

Dunsmuir Recreation Commission Meets Despite Legality Confusion

DUNSMUIR — The Dunsmuir Recreation Commission, despite confusion over its legality, conducted business as usual at its March meeting Tuesday in the city council chambers.

Ivan Young, chairman, reported he had conferred by phone with Elmer Aldrich, chief, state division of recreation, who had sent him copies of the 1957 legislation specifying recreation districts were supposed to file affidavits of reorganization by Jan. 1, 1962. The Dunsmuir Recreation Commission has no record of receiving this notice.

The 1957 legislation provides that any recreation district which does not elect to come under provision of the new act shall be considered as organized and operating under the new act automatically. But according to statutes on file in the office of Howard Jones, city attorney, this legislation was amended in 1959 with provisions that recreation districts not complying by July 1, 1962, would cease to exist.

Young said neither Aldrich nor the division legal adviser, a Mr. Ball, seemed to know anything about this amendment, but the whole matter has been referred to the attorney general and Aldrich assured Young he had every reason to believe there would be a ruling favorable to the district.

IRS Desires Clear Name

When you mail that check or money order for federal taxes, be sure Uncle Sam doesn't have to guess which Joe Smith, or Tom Brown, or Joe Zilch to credit. Or just what tax you want to pay.

A. G. Erickson, director of the Internal Revenue Service for Oregon said today that each year he receives many payments that are not properly identified.

As a result, he said, some of the taxpayers involved may not receive proper credit, or payments to their tax accounts may not be recorded until after considerable delay occasioned by checking records or exchanging correspondence.

In some instances, taxpayers may even continue to receive bills for taxes they had sought to pay, he added.

To avoid such pitfalls, Erickson said, persons making payments to the Internal Revenue Service, should observe these "musts":

1. Follow carefully the instructions accompanying each return, bill or notice.

2. Be sure to enclose with your remittance the properly filled out return, or the director's copy of the bill or notice as indicated. It is best to attach these to your check or money order.

3. Where your account number is given, enter it on your check.

4. Print your name and address legibly wherever called for.

5. Be sure you mail your remittance to the proper Internal Revenue office.

Also pointed out was that some 985,000 tax returns of various types, for income taxes, excise, employment, social security, etc., are filed in the Oregon District each year.

The district director said that while his office makes every effort to match up identified payments promptly with the proper accounts, considerable delay is bound to result for many of these cases during the income tax filing period, because of the large number of returns filed.

Ex-Conductor Pleads Guilty

SALEM (UPI) — Heimo V. Hatto, former conductor of the Capitol Symphony Orchestra, pleaded guilty in Circuit Court today to obtaining money under false pretenses.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered.

Hatto pleaded guilty to cashing a $45 bad check at a Salem store. Police said they have reports there are an additional $4,000 in bad checks outstanding against him.

Hatto's attorneys said he wants to pay the money back.

4-H Pledge Renewed During National Club Week

"... For my club, my community and my country," are the concluding words of the 4-H pledge which 4-H club members from coast-to-coast will say with renewed vigor during the observance of National 4-H Club Week, March 2-8. Over 800 Klamath County club members and 125 adult volunteer leaders will join the 2,285,000 youth across the nation in this annual emphasis on 4-H accomplishments and achievements.

As 4-H'ers pledge their Head to clearer thinking, their Heart to greater loyalty, their Hands to larger service, and their Health to better living, they are reminded that they are a part of a local county, state, national and international movement in youth education. The broad horizons of the total 4-H program offer many opportunities in community service, international understanding, exchange of ideas with pen pals and participation in the International Farm Youth Exchange (IFYE) program and the 4-H Peace Corps.

As the "Heart-H" of 4-H introduces club members to new horizons in citizenship, the "Head" and "Hands" "H" inspire club members to show the concern for others in an active way. As a part of this active concern for citizenship, the 4-H program began participation in 1956 in President Eisenhower's People to People program. Local clubs are urged to participate in this program by including international emphasis programs in the club plan of work, supporting the IFYE program, cooperating with local programs of international emphasis and writing to a 4-H pen pal in other countries. Study of foreign countries is also urged.

On an individual basis, older 4-H club members are encouraged to participate in the IFYE program, a project for selected youth between 20 and 30 years of age from the United States who live and work with families in other countries for four to six months. Youth from other countries similarly participate in this exchange program. The IFYE project is dedicated to the belief that understanding people is the foundation of world peace.

The IFYE program began in 1948 and since that time 60 countries have participated in the exchange program. Upon their return to the United States IFYE exchangees report to their home state about their experiences. In 1961 Oregon began in the IFYE program and to date 30 Oregon delegates have participated.

Recently, a 4-H Peace Corps project has been added to the international outreach of the 4-H program. The National 4-H Foundation is currently under contract to administer the Peace Corps Volunteers developing rural youth 4-H programs in Brazil and Venezuela. There are currently a total of 91 volunteers in the two 4-H projects.

CARE, a non-profit, government approved, cooperative agency for person-to-person international assistance is also supported by the 4-H program. The 4-H CARE program channels 4-H contributions into "self-help" tools, aiding in the establishment and strengthening of 4-H types of programs in other countries.

The 4-H Dahomey Farm School Scholarship program, the Christian Rural Overseas Program, the Heifer Project and the United Nations Children's Fund are other projects of international outlook that the 4-H program has and is continuing to support.

The 4-H program thus aids the efforts being made to bring about greater world understanding.
