Ella Redkey Named Woman Of Achievement

Quota Club of Klamath County honored Ella Redkey as Woman of Achievement for 1963 at its annual dinner meeting Tuesday, March 5, in the Pelican Party Room.

Decorations for the banquet were international with dolls of several countries and small flags at individual places. Flowers were pink carnations and red tulips with the arrangement at the head table flanked by tall silver candleholders holding pink tapers.

The meeting, attended by representatives of women's groups and Quota friends, opened with the invocation by Lorene Guyer, followed by the welcome by Shirley Soran, Quota Club president. A Salute to Quota was given by Eva Dickson.

Presentation of Ella Redkey as this year's honored woman, was made by Nina Nyback, who told the meeting without arousing her suspicion.

Featured speaker was Mrs. "Ima Woman" (Joyce Riker) whose topic was A Real Lively Art taken from Peg Bracken's latest book, "I Hate To Housekeep."

Mrs. Riker was dressed for her role as professional woman speaker in all-black, large pearl choker, cloche hat and rimmed glasses.

The meeting concluded with a bon voyage gift and best wishes to Helen Goeckner, who left Wednesday morning with her mother, Mrs. Mae Anderson for a trip to the Hawaiian Islands.

The meeting concluded with the Quota Collect.

No need to handle the handles of spring purses with too much care. They're rugged, made of wood, shell, bamboo, and metal. For more swing and strut, some purses have handles made of small segments of these materials joined by chain links.
