New Officers Take Over Positions In Chiloquin Chamber Of Commerce

CHILOQUIN—New officers of the chamber of commerce officiated at a busy session of the chamber Feb. 25 in the Masonic Hall, including Frank Ohlund, president; Clarence Jennings, vice president; Dibbon Cook, secretary and Ron Harrison, treasurer.

The board of directors includes Dwight Kircher, Aubrey Starkey, Opal Doak, Al Samples. Retiring secretary Gleta Wampler was honored. Mrs. Wampler was cited for her excellent record of dedicated work for the chamber.

Benefits of the Inter-Community Presbyterian Hospital to the Chiloquin area were the pertinent information was given by Dwight Kircher.

A meeting on the hospital to discuss accreditation is scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday, March 5, in the Masonic Hall when Ross Ragland, president of the Inter-Community Hospital Board and others will be present to speak. The entire community of northern Klamath County, Chiloquin, Fort Klamath, Sprague River and Chemult, is invited to be present to hear plans and to ask questions on any phase of the plan, vital to this area.

Dwight Kircher and Dibbon Cook have been named as chairman and co-chairman for this area. The chamber of commerce will pay for use of the hall for the meeting.

Aubrey Starkey and Roger Wright will represent the chamber at city council meetings. The chamber has appointed a committee to act as liaison group between the chamber and the council including: Frank Ohlund, finance, welcoming, advertising and promotion; Ron Harrison, membership; Dwight Kircher, industry and merchants; Al Samples, "Clean Up Chiloquin"; Dibbon Cook, museum; Opal Doak, dinner and program; A. Starkey, representative to the council and civic improvements; Clarence Jennings, recreational development; Jim Rogers, housing.

Mrs. Gleta Wampler reported on results of letters sent to the governors of all the states requesting trees or shrubbery to landscape the new Chiloquin High School grounds. Twenty three replies to the 50 letters sent have been received.

Oregon Gov. Mark Hatfield has pledged needed help. Kentucky will send four sturdy oak trees, Washington will send a tree and other states have asked for more information.

Texas pledged poverty. Dr. Robert Kerwood, a Texan, will write the governor of the big state and offer to pay for a tree. Relatives of Mrs. Roger Wright live in Texas, and they will ask the governor, "How Come?"

The State Highway Department is doing research on paints to use on the Indian symbols imbedded on highway bridges across Sprague River. Red, derived from native clays is the only color the Klamath used. Sketches of Indian hieroglyphics are to be followed for authenticity.

Mud Control Bill Asked

SALEM (UPI) — Fishing and recreation interests asked today for a bill to give the State Sanitary Authority the job of controlling mudiness in the Rogue River caused by mining.

Mining interests replied the Rogue River Coordination Board is on "the right track," but should be enlarged from three to five members and given more authority.

They testified on a Senate bill to abolish the Rogue River Coordination Board, a referee panel with a fishing member, a mining member, and a member at large.

E.J. Schneider of Agness, the fishing member, told the Senate Natural Resources Committee he favors abolishing the board. He said he is the board's "minority member."

Schneider showed the committee chunks of dried soil he said were taken from rocks in the river and asked, "how can salmon eggs hatch out when there is soil that deep?"

Curry County Dist. Atty. Robert L. Miller said mines were filling the river with chemicals and silt, hurting fishing and tourism.

He said the board has been ineffectual in "keeping the fishing industry in balance with the mining industry."

Fayette I. Bristol of the Grants Pass Chamber of Commerce and the Oregon Mining Association replied it would be a mistake to do away with the board.

He said gold mining is a dormant industry "of very important future economic value to our area."

Bristol said mining problems must be dealt with by "people that are local, familiar with the problem, mature enough to talk with the mining industry and with fishermen." The SSA, he said, has been very "frustrating" to work with.

Bristol said the present board should be given more members and more powers.

O & C Feud Opens Anew

SALEM (UPI) — An old feud between the counties that get O & C funds and those that don't resumed here Wednesday.

Rep. Stafford Hansell told the House Education Committee it is time for O & C money to be taken into account in handing out state equalization money for school districts.

Darrell Jones of the O & C Counties Association replied the state might endanger the federal receipts if it meddled with county use of them. He was critical of Hansell's ideas on measuring county wealth.

The O & C funds, estimated at $14 million this year, go to 17 Western Oregon counties, a 4th Klamath County for timber taken from strips of land once granted to the Oregon & California Railroad Co. The amounts per county range from more than $2.5 million to less than $100,000.

The equalization money—20 percent of what the state contributes to schools—is handed out on the basis of bringing education in poorer counties up to a par with richer ones. The poorer counties get more.

The wealth, or lack of it, is measured in terms of true cash value and special funds—but not O & C funds.

Hansell proposed to start by taking 25 percent of O & C funds into consideration in allocating school equalization money.

The Hermiston Republican said, however, "after six long, dry years" of arguing he would be happy just to get the principle established at a lower percentage.

Jones replied most of the O & C funds were used by the counties to build access roads to get at the timber that provides the money. He said O & C funds were a poor indicator of county wealth.

Jones said Congress could decide to withdraw or reduce the O & C payments to counties. He said a change in the way they are considered on the state level would be foolish.

Suit Talked By Airman

OGDEN, Utah (UPI) — Former Airman Gerald M. Anderson said today he probably would file a suit against the federal government within 10 days in connection with his recent lengthy confinement on murder charges.

The 25-year-old Anderson, reconciled with his wife, Jane, and working for a local landscaping firm, said he plans to sue the Air Force for "false arrest, imprisonment, libel, slander and defamation of character."

The San Diego native was given a discharge from the Air Force on Jan. 30, one day after military charges were dropped against him in the slaying of a Mountain Home, Idaho airman's wife and son.

The former Air Force enlisted man was held by military authorities for several months on murder charges after civilian authorities released Anderson when another man confessed to the double-slaying.

The one Christmas plant native to America is the poinsettia.

GETTING IN TUNE — Members of the Klamath Union High School Symphonic Band are practicing right up to the wire before the "Pops" Concert performance March 5 at Pelican Court. LaMar K. Jensen, director, has scheduled a wide range of offerings from semi-classical to jazz. Tickets are available only at the door.

Poulshock Solo Slated For KU 'Pops' Concert

Mrs. Normand Poulshock, an outstanding local soprano, has been named guest soloist for the "Pops" Concert, which is presented annually by the Klamath Union High School Symphonic Band.

Mrs. Poulshock came to Klamath Falls from Los Angeles three years ago and has been very popular in musical circles, having provided many programs for lodges, service clubs and other community organizations. She makes her home at Rocky Point with her husband and three youngsters. Mr. Poulshock is an instructor in the Music Department of the city school system.

The Symphonic Band, under the direction of LaMar K. Jensen, is considered one of the outstanding music organizations of its kind in the Pacific Northwest. The band received the rating of "superior plus" at the Southern Oregon District Contest and Music Festival held last March and also was cited for special recognition and a plaque for being the outstanding band in the contest.

The band will offer an exciting program of light semi-classical music to popular show tunes and jazz in a real atmosphere of gaiety and relaxation. Cabaret tables will be available for those who wish to have soft drinks served, and reservations for tables should be made by telephone to the music department office, TU 4-7489. An admission charge of 50 cents will be made, to go in the music department's general operating fund.

The concert will be held at Pelican Court, KUHS, March 5, at 8 p.m. Tickets will be available only at the door.
